Grain Dealer List Names 4 D. C. Men Among 771

Pauley Holdings Also Reported; Market Shows Drop After Publication

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson gave the country a peek at the names of big dealers in the grain and commodity markets yesterday.

In a preliminary list of 881 names—many duplications—that the Commodity Exchange Authority made public, only one Government official or employe appeared—Edwin W. Pauley, special assistant to Secretary of the Army Royall.

Also on the list was Ralph K. Davies, former deputy petroleum coordinator during the war, and, like Pauley, a California oilman.

Holdings as of October 31

The lists revealed that Pauley was owner of 300,000 bushels of oats and 300,000 pounds of cottonseed oil on October 31—almost two months after he took his present position.

On October 31, 1946, he was listed as owner of 240,000 bushels of oats futures.

Davies' holdings on October 31 were 300,000 pounds of cottonseed oil. On October 31, 1946, while he was still with the Government, Davies held 200,000 bushels of oats. He left his Government office December 21, 1946.

Publication of the list was marked by a wide break in the grain markets. In Chicago December corn broke the full 8 cents permitted in one day's trading. Trading ceased yesterday in all December contracts, and outstanding contracts may now be settled only by delivery of the actual grain.

Wheat Closes Lower

Wheat closed 3 to 5¾ cents lower. December oats, early in the day set a new all-time high record for any oats future at $1.29¾. But later it broke with futures closing from a cent to 4⅛ cents lower.

Market experts at the Agriculture Department are watching trading volume, to see what effect publication of the names of speculators will have. Some predict that the publicity may scare many out of the market.

Three other Washington names were on the list. They were Dyke Cullum, Louis Schwartz and Ray A. Graham, jr.

Cullum is president of the National Commodity Corporation, formed last February as a commodity exporting firm. He is now in Chicago, his office reported, opening a branch there and arranging for the purchase of a commodity warehouse.

He was listed as holding 250,000 bushels of wheat futures and 480,000 pounds of cottonseed oil.

Schwartz is listed as "long" 470,000 bushels of wheat and short 515,000 bushels. (A "long" is a buyer of futures; a "short" is a seller). He also was listed as "long" 495,000 bushels of oats, and "short" 355,000; and "long" 435,000 bushels of corn and "short" 310,000 bushels.

Graham was listed as "long" in October, 1946, 42,300 bales (500 pounds to a bale) of cotton, and "short" 43,000 bales. He doesn't appear on this year's list.

To Publish Other Lists

Additional lists will be made public from time to time, Anderson announced, until a full list ranging up to probably 20,000 names, many duplicated in the various markets, is revealed.

Last night the department was considering the advisability of printing the entire list. In that case it may be after the first of the year before more names are published.

The extent of the growth of trading was shown in the list published yesterday. On October 31, 1946, only 66 speculators and 154 hedging accounts reported their dealings of sufficient size to require a statement from the traders.

This year on October 31, it had jumped to 230 "big time" speculators and 261 hedgers.

Jordan on Cotton List

One interesting name on the list of cotton speculators was Thomas Jordan of New Orleans, who was shown on October 31 as "long" 40,200 bales of cotton and "short" 16,800.

It was Jordan's operations that caused a collapse of the cotton market about a year ago. Cotton exchanges were closed for several days until Jordan's over-extended accounts were liquidated, and an orderly market resumed.

Jordan at one time was em-

PATSY SHEEHAN
At 4, she's credited with saving life

Four-year-old Patsy Sheehan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Sheehan, 2720 Ordway st. nw., became a heroine yesterday by pulling a 5-year-old playmate from a 4-foot-deep pond.

William McKenney, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. McKenney of 2726 Ordway st. nw., saw some mighty tempting ice in the pond in the yard of Lord E. Dudley at 2739 Macomb st. nw. Young Billy climbed a fence to get it, and fell in.

As the mothers later related the incident, Patsy went over after him, and hauled him out by the collar. Unable to get him back over the fence, she held him until a neighbor came to the rescue.

Convict of 22 Years Started on Road to Freedom by Ruling

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

Tony Marino—who brought his own case to the Supreme Court after he served 22 years of a life term—was on his way to freedom last night.

The court ruled for Marino yesterday in short order. Three of the justices then gave the State of Illinois a scalding dressing-down for the way Marino—and many other prisoners—are treated.

Marino came to American from Sicily, where his parents are still living. He was just 17 years old at the time, 1924, and a friend of the family in Chicago was a sponsor for him.

When Marino had been here about a year, Charles E. Patterson, the 77-year-old caretaker of the G.A.R. Hall in South Beloit, Ill., was killed. The Sicilian boy was blamed for it. Detective Daniel Torrisi picked him up in Beloit, Wis., and hauled him off to Rockford, Ill., without a removal hearing.

That was on February 28, 1925, when Marino was a little over 18 years old. He could not speak, read or understand English, and he says he could not write his name in any language. He knew nothing about our courts or our law. On April 17, 1925, he was indicted for murder.

Marino told the justices he was kept in a solitary cell until he was taken to court on April 21, to be arraigned. On April 23, the record shows that the court explained to him the effect of pleading guilty. Marino couldn't understand the judge—who spoke English—so the explanation was translated for him—by Torrisi, the detective who picked him up, and another man who spoke Italian. On this day there appeared in the file a waiver of jury trial and admission of guilt

PUC Gives Approval

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

Telephone bills for District telephone users are going up on January 11.

This is the effect of an order handed down yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia. It adds two million dollars a year to telephone bills.

Highlights of how the increased rates, which the Cresapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. had requested September 29, will affect the average user are:

1. An individual, unlimited residence phone bill will go up from $4.20 to $4.75 per month. Two-party unlimited service goes up from $3.50 to $4 per month.

2. Business service charges on individual message rate basis will be increased, with the rate going from $5.50, with 110 messages for the first trunk, to $6.00 with 100 messages.

3. Charges for service connections or moves in telephone instruments will go up from $2.50 to $3.50 for a residence main station, and from $3.50 to $5.00 for a business main station.

The overall effect of the PUC order will be to add a total of $2,018,000 to telephone company rates annually. Of this total, $1,209,000 will come from additional charges on business telephone service, and $809,000 will come from additional charges on residence service.

In addition to the hiked rates,

Appeal to Be Filed

Court Dismisses Negro Girl's Suit to Enter White School

A suit by a Negro girl for admission to a white junior high school was dismissed in District Court yesterday.

Associate Justice Alexander Holtzoff threw out the suit by Marguerite Daisy Carr, a 13-year-old student at the Negro Browne Junior High School.

Attorney Leon A. Ransom, who represented the girl through her father, James C. Carr, sr., 4233 Clay st. ne., said that an appeal will be filed in a few days.

The Carr suit said that Marguerite, a parttime student at Browne, was refused a transfer to Eliot Junior High School which offered fulltime instruction.

Justice Holtzoff said that it is "not open for this court" to determine whether segregated schools are authorized by Congress. His court, he said, was bound by previous rulings by the District Court of Appeals that such statutes are in effect.

The justice said that the court had no authority to review the administration of schools delegated to the Board of Education in the Organization Act of 1906 unless there was evidence that legal authority was exceeded or that the administration was arbitrary.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Milton D. Korman, representing the Board of Education and Dr. Hobart M. Corning, superintendent of schools, argued that part-time instruction is not confined to Negro schools. He also outlined efforts of the board to secure additional schools for Negro children.

U.S. Requires Competition, Truman Told

Economists Warn High Production Is Sustained by 'Artificial Props'

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

The President's Council of Economic Advisers warned yesterday that America's present high industrial activity "by no means" indicates that we are "in a stable equilibrium of a high production economy."

Instead, it declared that the current near-maximum production exists only because of a "whole group of rather abnormal circumstances."

These abnormal factors — accumulated deficiencies from the war and the preceding depression, high military expenditures, and foreign aid—may serve to maintain full employment and high production through 1948 or even longer, the council said.

But after these "artificial props" have vanished, it said, many new and changed policies must come into operation if economic stabilization at a high level is to be maintained.

Among these "salutary policies," the council declared, "none is so significant as the achievement and maintenance of real price competition, which means the lowest price consistent with a fair return in a stable economy, rather than the highest price that the traffic will bear in an unstable economy."

Long-range Picture

The council's findings were made public in its second annual report to the President. The council consists of Edwin G. Nourse, chairman; Leon H. Keyserling and John D. Clark.

The document avoided comment on the immediate economic scene, making no reference to the President's current anti-inflation program, or price and production trends in the next few months.

Instead, it was concerned with the long-range picture. Although it did not say it in so many words, the general effect of the report was to portray grave misgivings about the future.

Underlying the report was concern with present price policies and what it called the "profits" motive of business. This has, "in somewhat alarming ways," come to replace the profit motive, the report said.

The Council explained: "The evolution of our industrial society has brought about conditions in which the attempt to protect the individual company and its shareholders results in widespread disaster to other companies and prolonged depression of the economy as a whole . . .

"The operation of the protective motive produces restrictionism from the side of management which is far-reaching as an impediment to maximum production over the long run."

Working Longer Not Answer

The council sharply attacked the prevalent notion that "production, more production, and still more production" was the answer to current problems of inflation, high living costs and the threat of recession.

Its condemnation also included the corollary idea that the work week should be lengthened to 44 or 48 hours.

Working longer will not end present shortages, it was pointed out. And while relief to business

Call Up Thousands Of Troops to Resist Red Assault Due 'In Matter of Days'

London, Dec. 22 (AP).—A Greek spokesman said today his government is bolstering hurriedly its military and civilian forces to meet a Communist-led guerilla offensive expected in the northern provinces "in a matter of days."

He said a new call-up of thousands of troops and formation of a 50,000-man home guard, have been ordered with American sanction.

He charged Yugoslavia, Albania, Bulgaria "and now Rumania, too," would support the guerilla offensive with Yugoslav support.

2d Bargaining Election In Year Is Denied

The National Labor Relations Board yesterday invoked for the first time the Taft-Hartley law provision which limits representation elections to one a year in a bargaining unit.

The five-member board ruled unanimously in dismissing the petition of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL) for an election at the plant of Lehrolite, Inc., Wallingford, Conn.

The board said that the rival CIO union, United Electrical Workers, had won an election at the plant last January 31, and less than a year has elapsed since then.

Husband Held for Grand Jury In 'Lipstick' Slaying Case

A six-man coroner's jury yesterday held George A. Austin responsible for the fatal shooting of his 24-year-old wife, and bound him over for action of a grand jury.

The jury returned its decision after deliberating less than 15 minutes.

The dead woman, Mrs. Virginia A. Austin, State Department clerk, was found shot through the head early Sunday morning at the couple's home, 1340 7th st. nw. Her lifeless body lay slumped in a chair. Two bullets from a .45-caliber pistol were found embedded in the room's woodwork.

Austin, 25-year-old truck driver for Cowan Transfer Co. here, did not testify at yesterday's inquest.

District Coroner Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald heard testimony for an hour from police assigned to the case; Austin's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Grattan, to whom he fled after the shooting; her roomer, Robert E. Lee, and Miss Ola Stephan, Mrs. Austin's supervisor at the State Department.

Testifying from a report prepared by Detective Sergt. George Cook, who investigated, Detective Sergt. A. D. Clark of the police homicide squad told of the account Austin gave police after his arrest early Sunday.

The shooting is believed to have occurred around midnight, although no specific testimony was brought out on this.

Clark said Austin had told police officers that after he returned from his sister's house to his home, his wife had argued with him about a lipstick smear on his cheek. Austin said his sister had kissed him when he left her in front of his apartment.

Clark quoted Austin as saying he had brought a .45 caliber Colt back to the apartment, after taking it to Mrs. Grattan's residence at 29 Rhode Island ave. nw., where Lee cleaned it.

Austin told police his wife came

Two Bodies Found in Rubble Of Collapsed Empire Building

By V. R. Montanari
Post Reporter

Bodies of two men were removed from the rubble of the partly collapsed Empire Building yesterday, six days after the disaster. The bodies were identified as those of:

Ernest Dorsey, 44, a resident of Apartment 21, on the fourth floor.

Joseph Smith, 70, of Apartment 52.

With three residents now known to be dead and a fourth, Mrs. K. B. Van Sickler, 79, a resident of Apartment 32, fifth floor, still missing, wreckers continued the work of digging away tons of masonry. The seven-story structure is on the southwest corner of New York ave. and 9th st. nw.

The first body removed was identified as that of Mr. Dorsey by his brother, Wilbur Dorsey. Al Chisholm, a rigger for the Pines Wrecking Co., saw a foot and a leg protruding from the wreckage of the collapsed apartments at the second floor level about 11:50 a. m. Excavation was halted until Deputy Coroner Christopher J. Murphy arrived. He told Murray T. Shipp, president of the wrecking company, to go ahead if it was safe to do so.

About 10 minutes after the first discovery, Shipp saw the legs of the second body about 10 feet from the first and 6 or 8 feet lower. It was identified as that of Smith by his son, Dr. Chester R. Smith.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald and Deputy Coroner Richard Rosenberg arrived before the body of Dorsey was taken out a first-floor window. Shipp estimated his workmen had to remove 25 feet of building material which had rested on top of the body, and about 6 feet of rubble between the building wall and the body.

The body of Smith was taken down the fire escape on the second floor at 3 p. m. and lowered on a stretcher by one of the two cranes used in the salvage work.

Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young said that the two apartment dwellers possibly died from suffocation if not from the fall of the structure.

Relatives of the three missing stood by during the afternoon. Hundreds of spectators lined the north sidewalk of New York ave. Smith's son, a dentist, said his mother knew her husband was missing and had felt all along that he was dead. She is in Emergency Hospital in critical condition from injuries suffered in the building collapse.

Material being taken out of the building was being sent for storage

Acheson Group Asks Action

Vandenberg Is 'Open Minded' On Details of European Plan

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) yesterday threw his full support behind the "general objectives of saving western Europe on a self-help basis" but reserved comment on Marshall Plan details and procedure.

Vandenberg will have nothing to say on the "structure" of the program until Senate hearings are concluded, possibly in late January, he told newsmen.

Former Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson meanwhile told a news conference it will be "disastrous" if Congress fails to vote at least a first installment on the program before March 31.

Acheson said congressional cuts in interim aid to western Europe make action on the Marshall Plan "even more essential than before."

Acting for the Citizens Committee for the Marshall Plan, Acheson in Washington and former Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson in New York issued a four-point statement underscoring quick and effective aid "to do the whole job."

"Open-Minded on Details

In his first formal commitment to European Recovery Program goals, Vandenberg told newsmen:

"I don't want the slightest suggestion that I am not totally in favor of the objectives. "I consider them indispensable from the standpoint of intelligent American self-interest."

Vandenberg said he is "open-minded," however, on how the long-range recovery program should be set up, what amount should be appropriated and how long the authorization should run.

The man who steered interim aid to a unanimous vote and 83-to-6 Senate approval said he "hoped" to conclude Senate Marshall Plan hearings three weeks after they open on January 7, but said that wasn't a forecast.

Lists 26 Measures

Voicing concern over the workload of his Foreign Relations Committee, he said the group is rapidly heading into a "bottleneck" on piling up international measures.

He hinted relief might eventually be sought by amending the Congressional Reorganization Act to provide an enlarged membership.

Listing 26 major international measures considered by his 13-man unit this session, many of which were forced over to the next, he said:

"It is a question of whether our machinery is capable of implementing our responsibilities."

Plans for House hearings on the Marshall Plan, meanwhile, still were incomplete. One House for-

American grain, coal and other relief supplies will be used as anti-inflationary weapons in France and Italy under the terms of bilateral agreements upon to be signed with the United States.

The agreements, due to be signed in Paris and Rome this week, were called for by the Foreign Aid Act under which Congress last week appropriated 540 million dollars as stopgap relief. The French and Italians cannot draw on a dollar of this money until formal agreements with the United States have been signed.

In accordance with the wish of Congress, each country will agree to set aside local currency equivalent to the value of the help received from the United States. The French and Italian governments get some of this money from selling food and fuel to processors and thus to consumers.

Congress did not want these billions of francs and lire turned back into circulation to pay for the salaries of government officials, or for wasteful projects that would add to inflationary pressures abroad. But Congress did not say exactly what was to be done with these funds.

The new agreements specify for the first time that the money shall be used, for the most par, for a net reduction of the internal debt.

Withdrawals Must Be Final

In other words, the recipient countries will agree to withdraw the money entirely from circulation, except for relatively small amounts needed to pay for administering the relief program or for other purposes to be worked out later in agreement with the American Government.

To make sure that the two countries do not print new money to take the place of what they set aside, the agreement provides that withdrawals from circulation shall be "net" or "irrevocable." In the case of Austria, somewhat different language will be used; and as for

Pearce Awarded $1 Damages In Statler False Arrest Suit

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

A District Court jury yesterday awarded Maurice C. Pearce, Justice Department attorney, $1 damages in his false arrest suit against the Hotel Statler and two policemen. Pearce has asked $35,000 damages.

The nine-man, three-woman jury was out nearly four hours before coming up with a decision in the five-day trial.

Besides the hotel, the defendants in the case were Precinct Detective Walter E. Grove, 35, of 1425 Thirty-third st. nw., seven years on the force, and Private Norman L. Richardson, 28, of 831 South Irving st., Arlington, five years with the department. Both are attached to the Third Precinct Station.

Old-timers at court said yesterday that it was the first time a plaintiff in a false arrest case had won even a nominal verdict in at least 20 years.

Pearce, who is 44 and lives at 2403 Observatory pl. nw., charged that he was falsely arrested and imprisoned for seven hours Sunday, February 3, 1946. Pearce was arrested at 3 a. m. in a seventh-floor room of the hotel and charged with being drunk and disorderly.

The case was given over to the jury at 12:30, just before it was sent out to a brief lunch under the escort of a United States marshal. At 4 p. m. the jury reported it was hopelessly deadlocked. With agreement of opposing counsel, Associate Justice Jennings Bailey called out the jury and gave it the "Allen charge," urging the minority to consider carefully the views of the jury majority without surrendering its own true convic-

Team Picked To Conduct Atomic Tests On Eniwetok

Dr. Froman Heads Station Scientists; Joint Task Force To Build Plant

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

The Atomic Energy Commission yesterday announced the establishment of an organization to conduct further tests with atomic weapons at its mid-Pacific proving ground.

It revealed how the Eniwetok testing ground will be run and disclosed the names of the officials who will have charge.

Creation of a new military unit known as Joint Task Force 7 to construct the Eniwetok plant and aid in atomic tests was announced by the commission. This Army-Navy-Air Force group will service and administer the proving ground and provide the ships, planes and troops required for future tests.

Picked Staff From Los Alamos

Scientific and technical operation of the test station, however, will be the responsibility of the AEC. Its staff will be drawn largely from scientists now working at the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory.

Dr. Darol K. Froman, a 41-year-old nuclear physicist who has worked on the Manhattan Project since its early days, will be scientific director of the proving ground. A former University of Denver professor, he also has worked on cosmic rays.

Froman and his staff of scientists will operate under the AEC through Capt. James S. Russell, a Navy flier now on duty with the AEC's division of military application. Russell, a 1926 Annapolis graduate, lives at 1638 Preston rd., Parkfairfax, Va.

Also announced were names of the men who will head the work of Joint Task Force Seven. Secretary of Defense James Forrestal, it was said, named Lieut. Gen. John E. Hull, Army commander in the Pacific, as commander of the group, and appointed six top-ranking Army, Navy and Air Force officers to assist him.

Parsons, Kepner Chosen

Rear Adm. William S. Parsons, the Navy's director of atomic defense, and Maj. Gen. William E. Kepner, chief of the Air Force's special weapons group, will serve as deputy commanders of the task force. Both will continue in their present jobs and take on the new duty as an additional assignment.

Presumably, officials said, they will continue to serve here, going to Eniwetok only for visits or when A-bomb tests are scheduled.

Brig. Gen. Claude B. Ferenbaugh, who has been assigned to duty with Army forces in the Pacific, will be Hull's chief of staff.

Naval units of the task force are under command of Rear Adm. Francis C. Denebrink, it is announced. Denebrink's regular assignment is general inspector of the Pacific Fleet.

Brig. Gen. David A. D. Ogden, commander of a special engineer brigade on the West Coast, will command Army units of the task force. Brig. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, commander of the Eighth Air Force, Ft. Worth, Tex., will command Air Force units under the over-all direction of General Kepner, the announcement said.

Aides to Dr. Froman

Spokesmen for the armed services said these officers will continue to hold their present commands in addition to the special assignment with the task force. Ramey's Eighth Air Force includes the B-29s equipped to carry the A-bomb which dropped the missiles in the Bikini tests.

Assisting Dr. Froman at Eniwetok will be Dr. Alvin C. Graves, as deputy scientific director, and Robert W. Henderson and Dr. John C. Clark, assistant directors. All have been assigned to the Los Alamos Laboratory.

Col. Paul T. Preuss, USAF, also of the AEC's military application division, will be Captain Russell's deputy. A West Point graduate of 1938, he lives at 3216 S. Stafford st., Arlington, Va.

In addition to being the AEC's "agent" for operation of the Eniwetok proving ground, Russell will serve as commander of the "scientific group" of Joint Task Force Seven.

No intimation was given as to when the atomic weapon tests would be held or of what nature they would be.

The announcement said "routine experiments" as well as tests of new weapons will be conducted at Eniwetok.

Stopgap Supplies to Help Italy, France Fight Inflation

China, no agreement has been negotiated, since Congress did little more than earmark 18 million dollars for future use.

Assuming France gets 275 million dollars' worth of American relief, the equivalent in francs at the official rate of 119 to the dollar would be only about one twenty-fifth of the total amount of currency in circulation in France today. In Italy the amount is roughly comparable.

It would therefore not be a large amount compared to the total in circulation in either country.

What makes the provision important, however, is that the present bilateral agreements may be a pattern for handling far vaster sums of local currency under the "Marshall Plan."

If Congress approves the present plans of the Administration, France stands to get more than a billion dollars' worth of free grants in 1948, although the exact amount has not yet been determined. French francs equivalent to this sum would constitute an enormous fund of local currency, and their complete withdrawal from circulation would represent a drastic attack on inflation.

Camille Gutt, managing director of the International Monetary Fund, said in a speech at Minneapolis last week that if local currency receipts for American supplies are "immobilized" in Europe it would be an "important key to the stabilization problem."

"If aggregate expenditure is not permitted to rise with the increased supply of goods," he said, "the tendency toward higher prices will be reduced and stopped. If the local currency receipts are not used to meet budgetary deficits or to sustain an uneconomic level of investment, aggregate expenditure in the community will not become excessive.

Pay-as-You Go Policy Urged

"It seems to me, therefore, that every country that participates in the Marshall Plan ought, as a matter of policy, to limit government expenditure for all purposes to actual tax receipts without depending in any way on the local currency proceeds of the import surplus to meet government expenditure."

The agreements with France and Italy on stopgap relief thus carry out an idea which has important backing outside the United States Government. They may yet become valuable as "pilot" agreements pointing the way toward the conquest of inflation and the stabilization of currencies in western Europe.

In addition to their promise to set aside equivalent amounts of local currency, and to withdraw a large part of them from circulation, the governments getting stopgap relief will undertake other obligations in accordance with the act of Congress. Among these obligations are:

1. To make efficient use of the American supplies and, as far as possible, to take economic measures necessary to make themselves more self-supporting;

2. To give "full and continuous publicity by all available media" so that the consumers can know the purpose, source, character and amounts of American help.

3. To give the President promptly information about the method of distribution of American supplies, and to furnish a complete and detailed report by March 31, 1948, when the interim aid comes to an end.

4. To sell American relief commodities to their people at reasonable prices "consistent with economic conditions," and wherever necessary to see that the indigent and needy get their fair share.

5. To push the production of locally produced commodities, and not to do anything with American supplies that would reduce locally produced supplies or interfere with the use of non-American sources of supply.

6. To use American-supplied incentive goods, such as tobacco, to increase local production;

7. Not to export any American relief goods or "commodities of the same character" without agreement with the United States;

8. To let representatives of the United States Government, including committees of Congress, "observe, advise and report" on the distribution and end-use of American relief supplies.

9. To let representatives of the American press and radio "observe and report" on the distribution and use of American relief supplies.

Finally, the act insists that all relief goods paid for by the United States, or their containers, "be marked, stamped, branded or labeled in a conspicuous place" to show the people of the recipient countries that the goods have been made available by the United States.

995,500 Tons of Grain Granted Shortage Areas

The Agriculture Department yesterday allocated 995,500 long tons — or 37,654,000 bushels — of grain and grain products for export to shortage areas in February.

This brings total allocations for the crop year to date—that is from July 1, 1947, to March 1, 1948—to 401 million bushels.

The export goal for the crop year ending July 1, 1948, is 570 million bushels.

The February allocation compares with 969,500 tons or 34,014,000 bushels, for January.

The February allocations include 23,699,000 bushels of wheat, flour equal to 12,905,000 bushels of wheat, and 1,050,000 bushels of oats.

The allocations include: Austria, 39,000 long tons; Belgium, 9000; Brazil, 15,000; China, 9300; Cuba, 16,000; France and French North Africa, 165,000; Greece, 45,000; India, 39,000; Italy, 177,000.

Also Mexico, 25,000; Netherlands, 48,000; Netherlands East Indies, 10,000; Norway, 9300; British-American zone in Germany, 180,000; French zone in Germany, 29,000; Japan and Ryukyus, 84,000; Philippines, 16,000; Portugal, 18,300; Sweden, 9300; Switzerland, 9300; and all others, 43,000.

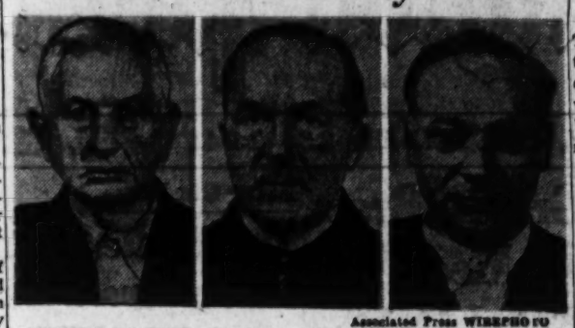
23 Nazis of Oswiecim Camp Sentenced to Death by Poles



Associated Press WIREPHOTO

THEY'LL DO TIME—Friederich Flick (left), head of Germany's largest privately owned coal, iron, and steel empire, drew seven years' imprisonment from an American military tribunal in Nuernberg, Germany, yesterday, for exploiting slave labor and looting German-occupied countries. Otto Steinbrinck (center), Flick's principal associate, got five years, and Bernhard Weiss (right), Flick's nephew, was sentenced to two and a half years on war crimes charges

Krakow, Poland, Dec. 22 (AP).—Poland's biggest mass war crimes trial ended today in death sentences for 23 top-ranking German SS (Elite Guard) officers, including a woman accused of sadistically putting 10,000 of her own sex to death at the notorious Oswiecim concentration camp.

All were attached to the staff of the camp. The prosecution estimated 4,500,000 victims of nazism died there.

The woman, Maria Mandel, 35, displayed no emotion when her sentence was read.

Her chief assistants, Clarissa Brandel, 36, and Hildegard Martha Louise Lechert, 27, received life terms.

Others sentenced to die included Arthur Liebhenschel, 46, commandant at Oswiecim; Assistant Camp Commandant Max Grabner, 42, and Johan Kremer, 64, who put thousands to death by false medical experiments.

German Industrialist Given Seven Years

Nuernberg, Germany, Dec. 22 (AP). An American military tribunal today sentenced Friederich Flick, 64-year-old German industrialist, to seven years imprisonment for exploiting slave labor and looting German-occupied countries.

Flick, head of Germany's largest privately owned coal, iron and steel empire, already has spent 2½ years in confinement. This time will be deducted from his sentence.

Wallace Hat in Ring Dec. 29, Georgian Says

Atlanta, Dec. 22 (AP).—Gov. M. E. Thompson of Georgia said today he had received "positive information" from Washington that Henry Wallace will announce as a third party presidential candidate December 29.

Declining to disclose the source of his information, Thompson said the announcement probably will be made at Chicago. He said such a move would be "ill-advised and ill-considered."

Lie Says U. S. Broke U. N. Pact By Arresting 2 'Red' Newsmen

Lake Success, Dec. 22 (AP).—Trygve Lie, Secretary General of the United Nations, tonight charged the United States with violating its agreement with the U. N. by arresting two news correspondents accredited to the world organization.

The correspondents, both held at Ellis Island, are Nicholas Kyriazidis of Greece and Syed S. Hasan of India.

Lie wired Warren R. Austin, chief United States delegate, that the headquarters agreement provided no proceedings could be instituted to require an accredited correspondent to leave the United States until after "consultation with the Secretary-General of the United Nations."

"Would appreciate prompt consideration in conformity with headquarters agreement," Lie said.

The telegram dealt only with the case of Kyriazidis, but a spokesman said Lie would follow the same procedure with regard to Hasan. The U. N. spokesman said both men were bonafide correspondents.

The United States Immigration and Naturalization service announced it will conduct a hearing tomorrow to determine whether Kyriazidis is subject to deportation.

Kyriazidis was arrested December 17 under warrant charging "his belief and membership in and affiliation with an organization advising, advocating and teaching the overthrow by force and violence of the Government of the United States."

He was accredited to the U. N. last June as correspondent for Communists papers which Greece later suppressed.

It was reported that he was arrested on the assumption he lost his U. N. status when the newspapers he represented were suppressed by the Greek government.

Mercy for 40,000 Asked by Cardinals

Paris, Dec. 22 (AP).—A plea of mercy for the 40,000 Frenchmen still held on charges of collaborating with the Germans was issued today by the Cardinals and Bishops of the Roman Catholic Church in a letter to President Vincent Auriol. An estimated 200,000 have been convicted.

22-Pound Limit Set On Parcels to France

The weight limit on parcel post packages for destinations in France will be increased from 11 to 22 pounds, beginning January 1.

On the same date, the Postoffice Department also said yesterday, all limitations on the frequency of mailing of parcels to France will be removed.

800 Jews Seized On Refugee Ship

British Intercept Europeans Reported To Be Recruits For Hagana Army

Jerusalem, Dec. 22 (AP).—Jewish informants said tonight the British navy had intercepted a refugee ship with 800 uncertified Jewish immigrants aboard.

(The United Press said they were reinforcements for Haganah's defense army).

The passengers, who sailed from European waters after the outbreak of partition violence in the Holy Land, were reported to have named their ship the Al Tafchiduni (You can't frighten us).

Two Jewish adults and a child lost their lives in communal violence. Their deaths brought to 304 the number killed in Palestine since the United Nations voted for partition November 29. Toll for the entire Middle East stood at 424.

Frontiers facing Palestine virtually were closed tonight to all non-Arabs as Arab nations adjacent to the Holy Land prepared for war against Zionism.

Inside Palestine, fighting broke out south of Jaffa. Two Jews were killed as Hagana defenders of Bat Yam fought a gun battle with Arabs in the village of Yahelia. Arab informants said an Arab also was killed.

A 9-year-old Jewish boy was killed when Arabs attacked a Jewish bus in the same area.

Other Arabs killed a Jewish policeman at the Sarafand military camp, and stole his rifle.

The British, cracking down on gun-running, arrested 46 Arabs.

Some on both sides were making their own peace. In Haiffa, Jews living in Arab districts have traded apartments with Arabs living in Jewish sections. Jews and Arabs also are working side by side on the docks and in the oil refinery, and have cooperated to speed the shipment of Palestine's citrus crop.

Consulates in Jerusalem refused visas to Americans seeking to travel in the Middle East outside Palestine, except on direct appeal to the various capitals of the Arab countries.

All these capitals reported recruiting was continuing for the Arab "People's Army" to fight in Palestine. In Cairo, police hunted for a "Zionist radio" station which was broadcasting Jewish views apparently from a mobile transmitter.

The Arabs have established Nablus, 30 miles north of Jerusalem, as the capital of their resistance movement. Young Arabs are massing in the town, and openly carrying arms without interference from the outnumbered British police.

In the late 30's Nablus was the center of the revolt in which Arabs fought for four years against Jewish settlement.

Ejected Like Shells

Flying Discs Attributed to Red Rockets

By The Associated Press

Representative Ellsworth (R., Oreg.) revived reports yesterday that last summer's "flying saucer" epidemic may have stemmed from Russian rocket experiments.

Claiming that he has received reliable information concerning the development of high velocity missiles by Soviet scientists, the Oregon lawmaker added in a statement:

"Strangely enough, this development might be the solution of the now almost forgotten mystery of the flying saucers."

He said the Russians are reported to have a rocket of amazing speed and "almost limitless range" propelled by a series of explosions occurring several seconds apart.

"Each successive explosion shoots the missile forward at increased speed," Ellsworth said. "Apparently the charges are packed separately and are held apart by metal discs. As each charge is fired, the metal disc is discharged as an empty cartridge shell is ejected from an automatic rifle. The discs are made of thin metal and possibly disintegrate in the air not long after they are discharged."

Ellsworth suggested that American scientists might have been working on some similar device, but he held it more likely that any discs actually seen had come from Russian military proving grounds.

Russia Cuts Desertions by Holding Kin

Frankfurt, Germany, Dec. 22 (U.P.).—Desertion from the Russian army in Germany has been sharply reduced by a new policy of holding the soldiers' families at home as hostages, reports from the Soviet zone indicated today.

In recent months, Soviet occupation troops have been quartered in closely guarded compounds to limit fraternization with the German population and absorption of Western ideas.

The present occupying forces are being replaced as rapidly as possible by "Stalin cadets"—young Germans who have been so thoroughly trained in Communist ideas that they are considered 100 per cent reliable politically, these reports said.

United States officials discounted persistent reports that two Russian generals are hiding out in the American zone.

"We wouldn't fool with them," a spokesman said. "There's too much danger that they might have been 'planted.'"

Court Dismisses Harford County Taxpayers' Suit

Bel Air, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—The Harford County Circuit Court today dismissed a suit brought against the county commissioners by a group of taxpayers who charged the commissioners had exceeded their authority by increasing next year's tax rates.

In a written opinion sustaining a demurrer filed by the county commissioners, Judge Frederick Lee Cobourn said it appeared "the budget adapted by the county commissioners was carelessly and inexpertly prepared," but that:

"I have reached the conclusion that . . . facts do not show such an abuse or such illegal acts on the part of the commissioners as to warrant the granting of the relief prayed."

The eight taxpayers who filed the suit contended the commissioners had abused their right when they increased the levy 20 cents on each $100 of valuation.

U. S. Offer Fails to Break Deadlock Over U. N. Police

Lake Success, Dec. 22 (AP).—The United States has agreed informally to modify its original demands for a United Nations security force with a minimum of 20 divisions, it was learned today.

The offer was made in a subcommittee of the U. N. Military Staff Committee, deadlocked for months over Russian demands for a much smaller force. It was understood the new U. S. offer failed to break the deadlock.

Informed quarters said the United States offered to modify its original figures as follows:

1. Land forces might be fixed at 15 divisions instead of 20 as an absolute minimum.
2. Air forces could be limited to 2800 instead of 3800.
3. A slight modification in the minimums for the naval forces, which originally would have included six carriers and three battleships.

Italy Adopts Constitution For Republic

Rome, Dec. 22 (U.P.).—A cheering National Assembly gave final approval to the constitution of the new Italian republic by a vote of 453 to 62 today and legally abolished the monarchy forever. It becomes effective January 1.

Only diehard monarchists and extreme rightists still loyal to the House of Savoy voted no.

"Long live the Italian democratic republic, peaceful and independent," said Communist Assembly President Umberto Terracini, as he announced the vote.

Palace Bell Tolls

A thousand spectators, including American Ambassador James Clement Dunn, rose to applaud and the great palace bell tolled. Outside, other thousands cheered.

The new constitution is Italy's first in 99 years. It replaces the constitution granted the Kingdom of Piedmont in 1848 by King Charles Albert of Sardinia which later became the law in the Kingdom of United Italy.

Italian women for the first time are given equal rights with men in every field. Labor is guaranteed freedom and autonomy is given regional governments.

The constitution guarantees freedom of religion, although the Roman Catholic Church is recognized as Italy's official religion. This was strongly opposed by Communists. Leftwingers, however, defeated a clause which would have made divorce illegal and pushed through articles giving illegitimate children equal rights with children born in wedlock.

Food Workers End Strike

Italy also celebrated today the promise of bread for Christmas as 300,000 food workers returned to their jobs, ending a nation-wide Communist-led strike which began Saturday.

A general strike at Caltanisetta also was settled, ending most of Sicily's labor trouble, but not until 15 persons were injured in gun fighting near Palermo.

200th U. S. Aid Ship Since August Docks

Civitavecchia, Italy, Dec. 22 (U.P.).—United States Ambassador Dunn, welcoming the arrival of the 200th United States aid ship since August 27, said today 1,800,000 tons of wheat, coal and medicine had been sent by American taxpayers to promote an independent Italy of "free men and women."

Dunn told a dockside crowd, including government and municipal officials, there were no less than 30 ships en route from the United States to Italy on the high seas at any time in the past three months since UNRRA stopped operations.

U. S. Needs Price Competition, Truman Told

from paying overtime premiums to labor might check inflationary forces, "this would be true only so long as that saving is reflected in a checking of price increases or their lowering rather than giving employers or dividend receivers more buying power to bid up other prices."

And finally, producers have been saying they must keep moving up prices in order to survive. Yet increased production may make further price rises impossible, and the council asked, will this be effected without reducing production?

"Or will the protective motive result in production cutbacks and cumulative recession? If producers must move up their prices in order to go on producing in volume after prices fall in response to refilled pipelines, unstopped bottlenecks and a generally improved state of responsibility?"

Increased production, the report concluded, will not solve the problem, but will simply advance the time when the real problem must be faced.

Cites Real Problem

That real problem, the council concluded, is "what price, income and property value adjustments have to be made to strike an internally consistent or stable equilibrium." It added:

"It seems clear that in reaching this equilibrium many industrial prices must come down at least in relation to other prices.

"Many rates of profit must subside while reasonable profitability is established in other areas.

"Gross imbalances in the wage structure must be rectified by some drawing together of those now at opposite extremes of the wage scale."

A stabilized economy with maximum production, the report asserted, requires in the future "a much higher consumption in the lower and middle ranks. . . . The enlarging production of an industrially efficient nation must go increasingly to filling in the consumption deficiencies of the erstwhile poor."

The council said that in our present complicated economy, "the so-called free market is neither as responsive nor as dependable a guide to production" as it once was. Accordingly, the report called on management to accept "the responsibility for a more stable practice in planning its investment and operative programs."

eign affairs spokesman speculated hearings would get underway later than January 7 and probably run longer than the Senate hearings.

The Herter bill to set up an eight-man, bipartisan Government corporation to run all foreign aid programs is still pending before the House group and may be considered before or concurrently with the Marshall Plan.

A hint that it might become the base for Congress' own program came from Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr.

"There is sentiment for a Republican program and there is strong support for the Herter proposal," said Martin.

Sees One-Year Authorization

House Rules Chairman Leo E. Allen (R., Ill.) predicted Congress will provide only a one-year authorization, instead of the four-year commitment asked, and probably pare the amount. Allen said a one-year authorization wouldn't mean that Congress by implication wasn't committing itself to a longer one.

He said regardless of any general debate limit his Rules group recommends, he expects House floor consideration to set a record of two weeks or longer. Under House rules, members themselves may extend the debate by offering germane amendments or by speaking for or against one.

Vandenberg said merely he thought Senate debate would be "long." He said his own committee could complete consideration by holding morning and afternoon hearings but pressure of other business might interfere with that schedule except in the first 10 days.

He told reporters no list of witnesses has yet been compiled but the committee wants "a cross section" of American views before it acts.

Acheson told his press conference a new gap will be created, further handicapping efforts to put Western Europe on its feet, if Congress fails to make funds available within 90 days.

Hits at Taft Proposal

Without naming names, he hit at the proposal of Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) to appropriate "about five billion dollars" for the first 15 months.

"That would do another job, but not this one," said Acheson. "It would do a relief job."

He said another Capitol proposal to vote the program on a year-to-year basis, rather than a full four-year authorization, would "very greatly hamper" the program, saying:

"We cannot expect the people of Europe to do the colossal production job outlined at Paris, or to submit to the austerity that will be needed, without assurance that it is going to be carried through."

He said Harold Stassen's suggestion to bar aid would be the kind of condition the United States should not impose.

Committee's Statement

The formal statement issued by the citizens committee for the Marshall Plan said, in part:

"1. Effective aid is prompt aid. The European Recovery Program must go into effect on April 1, 1948. . . .

"2. Effective aid is aid which will do the whole job. We must spend enough money and ship enough good sto make this a recovery, not a relief program. . . .

"3. Effective aid must be based on mutual respect and honor. . . . We should ask for no assurance from them that we could not accept with honor if we ourselves needed help. . . .

"4. Effective aid is aid that will bring recovery and self-support and not a hopeless load of debt. . . . We must face the fact that only part of the sums we advance to make European recovery possible can or should be paid back in dollars. . . ."

Busy Airlines Put in Red by Rising Costs

Domestic airlines will wind up with a net loss of more than $6,400,000 on this year's operations, although their volume of business has increased, the Commerce Department estimated yesterday.

It said the big reason is that operating costs have risen more steeply than revenue, despite efforts of the industry to tighten up on expenses.

Indications are, the department put it in an analysis to appear in its December survey of current business, that 1947 will show a greater deficit than the $6,400,000 registered last year, after deduction of income taxes and fixed charges.

This compares with a net profit of 17 million dollars in 1945 and peak earnings of 19 million dollars in wartime 1944.

Number of planes in scheduled domestic and territorial service has risen from less than 300 in early 1945 to almost 800 as of November, and the number of available seats has increased from 5400 at the start of 1945 to 26,000 last November, the department said.

Total revenue ton-miles of traffic handled increased somewhat this year after rising more than 80 per cent from 1945 to 1946.

As a result, the monthly average of operating revenues climbed to 80 million dollars in the first nine months of this year compared with 26 million dollars in 1946, 18 million dollars in 1945 and 13 million dollars in the peak profit year of 1944.

On the other hand, operating expenses went up even faster, the department said, with expenses per ton-mile of traffic mounting from a low of 39 cents in the second quarter of 1945 to 51 cents in the third quarter of this year.

Whole Town for Sale If You'll Be Mayor

Prescott, Oreg. (U.P.)—This Columbia River waterfront town and industrial site of 200 population is for sale to anyone who wishes to become both landlord and mayor.

Prescott, founded 40 years ago, is listed as consisting of 35 houses, a store, office building, cargo docks and a railroad depot. It is served with an electric power and water system.

Nearly all the houses are occupied and the grade school is open. Charles Neely, manager and co-owner, said he acquired the property in 1946 from the Clark-Wilson Lumber Co. Most of the residents at that time were employed at the mill, but now are working at other mills in the area.

India May Ask U. S. For Military Advisers

New Delhi, India, Dec. 22 (U.P.)—Baldev Singh, Indian (Hindu) minister of defense, indicated today the Indian army might ask the United States to lend it officers to serve as technical instructors in training schools.

The 1200 British officers remaining of the 10,000 who served with Indian forces before the partition, will be gone by April 1, he said. If enough will not volunteer to stay on, he said, "approach to the United States is possible."

Two Empire Bodies Found

to American University grounds until District officials, the investigating commission and engineers decide what part of it will be used as evidence in ascertaining the cause of the collapse. R. D. Kinney of the Building Inspections Department said a police guard will watch over this material so it will not be molested. About 14 truckloads were removed yesterday.

Numerous articles of personal property and furniture were listed by police of No. 1 Precinct as they were removed yesterday, and were sent by truck to the station. Residents of the Empire Building will claim their property there.

Fire Department floodlights were moved into position last night as about 20 picked wrecking company workers continued to remove debris in their search for additional victims. A Potomac Electric & Power Co. crew installed connections for additional lighting.

Auto Kills Boy, 3, Hunting Yule Tree

Frederick, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—A search for a Christmas tree cost the life of 3-year-old Jerry Leon Crouse of Frederick.

State police said three children wandered off to "get a Christmas tree" while their parents gathered holiday greens in the woods.

Jerry was struck by a car when he toddled onto Route 40. Trooper Charles H. DeWitt tentatively listed the accident as unavoidable.

25 Navy Workers Receive Awards

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—Awards to 25 employes of the Naval Engineering Experiment Station here were made today at ceremonies addressed by Rear Admiral Charles D. Wheelock.

Wheelock, assistant chief of the Bureau of Ships, urged the workers to "keep up with our own industry and ahead of any foreign power." The naval officer said the present attitude of the American people was to "meet our problems with realism," while after the last war, there had been more confidence in the ability of the world to achieve lasting peace.

French Decorate Col. Miller, of Charlottesville

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Col. Francis Pickens Miller of Charlottesville, Va., today was awarded the cross of a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor. The award was made at the office of the Consul General of France by Major General Billotte, ranking French officer in the United States.

Present was Col. Gilbert Renault, who brought the medal to this country on a trip connected with the forthcoming publication of his book "Memoirs of a Secret Agent of Free France."

Colonel Miller was on General Eisenhower's staff at SHAEF G-2 (Intelligence Division). He and Colonel Renault served as the French and American of a three-man French-British-American team concerned with some of the underground operations that preceded D-Day.

The intelligence network produced among other items of vital information the German army's own plan for defense of the beaches involved in the D-Day landings.

Grain Dealer List Contains Names of 4 Washington Men

ployed by the Washington Baseball Club at Griffith Stadium.

One of the traders listed was Daniel F. Rice of Chicago. Rice, the General Foods Corporation, and several other traders, was charged with an attempt to corner and manipulate the rye market in Chicago in May 1944.

As a result of an investigation, the judicial officer of the Agriculture Department, under terms of the Commodity Exchange law, denied Rice and the others trading privileges for varying periods of time. The case is now on appeal to the courts.

Rice Large Trader

Rice was one of the larger traders listed. His speculative accounts showed him long 1,995,000 bushels of wheat and short 2,410,000 bushels. He was long 880,000 bushels of oats and short 480,000. He was long 1,310,000 bushels of corn and short 1,055,000 bushels. In another account with Philip R. O'Brien he was long 200,000 bushels of corn and short 100,000.

The report, which was sent to the Senate Appropriations Committee, covered "hedging" accounts as well as speculative and "spreading"—a semispeculative operation.

It was a senatorial investigation of Pauley that led to congressional action authorizing Anderson to reveal the names of traders. The investigators are seeking to run down reports that Government officials and others with inside information about Government purchases of foodstuffs, have been profiting on the markets from that information. Speculation is not against the law.

Market Terms Defined

Some of the definitions of terms used in market operations are:

1. Hedging—a protective business operation, engaged in by millers, elevator men, processors, etc. A miller, for instance, who buys 500,000 bushels of wheat to grind into flour over a period of six months, may "hedge" by selling short 500,000 bushels of wheat for future delivery. Thus, if the price of wheat goes down, he may lose money on his flour, but will make it up by buying back his short sale.

2. Spreading is engaged in by traders who take advantage of differences in prices between two exchanges. For instance, if wheat is $3.10 a bushel in Chicago and $3.09 at the same time in Minneapolis, he quickly buys in Minneapolis and sells in Chicago. It is of benefit to the market in that it keeps the exchanges closer together on the prices. The same operation is called "straddling" in cotton markets.

3. Speculating—in which a trader either buys grain for future delivery in the expectation that it will go up; or sells for future delivery hoping it will go down. If he sells and hasn't the grain to deliver, he must either buy in the market or settle in cash through the exchange.

Among the hedging accounts listed yesterday was that of Anderson, Clayton & Co. of Houston, Tex. Will Clayton, former Undersecretary of State now heading the American delegation to the World Trade Conference in Havana, was a large stockholder in that company which he helped found. Its operations were not listed as speculative.

Clayton once told a Senate committee that his only connection with the company was as a stockholder.

One firm listed as speculating in corn, with a long position of 350,000 bushels balanced by a short position of the same amount, is Lehman Brothers of New York City. Former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York was formerly an officer of this concern. Lehman later was director-general of UNRRA.

Boys Club to Receive Yule Gift of $3000

Three thousand dollars will be given to the Washington Boys Club by the Optimists Club of Washington at a Christmas breakfast at the Mayflower Hotel at 7:30 a. m. today.

Two members of the Boys Club will receive the check, which is being given to further boys' work in Washington.

Guest speaker at the breakfast will be Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of the National Presbyterian Church.

Christmas Eve Mass Cancelled by Pope

Vatican City, Dec. 22 (U.P.)—Vatican authorities announced officially today that Pope Pius XII will not deliver the usual pontifical midnight mass on Christmas Eve because of "diplomatic reasons."

Court Clears Illinois Convict

signed by Marino—who couldn't write his name.

At no time did Marino see a lawyer, or—as far as the record tells—know he had a right to a lawyer. At no time did he make any plea, guilty or not guilty, which was entered in the court records.

But on April 24, 1925, the late Circuit Judge Earl D. Reynolds gave Marino a life sentence, for murder.

After 21 years, Marino asked the Illinois courts for a writ of habeas corpus and was turned down. Then he came to the Supreme Court.

The Illinois attorney general—George F. Barrett—did not fight the case here. Instead, he filed a confession of error, saying that it was plain that Marino did not have a fair trial and that he could not see why his habeas corpus plea was not granted.

Chief Justice Vinson took care of that yesterday, sending the case back to Circuit Judge William R. Dusher in Rockford, Ill., with what amounted to orders to let Marino out of jail.

Once free, Marino may, and may not face another trial on the murder charge. That depends on the State's attorney.

Illinois Finally Admits Error

Justice Rutledge, who spoke also for Justices Douglas and Murphy, said the only difference between Marino's case and hundreds of others that come from Illinois was that this time the State admitted error. Rutledge pointed to the record of pleas filed by prisoners:

	1944	1945	1946
Illinois total ..	141	175	322

Experience had shown, Rutledge said, that when a man asked for his rights in Illinois the State offered him nothing but a procedural morass, a legal merry-go-round. The Illinois procedure, he went on, seems made up of blind alleys, none of them good for anything but to persuade Federal judges that the prisoner took the wrong one. If he asked for habeas corpus, then he ought to have asked for coram nobis instead. If he tried coram nobis, then he was wrong, too, he ought to have tried a writ of error. It was all but sure, said Rutledge, that a man's case would be lost in a jungle of Illinois legal red tape.

"Moreover," Rutledge declared, "even though there maybe an avenue of escape through the State courts in a rare case . . . the technical distinctions between the various remedies are so fine that only an oracle could point out the proper procedural road."

Court Would By-Pass State

The justice gave in a footnote an example of a case in which none of the three Illinois writs would work, yet the facts showed a violation of constitutional rights.

Rutledge said that until Illinois law gave men like Marino a clear and effective remedy, the Federal courts ought to aid them without waiting for them to ride the State merry-go-round.

Covenant Cases Up January 15

Besides rulings on Marino's case yesterday, the court:

Set the racial covenant cases for argument on January 15;

Upheld jail terms and fines given four San Francisco men for conspiring to sell Old Mr. Boston Rocking Chair Whisky for $30 or $40 over its war ceiling price of $25.27 a case;

Gave a hint that it may have changed its mind about the New York blue-ribbon jury law, by granting a review to two men sentenced to the chair for killing a detective in a liquor-store holdup;

Ruled in two cases that claims for refunds on income taxes must be filed in two years after the taxes are paid;

Agreed to hear the Government's claim that selling the eight-million-dollar Consolidated Steel Corp. to U. S. Steel would be against the antitrust laws;

Received a Government plea to overrule the Cleveland Federal judge who said rent control is unconstitutional; and the PUC also authorized the C&P to reduce directory listings which may be granted without additional cost. The change will go into effect on and after March 26 of next year.

Put off arguments on the antitrust decree against a group of big movie companies until February 9.

After that time, business individual line customers who have been receiving three listings without extra charge will get only one free listing. Residence individual line customers who have been receiving two free listings will get only one free listing.

In awarding the phone company the higher rate schedule the commission ruled that the current return being earned by the company "is less than a fair return on the value of its property devoted to the rendition of telephone service in the District of Columbia"; that approval of the rate increase "will not provide an excessive return on the value of the company's property"; that the rates proposed are "just, reasonable and nondiscriminatory."

Labor Expenses Cited

In its arguments before the PUC the telephone company had stated that despite increased use of telephone service, its earnings had drastically declined, primarily due to the rise in labor expenses.

The company stated its has spent nearly 15 million dollars for plant additions this year, and wants to spent about 70 million dollars during the period 1947-51. But the company says it is earning less than a reasonable return on its present plant investment.

The company introduced as evidence its operating expenses in 1939 as $8,651,280, and showed that they had grown to $22,309,614 by 1946, an increase of 158 per cent. During the same period, labor expenses increased 201 per cent, from about $5,500,000 to nearly $16,500,000, the company stated.

In its opinion, the PUC stated that some monies paid by the C&P to the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. under license contract were of "doubtful character" as costs of rendering service to the C&P.

"The commission is of the opinion that the local company should pay the American Company no more than the actual cost of the services rendered by the American Company, and that such cost should not include any cost of the general department of the American Company related to its holding company functions."

The PUC pointed out that by company computation, elimination of some of these charges would increase the rate of return from 2.65 per cent to 3.42 per cent.

Situation Termed "Critical"

The financial situation of the telephone company, according to testimony it presented to the PUC, "is becoming progressively more critical."

Cited were declines in the percentages of rate of return earned, showing on total company operations, 4.85 per cent for the 12-month period ended September 30, 1947. Broken down to smaller units, all ending September 30, 1947, the rate of return was 3.95 per cent for the nine months period, 3.40 for the six months period, and 2.37 for the three months period.

Intrastate operations of the company showed an earned rate of 3.87 per cent for the 12-month period, 3.59 per cent for the nine-month period, 3.35 per cent for the six-month period, and 1.87 for the three-month period ended September 30.

ITU Refuses To Produce Union Records

The International Typographical Union yesterday announced it would refuse to heed a subpoena to produce union records for a National Labor Relations Board trial examiner's hearing.

The refusal was made by ITU Attorney Gerhard Van Arkel, after Trial Examiner Arthur Leff denied the union's motion to revoke the subpoena. The documents sought, in connection with the Taft-Hartley case against the ITU brought by the American Newspaper Publishers Association, include a transcript of the union's convention last August and copies of union laws.

Van Arkel's action had the effect of throwing the proceedings into the courts. He said he would welcome a legal test.

Prompt Action Indicated

Allen Sinsheimer, attorney representing Robert N. Denham, NLRB general counsel, indicated that such a test will be promptly initiated. He announced that the Denham office will go to a Federal District Court for enforcement of the subpoenas.

Van Arkel had urged that the subpoenas be revoked. He contended that the five-man NLRB had no authority to delegate to its trial examiner the decision on revoking the subpoenas; that the documents were immaterial because they related to "internal" union affairs; and that the "free speech" section of the Taft-Hartley Act prohibited the inclusion, as evidence of an unfair labor practice, of statements of views or opinions.

But Sinsheimer argued that it was "almost unbelievable" for the union to say the documents were immaterial. The union has insisted for years on making its internal laws part of contracts with employers, he declared.

Case Resumes January 7

Yesterday's hearings before trial examiner Leff were given over to clearing up procedural questions before the substance of the charges against the ITU are developed and examined in detail. This process will begin when the case is resumed on January 7, in Chicago.

The newspaper publishers and Denham's office charge the union with several violations of the Taft-Hartley Act, including refusal to bargain in good faith, coercing workers in their rights and conducting "slow-downs" and "feather-bedding" practices.

Rulings Against Unions

Leff also made these rulings against the union:

1. He granted a petition by Cranston Williams, general manager of the Publishers Association, to revoke a union subpena ordering Williams to produce certain bulletins sent out to member newspapers. Leff acted because the association had objected to certain technical defects in the subpena and the union had filed no answer to the objection. However, Leff said the union could issue another subpena later.

2. Over Van Arkel's objection, he granted a motion by Sinsheimer to amend the official Denham complaint so as to charge the printers with conducting "slowdowns" in newspaper composing rooms.

ITU May Take 10 Days to Act

An International Typographical Union official said it may be 10 days or two weeks before that body acts in the dispute between local printers and the four Washington daily newspapers.

Don Hurd, secretary-treasurer of the ITU, said the Columbia Typographical Union broke off all formal negotiations with the Washington Publishers Association by its action Sunday requesting authorization for a strike vote.

"There would be nothing to prevent the local from accepting any offer by the publishers and sending it on to the ITU for approval, however," said Hurd.

Speaking by telephone last night from Indianapolis, Ind., headquarters of the ITU, Hurd said it "might be 10 days or two weeks" before the international's president, Wodruff Randolph, takes any action in the local dispute.

Randoph, he said, would either investigate the dispute himself, delegate an international representative of the union as his proxy, or seek approval of the ITU executive council to authorize a strike vote here.

Randolph was in Chicago yesterday to appear before a congressional committee investigating the strike of union printers against the newspapers there, Hurd said.

About 600 printers on the four Washington daily newspapers are continuing to work under terms of a contract which expired November 11.

House Group Probes Chicago Printer Strike

Chicago, Dec. 22 (AP).—Witnesses for Chicago's six daily newspapers and for striking AFL printers today disputed before congressional investigators the issues behind the 29-day walkout.

John F. O'Keefe, secretary of the Chicago Newspaper Publishers Association, testified the issues were wages, hours, working conditions for a reasonable period of time, and "not just wages' 'alone.

He said the first witness, John P. Pilch, president of the striking local of the International Typographical Union, had indicated in his testimony that wages constituted the only issue.

Pilch told the House Labor Subcommittee investigating the strike that bargaining broke down because "the publishers considered our conditions of employment a unilateral action and would not agree to them. They offered a skeleton without substance, so we finally reached a deadlock."

Demands Stable Contract

O'Keefe asserted: "We must have a stable contract, not one that winks at the law."

The real issue, he added, rose out of the national policy of the ITU which he said "is designed to continue the closed shop and unrestricted control of its jurisdictio nover its members."

He added that the local indicated during negotiations it wanted to continue the closed shop and "the local says it is bound by the international policy which was conceived after passage of the Taft-Hartley Act."

Pilch testified the union never asked for the closed shop "because it is unlawful" under the Taft-Hartley law.

Representative L. Owens (R., Ill.), chairman of the House Subcommittee, asserted before calling Pilch to the witness stand, "that we are here to ascertain what, if any, relationships this strike has to the Taft-Hartley law."

Representative Hartley (R., N. J.) chairman of the House Labor Committee, appointed Owens chairman, and Representative Kersten (R., Wis.) and Representative Kennedy (D., Mass.) to conduct the inquiry.

The parties already have held two conferences with Mayor Martin H. Kennelly, with a third set for tomorrow. The mayor said the talks were conducted in an "encouraging atmosphere."

Fifteen hundred members of Local 16, Chicago Typographical Union, walked off their jobs when the publishers refused to meet the union's demand for an immediate pay raise pending negotiations toward a contract.

The union had demanded wage boosts from $85.50 to $100 a week for day workers and from $91 to $105 for night or early morning workers. The day and night workers put in 36¼ hours weekly, the early workers 30.

Feller Takes Over at the White House

Harris & Ewing

SOMETHING NEW—Three-week-old silver buff cocker spaniel Feller, presented to President Truman by Mrs. Pete J. Marsden of Galena, Ill., made his introduction to Washington yesterday. The White House staff made such a fuss over the pup, he was understandably groggy when the photographers arrived to take his picture

Electric Toy Givers Warned About High-Voltage Fathers

By Arthur Edson
Associated Press Reporter

A safe and sane Christmas to you all, from your National Bureau of Standards.

Maybe you never looked upon Christmas as an especially dangerous occasion.

Maybe you thought that when you blew out the lighted Christmas tree candle, you blew away most of your problems.

But, as usual in this weary world, you get one problem licked and up springs another. Or maybe six others.

Unexpected Kick

And the worriers out at the Bureau of Standards warned in a news release yesterday that people who thoughtlessly plug in electric toys may get an unexpected kick out of Christmas.

Most electric toys operate on 10 to 25 volts. The ordinary house has 115 volts. This means that a transformer is necessary.

Yet what happens?

Father is so darned eager to rush home and play with little Horace's electric train he never bothers to check the transformer.

He never notices whether it is neatly enclosed [open spaces may mean sparks; sparks may mean a fire with all that combustible trimming about.]

Hurried Father

He never stops to wonder, to use the Bureau of Standards own words, whether the transformer has "a permanently attached, heavily insulated cord and an attachment plug for connection to receptacles."

No. He's just eager-beavering to see whether the train actually will whistle and blow smoke like the man said it would.

So he rushes over to the wall socket, and—z-z-z-z-z-z!

Now, instead of a high voltage transformer, we have a high voltage father. This is a very poor kind of a father to have, especially around Christmas.

So take three simple Christmas suggestions from the Bureau of Standards:

Keep safe.
Keep sane.
Keep father.

U. S., Cuba Trade Pact To Take Effect Jan. 1

The United States and Cuba have agreed to put the reciprocal trade agreement they negotiated last October into effect provisionally January 1, the State Department announced yesterday.

Court Rejects Union 'Right' to Company Halls

Richmond, Va., Dec. 22 (AP).—An employer cannot be compelled to give a labor union access to a company-owned hall or auditorium, despite a National Labor Relations Board ruling that he must, the United States Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals asserted today.

The court pointed out that if such a compulsion were exercised by the Government for its own purposes, the act would constitute a deprivation of property without due process of law, adding:

"Certainly if the surrender of the property against the will of the owner were compelled by any private person other than a labor unit, no one would deny that a deprivation of property without due process of law had occurred."

The issue was raised on a petition by the NLRB for enforcement of an order directed against Stowe Spinning Co., Acme Spinning Co., Perfection Spinning Co. and Linford Mills, Inc., each of whom operates a cotton mill in North Belmont, N. C.

The board had ruled that all four firms had violated the National Labor Relations Act by "interfering with, restraining and coercing their employes" in refusing to extend the use of an auditorium owned by the companies to organizers of the Textile Workers Union, CIO, in December, 1944.

In an opinion written by Circuit Judge Morris A. Soper, the appeals court court sharp issue to this stand.

"Baldly stated," Judge Soper wrote, "the position of the board is that when there is no place of public assembly conveenient to the employes except a company building, the employer must turn it over to union organizers for a meeting on demand."

"The practical effect of such a holding is to require the owner to maintain the building for union purposes whenever it suits the convenience of the union to requisition it, and to that extent, to require him to surrender his property rights."

Scheele Serves 46 Days of 5-Month Term

Russell (Peanuts) Scheele, convicted Arlington County gambler, will be released from Arlington County Jail tomorrow after serving 46 days of a five-month sentence.

Trial Justice Hugh Reid said he would sign the order today, suspending the remainder of Scheele's sentence and placing him on a year's probation "subject to extension if deemed proper."

Scheele pleaded guilty last October to charges of operating a lottery and accepting race horse bets. His arrest then touched off a grand jury investigation into Arlington County gambling.

Justice Reid said he acted on Scheele's application and a recommendation of the State parole officer in followng a custom of releasing prisoners for good behavior at Christmas time. Two or three other prisoners serving time for misdemeanors will also be released, Reid said.

As conditions of his release, Reid said, Scheele must: (1) take no part in gambling or other illegal acts; (2) pay promptly all fines against him—he already has paid his $750 fine; and (3) conduct himself in a law abiding manner.

Democratic Convention To Hear Cardinal

Senator J. Howard McGrath, Democratic national chairman, announced yesterday that Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, Catholic Archbishop of Philadelphia, had accepted an invitation to deliver the invocation atthe opening of the Democratic National Convention in the Quaker City July 12.

"I know that his presence will remind us all that we must always keep spiritual values uppermost as we strive to solve the material problems which beset the nation and the world today," McGrath said.

"We are fortunate to be thus honored by a great spiritual leader."

Large Loaves, Rolls Advance 1 Cent Here

The prices of rolls went up a cent a dozen and oversize bread loaves a cent a pound in Greater Washington yesterday.

The increases, put into effect by wholesale bakers, were being reflected immediately across retail counters. The bread boost, however, applied mainly to the wholesale level. The 2 and 3 pound loaves which require special handling generally are bought by hotels, restaurants and institutions.

There was no change in the one-pound "home" loaf of bread.

Production Costs Blamed

All but one of Washington's six major wholesale bakers joined in the increases, blaming them on higher production costs. When the first bakery notified its wholesale customers of the price boosts late last week, the others followed suit.

Holzbeierlein's, which hadn't posted the increases yet, said it would get around to it today or tomorrow. Bakeries announcing the raises were Wonder, Certified, General, Schneider's and Rice's.

New Wholesale Prices

The new wholesale prices are: soft rolls, 23 cents a dozen; hard rolls, 25 cents, and oversize loaves of bread, 13 cents a pound.

Wholesale price of the 1-pound family loaf is 12 cents. It went up a cent, wholesale and retail, October 27.

Some larger bread loaves—known as Pullman or "square" bread—are sold at retail, particularly to larger families. Here, too, the cent-a-pound increase was being passed on to the consumer.

Governor Tuck to Pass Christmas With Family

Richmond, Va., Dec. 22 (AP).—Governor Tuck will remain in Richmond for Christmas and will spend the holiday with Mrs. Tuck and Lester L. Dillard, his stepson, the chief executive's office said today.

The Governor expects to go to South Boston Friday for the week-end. He will be back at his desk Monday morning.

The Proposal Came by Mail

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

TRANSATLANTIC ROMANCE between William F. Brietweiser, former GI, and Liselotte Satorius of Bensheim, Germany, was climaxed when the pair met for the first time at Steelton, Pa. They plan to wed soon. Neither had seen the other before, the romance having been conducted by letters and photos. Brietweiser had befriended the brother of the girl in a European prisoner of war camp

Turkeys Up 7-11 Cts. Over Thanksgiving

Turkeys fresh-killed for Christmas tables were selling here yesterday at prices from 7 to 11 cents a pound above pre-Thanksgiving Day levels.

Moreover, besides paying more per pound many customers may be forced to buy bigger birds than they'd ordinarily order, yesterday's local market conditions showed. There was a scarcity of small-weight hen turkeys and a surplus of heavy-weight toms.

Poultry merchants, however, agreed that total supply should meet local demand.

Along Washington's poultry row yesterday, tom turkeys were retailing mostly at 60 cents a pound, in contrast to 53 cents just before Thanksgiving. A few merchants were selling at 55 cents a pound for New York-dressed birds, but they were the exceptions. Hen turkeys sold at an average of 70 cents a pound in New York yesterday, as compared to the pre-Thanksgiving average of 59 cents.

Vandals Wreck Yule Plans in Baltimore School

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—The 1200 girls at Western High School found they would have to start preparations for school Christmas parties from scratch when they entered their classrooms today.

Police reported vandals broke into the girls' public school over the weekend and:

Tore down the class Christmas trees in 17 rooms;

Shattered Christmas bulbs and balls all over the building;

Stole many small presents, bought by the girls to exchange with their classmates, and ripped open all the others which had been placed beneath the trees.

Broke into the principal's office and stole the gifts she had purchased for her office staff.

The intruders also entered the main office and tipped over filing cabinets containing students' record cards.

75 Salisbury Students Recover From Ptomaine

Salisbury, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—About 75 Salisbury State Teachers College students were recovered sufficiently today from food poisoning suffered at a Christmas party to go home for the holidays.

The stricken students were among 225 at a dinner Thursday in the college dining hall. Dr. Seth Hurdla, county health officer, said the illness probably was caused by turkey dressing.

Democrats to Hold Radio Rally January 2

Democrats will hold a second nation-wide meeting by radio on January 2, when party leaders join in a half-hour discussion of national and international problems and political issues.

John M. Redding, national committee public relations director, told a reporter that the program will be carried by 400 of the 472 Mutual Broadcasting Co. stations to small Democratic meetings all over the country.

The program will be broadcast from 10:30 to 11 p. m. (EST).

Business Executives Optimistic for 1948

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—A majority of executives of 1000 manufacturing plants believe business in 1948 will be the same or better than during the past year, Mill and Factory, a trade publication, said today.

Higher prices are anticipated by 47 per cent.

into the living room with the revolver and he swung his wife around, then tripped over a small rug, falling on one knee. He was reported to have said the revolver went off twice at that point. When he rose Mrs. Austin was swaying, and Austin told police he lowered her into a chair.

Austin then went into the kitchen, washed his hands, and went to the home of his sister, Clark testified.

Clark pointed out that, according to Austin's testimony, he made no effort to contact either police or a doctor before going to his sister's home.

Corpl. James T. McCarey of the Second Precinct said that when he entered the Austin apartment at about 2:45 a. m., he found Mrs. Austin's body in the chair in an upright position with her head slightly to the left, and blood on her face.

According to Clark's testimony, Austin maintained that the revolver was not loaded when he brought it home and put it in a dresser drawer. Clark said Austin was asked whether he had placed the revolver in his wife's hand after the shot was fired, to which he answered that he didn't remember.

Austin also did not remember, Clark stated, whether he had pulled the trigger, or whether he had placed the blood smears on Mrs. Austin's right hand, in which the revolver was held lightly.

Other witnesses testified to Austin's activities both before and after the shooting.

Mrs. Austin, a native of Rainswood, Va., was a bookkeeping machine operator in the State Department's passport division since October of last year. The couple had been married two years.

Pearce Wins $1 Damages

tions. Forty-five minutes later the jury came out with the verdict.

Highlight of the attorneys' concluding arguments before the jury was a blistering attack on the credibility of Municipal Court Judge Walter J. Casey as a witness.

Judge Casey had been subpenaed by the plaintiff to counteract a statement of John F. Reardon, hotel assistant manager and a key witness for the defense. In direct testimony Reardon had stated that at the time he had called the police to Pearce's room, Pearce was disorderly and drunk. Judge Casey said, however, that Reardon had appeared before him in February, 1946, when the criminal charges against Pearce were dismissed, and that Reardon had declared he did not know why he had ordered Pearce arrested.

Attorney Francis C. Brooke, counsel for the hotel, in his closing argument yesterday, ridiculed the idea that Judge Casey or anyone else could remember precisely what had happened in a hearing two years before.

Shah Appoints Pro-Briton, 78, Iran's Premier

Tehran, Iran, Dec. 22 (U.P.).—Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi today appointed pro-British Dr. Ebrahim Hakimi to be premier of Iran, while authorities discussed the fate of former Premier Ahmad Qavam deposed December 10 and jailed Saturday.

Mohammed directed Hakimi, 78, to form a cabinet in an effort to end the stormy political crisis accompanying Qavam's fall. The new premier, who was Shah Mozaffa Reddin's personal physician 50 years ago, had once previously headed an Iranian government.

Qavam was arrested as he was boarding a plane for the United States Saturday. He had committed political suicide by alienating important officials and groups with his high-handed domestic program, and got into international hot water by blocking the grant of North Iranian oil concessions to the Soviet Union.

His troubles are based mainly on his domestic policies, including alleged "interference with the course of justice." His critics say he displeased the Shah by his "haughty airs"—as at a recent military review, when Qavam did not remove his hat while he and Mohammed stood side by side taking the salute of the passing troops. He annoyed the army by ordering the arrest of a high-ranking officer without going through the proper military channels. He antagonized the press by suppressing critical newspapers and arresting opposition editors. He imprisoned popular political opponents, including pro-British former Premier Seyd Zia and Seyd Kasani, a descendant of the Prophet Mohammed).

The majolis (parliament) also charges Qavam with embezzling public funds and selling export permits.

He admitted the charge of swindling but said he had used the money to fight subversive elements, "for which I had no other funds."

U. S. Defense Pact Defeated In Panama

BULLETIN

Panama City, Panama, Dec. 22 (U.P.).—The national assembly today defeated ratification of the defense base agreement with the United States.

Panama City, Panama, Dec. 22 (U.P.).—The National Assembly opened its crucial debate on the defense base agreement with the United States in an atmosphere of tension today, while a huge crowd waited outside the assembly building for the decision.

A majority committee report recommended approval of the treaty, which would give the United States five to 10-year leases on the Rio Rato superbomber base and 13 lesser installations on Panamanian soil outside the Canal Zone.

The street crowd included hundreds of students bitterly opposed to the agreement. They paraded through the city demanding a negative vote.

Foreign Minister Florencio Arosemena Forte, who took office only 12 days ago, submitted his resignation early today, without explanation. His withdrawal was believed to be a protest against the base agreement.

British Unions May Reissue Black Circular

London, Dec. 22 (U.P.).—The general council of Britain's huge Trades Union Congress today was reported considering a reissue of its "black circular," urging member unions to crack down on Communist infiltration.

The "black circular" was issued when the Germans and Russians were allied. It was withdrawn in 1943, after the Germans invaded Russia.

Several members of the TUC general council are understood to be urging that the "black circular" be put out again. The council will hold its next meeting on January 28 and probably will decide on the matter then.

GI Fiance Dead

Deportation Stay Won by Italian Girl

Philadelphia, Dec. 22 (A.P.).—Immigration authorities announced today that Maria Formicola, 21-year-old Italian girl who came to this country to marry a former GI and found him dead, has been admitted to the United States for 90 days.

Action came following the forwarding here of New York reports of a hearing on an appeal by the diminitive Italian miss from a deportation order.

Appeal by Governor

Earlier, Governor Clements of Kentucky announced he had appealed to the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service headquarters here, asking their approval of a proposal to give Maria a home with a Kentucky family. He said she would be given a "good home."

The immigration service's action freed Miss Formicola from Ellis Island, where she had been held since her arrival December 18.

She had intended to marry James McIntosh, 19, of Guerrant, Ky., whom she had met in Italy. She learned upon her arrival that he had been killed in an automobile accident.

An immigration spokesman said if her status changes—presumably meaning if she married—"that would alter things somewhat."

Miss Formicola had received a dozen marriage offers.

Special Case

The spokesman said that under normal circumstances the girl's appeal would be refused, but "of course this is a special case, her husband-to-be having died and all that."

Among Maria's marriage proposals was that of 27-year-old Frank Alfidi of Yonkers, N. Y., a combat veteran who said Miss Formicola had accepted his marriage offer when he visited Ellis Island last Saturday.

0.64% Votes 'No' In Moscow Election

London, Tuesday, Dec. 23 (A.P.).—The Moscow radio said today the Communist and non-party bloc was favored by 99.36 per cent of the voters and opposed by 0.64 per cent in Sunday's election of the Moscow city Soviet of working people's deputies. The broadcast said 99 per cent of the electorate voted.

Dancer Collapses

Satira Gets 15-Year Term For Slaying

SATIRA,
in private life Patricia Schmidt, Toledo, Ohio, dancer, pictured in Havana yesterday, where she was sentenced to 15 years and $5000 fine in the slaying of John Lester Mee of Chicago

Havana, Cuba, Dec. 22 (AP).—Patricia (Satira) Schmidt was sentenced today to 15 years in prison for the yacht slaying of her lover, John Lester Mee of Chicago, and then, her warden said, was taken to the infirmary of Guanabacoa prison in a state of collapse.

The court also required the Toledo, Ohio, dancing girl, who had appeared in night clubs from the Middle West to the Caribbean, to pay $5000 indemnity to Mee's heirs.

The judges referred to her as being of "mixed German and native blood"—an apparent reference to the fact that she is partially of Indian extraction.

Among other things, the court said, Patricia was accustomed to walking the deck of Mee's yacht Satira and swimming absolutely nude, as "though she were a nymph and considered Havana Bay a private swimming pool."

Rene Castellanos, the dancer's attorney, described the sentence as "extraordinarily severe."

Patricia was convicted of homicide—a charge corresponding to manslaughter in the United States.

Mee, a torpedo boat skipper in the war, was wounded April 8 on the Satira and died five days later. Patricia testified she shot him in terror and by accident after he lunged at her in a quarrel.

U. S., Britain May Revise German Policy

London, Dec. 22 (AP).—An American decision to halt reparations deliveries of dismantled German factories to Russia and eastern Europe raised tonight the likelihood of a broad scale review by Britain and the United States of German occupation policy under the Potsdam Pact.

Immediate exchange of views on the industrial-reparations issue between the two western powers was assured, but its long-range implications provoked speculation on whether it would lead to a breakdown in the Allied Control Commission for Germany.

In Berlin Gen. Lucius D. Clay and Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, the American and British military governors, emphasized they hoped for continuance of the four-power commission, and that the western allies had no intention of withdrawing from it or leaving Berlin.

British Fear Breakdown

Clay said British-American authorities planned immediate steps to strengthen economic unification of their occupation zones, but that political unification of western Germany would await approval of the German people.

The British were frankly fearful of a breakdown of the Allied Control Council. High level governmental informants in London said Britain would be reluctant to stop reparations deliveries from her zone because it might lead to Soviet reprisals.

Bridge Collapse Baffles Virginia Road Engineers

Richmond, Va., Dec. 22 (AP).—Engineers at the State Highway Department reported today that they were unable to explain the collapse of an 80-foot iron truss bridge at Deep Creek on Route 17 between Fredericksburg and Bealeton.

The span went out last Monday night, and was replaced by a temporary bridge which was opened to traffic Wednesday morning.

A study of the wreckage of the bridge provided some evidence that it may have been weakened by a blow some time in the past, but the old wrought iron trusswork was "in perfect condition."

Route 17 is scheduled for modernization under the department's 20-year plan for road improvement, and the temporary bridge probably will be left in place until a permanent span can be designed in keeping with engineering work on the route as a whole, the department said.

Feng Scorns Chiang's Order To Leave U. S., Return Home

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang, known as China's "Christian general," said today he felt "honor-bound to refuse to recognize" Chiang Kai-shek's order to return to his homeland December 20. The general has been critical of the generalissimo's administration.

Feng said he had been warned that "my outspoken criticism of the criminal policies of civil war and dictatorship of the Nanking government may result in an attempt to silence me by recalling me to China.

"If Chiang's order is for that purpose, I would like to have it honestly and openly stated."

General Feng said the generalissimo's order contradicted instructions he had received from Premier Chang Chun, chairman of the exuective yuan or department, to continue investigating United States conservation projects for another year.

"Such an action by an individual which clearly violates established government procedure, is typical of a dictatorship, and I feel honor-bound to refuse to recognize it," he said.

The general said an attack on him in Congress by Representative Walter Judd (R., Minn.) and the order for his recall "had a too obvious connection to need any elaboration." He added that Judd's likening of him to Henry Wallace was considered by the general "not as an insult but as a great honor."

Feng said peace could be restored in China within four months after formation of a coalition government representing all political parties.

Chiang's Forces May Quit Mukden

Nanking, Dec. 22 (AP).—Chinese government quarters voiced fears today that Mukden might have to be abandoned in the face of Communist operations now frankly characterized as the "seventh Manchurian offensive."

They said damage to the Peiping-Mukden railway might force the government to pull out of the Manchurian city rather than attempt the almost impossible task of supplying the large garrison by air.

J. B. Diamond Quits as U. S. Attorney Aide

John B. Diamond, 3d, assistant United States District Attorney here for the past seven years, yesterday announced he is resigning, effective Friday.

He said he would enter private law practice with the firm of Nash & Donnelly, with offices in the American Security building.

Diamond made his announcement to District Court Justice David A. Pine, following final returns for 1947 of United States grand jury actions, which department he headed for the past three months.

Diamond was admitted to practice in 1935 following his graduation from Columbia Law School here. He served five years in the legal division, Federal Housing Authority.

WANN to Rebroadcast Pearl Harbor Diary

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—A rebroadcast of "Letter from Oahu," a dramatization of a Navy wife's diary starting on Pearl Harbor Day, will be given tomorrow at 12:30 p. m. over the Mutual Broadcasting System.

The diary of Eugenia Mandelkorn, wife of Comdr. Robert Mandelkorn, who is stationed at Annapolis, covers the period between December 7 and December 23, 1941, in Honolulu after the Japanese attack.

The piece was adapted for radio by Ira Marion and produced for the Naval Academy by Tom Carr, manager of Station WANN of Annapolis.

Hagerstown Police Dump Whisky, Beer

Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—The police made room for "live" prisoners in the city jail today.

They dumped 10 gallons of confiscated whisky down the drain and several hundred bottles of beer are destined to go the same gurgling way. The police said they were taking up needed cell space.

Gravity Splits Comet Apart When It Rides Too Near Sun

Chicago, Dec. 22 (AP).—University of Chicago astronomers today reported that a new comet, first observed in Texas, December 14, has split into two parts "because it came too close to the sun."

The comet swung to within 10 million miles of the sun. This brought it in range of the sun's gravity, which pulled it apart.

Two observers, Dr. Polydore Swing and Thornton Page reported the comet split on December 18 into parts of equal brightness about 1000 miles apart.

On December 19 the distance between the two portions had spread to 1500 miles, with the northwestern component about three times the brightness of its twin.

Photographs reveal the comet is composed of iron, nickel, and "large amounts of ammonia."

Vepco Land Offers Settle Fairfax Condemnation Case

The Fairfax County land condemnation proceedings for a power-line right of way were ended yesterday with an out-of-court settlements.

By offering more for the right of way land than the court commission had indicated it would award, Virginia Electric & Power Co. settled the five remaining cases and received promises that four injunction suits against its line construction would be withdrawn.

Only injunction suit remaining is that filed by Earl N. Chiles, whose case was heard first, attorneys said. The condemnation commission awarded him $37,563 for 40 acres, a figure lower, attorneys said, than that offered by VEPCO.

The out-of-court settlements: Herbert M. Powell, $4000; George Bolling Lee, $2001; Joseph Q. and Frank R. Bristow, $25,000; Carr, Inc., $4500; Omer L. and T. Mason Hirst, $4500.

The landowners had fought the power line for nearly a year, claiming it would decrease land values and create a hazard.

Besides the Chiles injunction, VEPCO still faces action from Fairfax County, which is prosecuting an alleged violation of the county zoning ordinance.

The two Moslem segments united governmentally as the new nation of Pakistan lie at opposite northeast and northwest corners of India.

Hospital Fees Agreed Upon In Alexandria

Payment of $6400 to Alexandria Hospital for care of indigent emergency-room cases in 1947 will be recommended to the Alexandria City Council tonight.

The agreement on the sum was worked out yesterday at a joint meeting of copuncil and hospital committees.

The contract signed by city and hospital last month for hospitalization of welfare patients at $8.81 a day did not include emergency-room treatment of the slightly injured. The committee agreed yesterday to $2 a patient, and the sum to be paid for all such cases handled this year was fixed on this basis.

The Council also will receive a request from the hospital's board of directors for a meeting to agree to a contract for 1948 for hospitalization and emergency treatment for indigents. The recently signed contract expires December 31.

Also on tonight's agenda are: (1) a resolution from the Alexandria Junior Chamber of Commerce requesting several changes in the city charter; (2) consideration of the city's position on purchase of Cameron Valley and Chinquapin Village apartment developments. Veterans organizations have urged city purchase of these projects, which are now used largely to house military and civilian personnel from Ft. Belvoir and the Naval Torpedo Plant in Alexandria.

The term plan of national service life insurance administered by Veterans Administration provides the maximum degree of temporary protection at the lowest cost.

Delaying Action

Those residents of Arlington who thought the controversy over their schools was settled with the choice of an elected school board underestimated the character of the opposition. At this late date, the suit filed by a member of the outgoing board to keep that body in office and prevent seating of the new board can hardly be viewed as anything but a last desperate effort to scuttle the entire electoral procedure and thwart the will of the people.

Legislation authorizing a referendum on whether Arlington's School Board should be appointive or elective was passed by the Virginia Assembly last January. Arlington voters showed a strong preference for an elective board in the June referendum. In November they again showed their preference by defeating the incumbents decisively and electing as board members candidates who had favored the change. A court test of the legality of the change in procedure is, of course, perfectly proper. But why, if a legal question was involved, was it not raised 11 months ago instead of at the last moment when all preparations have been made?

The challengers base their case on the contention that the Virginia constitution does not permit a change in electoral procedure applicable to only one area. A more reasonable interpretation, it seems to us, is that this prohibition has to do with the technical form of elections rather than the substance. If the act authorizing the school referendum was unconstitutional, then, in all probability, the act which enabled Arlington to establish a county manager form of government was also illegal. That is a contingency which seems wholly fantastic.

The snarl of legalism which has now been foisted on Arlington threatens to resemble the turmoil in Georgia during the abortive putsch of Herman Talmadge. The old School Board has announced that it will not turn over books to the new board. The county treasurer, however, says that he will not honor drafts by the old board after January 1 and will recognize the new board. The question of what is to happen to teachers' pay, not to mention the funds voted for school improvements, puts a premium on a prompt court decision.

The delaying action would be more understandable if some vital issue of principle were involved. Far from subverting the schools, however, the control by an elected board will only extend to Arlington the popular responsibility now prevailing in most cities. In our opinion, the challenge is utterly without moral justification and can only be regarded as an attempt to perpetuate the status quo, which includes some notable deficiencies. Obviously the challengers cannot have been thinking of the welfare of the children involved. Arlington voters who want better schools can have no patience with these tactics.

Ray L. Huff

The name of Ray L. Huff has been closely associated with welfare and prison problems in the District of Columbia for more than a decade. His death at the early age of 52 deprives the local government of a faithful and conscientious public servant. It is no disparagement of him to say that his dreams were much larger than his achievements. For in some measure his disappointments were a result of the system under which he worked. Perhaps Mr. Huff's most serious mistake was in resisting various improvements in that system at a time when its defects had become so obvious that no director of public welfare in Washington could be expected to do a first-class job.

Through a large part of his public service here Mr. Huff was a center of controversy. Yet he was personally a mild-mannered and kindly man who had the welfare of his fellow human beings close to his heart. Many of his friends and admirers believe that his best work was done as superintendent of penal institutions. He was thoroughly trained in prison administration and had a deep feeling for this type of work. Prisoners under his care he regarded as normal human beings who had made mistakes but who were still in need of understanding and rehabilitation within the community to which they would return. As director of public welfare, his concern for families in distress was constantly evident. Many social workers have taken issue with Mr. Huff's plan for a large centralized group of welfare institutions at Laurel, Md., but we know of none who questioned the sincerity of his efforts to lift up the underprivileged groups.

Mr. Huff laid himself open to criticism when he continued to function as superintendent of penal institutions after being named welfare director, although he drew only one salary. When the Board of Public Welfare came under fire, he resisted both the creation of the local Department of Corrections and integration of the board itself with the remainder of the District government. Both of these moves, in our opinion, were misguided. Mr. Huff was content to try to muddle through with a schizophrenic system of local administration. This is not surprising, of course, for he was part of that system. He was caught in a vicious circle of inadequate funds, unsatisfactory service and lack of initiative toward the correction of basic deficiencies. Under these circumstances hard work, a warm heart and devotion to duty are not enough to lift public service to a high level of efficiency. A large degree of statesmanship is also necessary and not much of this has been evident at the District Building.

Marshall Plan And CIO

In the contest for men's minds in Europe, now so ominously referred to as "the cold war," unofficial forces play a part no less influential than that played by governments themselves. The official statement, the diplomatic utterance, especially when it is expressed in a foreign tongue, may have scant meaning for the average man. But workers have a sense of kinship with fellow workers that reaches across the frontiers of nationality. This is why the voice of America's CIO, raised at the Paris meeting of the World Federation of Trade Unions in defense of the Marshall Plan, has proved so valuable an aid to American foreign policy.

The Soviet propaganda drive against the Marshall Plan has been based on the perverted yet specious idea that the United States seeks to aid the democracies of Europe only for the purpose of making them American colonies. The scheme is referred to in Moscow broadcasts as an expression of Wall Street imperialism—whatever that may mean. But James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the notoriously non-imperialist, anti-Wall Street CIO got up at a session of the WFTU Executive Bureau the other day and made it altogether clear that his powerful labor organization indorses the Marshall Plan wholeheartedly.

British, French and Italian workers know very well that American workers in the CIO are not trying to enslave them. They know that this militant labor organization is not backing reaction or allowing itself to be used as a tool for the exploitation of workers anywhere. In this context Mr. Carey's argument that his country is striving only to restore the economy of Europe as an indispensable foundation for world prosperity and world peace is peculiarly persuasive. The vital role which the CIO has played in promoting its country's foreign interests deserves the appreciation (and support) of the State Department and the American people. When the CIO asked Secretary Marshall to address its convention at Atlantic City last month, it overrode the inhibitions of its small Communist minority and, like the AFL, sloughed off its provincialism in foreign affairs. The two great labor bodies stand together for an affirmative democratic foreign policy.

Defense Of Prejudice

The current local attacks on the report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights may be set down as symptoms of progress. In the first place, it is altogether salutary to have this community's race relations problem brought out into the open where it can be looked at and discussed. In the second place, it is heartening, when you come to reflect upon it, that those members of the community who wish to perpetuate an essentially anti-democratic system of official segregation now feel compelled to defend their prejudices in public. Until lately, they could afford to sit back in smug silence. It is healthy that they should be heard. Radio Station WTOP, which gave several of them a chance to express their views in a recent broadcast, deserves praise for tackling a ticklish local issue; no doubt it will soon air the other side of the story, too. We are glad these men were heard; glad, in particular, that Mr. Clifford H. Newell has prepared a "critical analysis" of the Civil Rights report through which his views are submitted for public scrutiny.

The very extravagance of the attacks on the President's Committee conveys its own refutation. Mr. Newell, for instance, feels obliged to carry the argument ad hominem. Happily, he has somewhat modified his earlier aspersions on the motives of the committee members and now takes the more charitable view in his analysis that such men as Charles E. Wilson, Dr. Frank Graham, Charles Luckman, Morris Ernst, Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill and Bishop Francis J. Haas were merely duped into signing a report replete with "gross exaggerations, carefully worded misstatements, half-truths and vicious untruths" which Mr. Newell doubts "if any one of the committeemen had any part in actually editing." Most Washingtonians, we presume, will prefer to credit these men with at least enough wit to know what they were doing and enough conscience to mean what they said.

The WTOP broadcast disclosed an interesting reticence on the part of local leaders. Few of them wanted to defend publicly the practices which the President's Committee had condemned, although activities for which they were directly responsible were attacked in the committee's report. No less notable was the vagueness of those who did participate. Dr. Maurer, the acting president of the Board of Education, declined to answer the direct question, "Do you, as a plain citizen, believe that segregation should be done away with?" And Mr. Newell: "I do not think a covenant necessarily applies to any race or creed. I think it applies, and should apply, to a desirable class of people residing in that community." No one would quarrel with a covenant such as this. But it scarcely meets the issue of the restrictive covenant based on race or religion.

The most disingenuous plea of all was entered by Mr. Harry Wender, chairman of the Recreation Board. He contended that the segregation policy pursued by his board is required by law, declaring that "the original bill that was presented to Congress for creation of a recreation board did contain specific language which would have made it compulsory in every particular that we have a segregated recreation system in Washington." He quite neglected to state, however, that this segregation clause was deliberately stricken from the bill by Congress before it was enacted into law. But, as we say, it is a sign of progress to have any debate at all.

Pope Vs. Communists

The latest encyclical of Pope Pius XII, prepared, as such documents usually are, in rather stilted Ciceronian periods, is ostensibly a homily against class hatreds and civil disorders and against men who incite them, and so is of universal applicability. There seems little doubt, however, that it was specially prompted by the situation in Italy, where disorders very closely approximating to civil war, have been raging for a month. Thus when the Pope speaks of persons who > aggravate and batten on the misery of the proletarian classes, and hence obstruct those noble forces with which, with strict order, and with justice, the rebuilding of fortunes now dispersed is attempted, it is clear enough that he is indicating the Communist leaders who have been fomenting the strikes and riots in their effort to overturn the government of Premier de Gasperi. It is not, he asserts, the purpose of these leaders > to mitigate the poverty of the people, but rather to increase it, aggravating hatred and interrupting the course of the works of urban life.

In other words, the sole purpose of the Communists is to produce a condition of chaos and complete calamity that will enable them to seize power and to consolidate it by terrorism. The workers who, blinded by their grievances, aid them in this purpose are really making war against the possibility of any improvement in their condition. For in the present condition of Europe, as the Pontiff observes, the whole possibility of recovery depends upon "active concord . . . mutual understanding . . . peaceful labor." Therefore, the Pope, alluding to the approach of Christmas, calls for prayers to "remove the torches that are threateningly shaken in hatred, in seditions and tumults."

The folly of a section of the Italian workers in permitting themselves to be used against their interest as pawns and dupes of Communist policy, is to us so evident that we may be surprised that such a warning from such a source should be necessary. What we forget is that mere logic fills no stomachs, cures no despair. Nevertheless, there is evidence that despite its miseries, a considerable section of the Italian workers perceives the issue clearly enough. Last week two parties of the Left, the Republicans and the Socialist group, headed by Signor Saragat, which have hitherto refused all collaboration with Premier de Gasperi, agreed to join his government.

Santa Claus

The older we get, the more Santa Clauses we seem to run into. This we have happily discovered is not due to our dotage, but to the booming Santa Claus business. Rather we should say profession, since it has now reached the stage where just any well upholstered man can't essay the lead role. To be really expert he must have been graduated from a Santa Claus school where he has learned the techniques of belly laughing, theatrical make-up, toy selection, child psychology and salesmanship. To such a school at Albion, N. Y., many department stores are now sending their Santas to get training and even degrees. So important has the Santa Claus business become that some stores are having Santas answer telephone calls and sign mimeographed letters in reply to children's requests.

All this hubbub over the man in a red suit with 16-inch white yak beard—the standard specifications—seemed strange until we learned that children were losing faith in Santa at the tender age of 7.1 years, whereas they used to hold on until they were 8. The longer they believe, the more toys can be sold. After they begin to scorn Santa, their parents buy them sweaters, gloves, books, other practical presents that would be purchased anyway. Hence it is up to Santa to boost the age of disbelief—also the toy business. Yet we cannot help but wonder if in this situation there is conviction in numbers.

NO STOP TONIGHT

Lanes of cypress blackly fringe the craters of the moon,
And far the moaning whistle carries on the wasteland.
Deep the shrouded mountains fade in haze
And misty gold reflects on shining rails.
Push your steel pistons!
Speed your iron wheels!
No stop tonight.
Black cypress trees and misty mountains call
That thinner faces may have bread
And life blood may not fill the craters of the moon.
O, the lamps may drip with fog as you pass,
But moan loud your whistle and echo far your call,
For the blood of the world drips from the black cypress,
And fast the earth becomes a crater of the moon.

"Chest Deficit"

In an editorial of December 14 regarding the "Chest Deficit," was the statement:

"While the money raised this year is slightly above last year's total, the increase . . ."

The money reported this year, according to the same editorial, is $3,173,741.

On December 13, 1946, The Washington Post reported $3,653,943.

The obvious error is important because there are so many people who think that if they do not see hungry people begging on the streets, all is well with the agencies of social welfare. Their reasoning will therefore be something like this:

"The Chest and its agencies got by in 1947. There is more money for 1948. So I don't have to give any more."

Yes, the right words for 1947 are "got by" . . . at the expense of people who needed help they could not get because last year's campaign, for all that it raised more than the present one, failed to provide enough to meet the actual needs.

This year there is $480,000 less money; costs are higher; and there are more people who will have to ask for help. So the wrong impression of relative success is dangerous to the very people for whose aid the Chest and the social agencies exist.

HERBERT L. WILLETT, Jr.
Washington.

Editor's note: The discrepancy arises over our misuse of the word "total" as applied to last year's campaign. At the official end of the 1947 drive on November 19, 1946, $3,017,285 had been collected. Subsequent mop-up efforts brought the final sum to the figure Mr. Willett cites.

Thin Russians

Ed Reed's cartoon of December 17 showing a pot-bellied Santa Claus thoughtfully discussed by two small boys puts me in mind of an incident which set me laughing and at the same time to thinking.

It transpired during the summer of 1945 in Moscow one very hot day when I was weekending at a small suburban village not too far from the Soviet capital. I overheard two ragged youngsters discussing with with great seriousness.

"Where do you think that fat fellow came from? The Ukraine, Leningrad, Georgia, perhaps Odessa?" asked the first.

"Don't be silly," retorted the second, "On ne Russki (he is not a Russian). Such a fat boy is not found in Russia . . .!"

With the current trend of prices perhaps there may be more truth than poetry in Mr. Reed's cartoon. For your information I tipped the beam at 175 pounds (5 ft. 8 in.) in 1945. That was the first time I had so clearly demonstrated to me the fact that all things are relative. There are very few fat people in Russia (for obvious reasons). Therefore, as far as the two youngsters were concerned, one who was a little better nourished than his miserable fellows could only be one of two things, a foreigner or a high Russian government official.

Palestine Partition

This is in reply to the letter by John O. Knott concerning the partition of Palestine which appeared in the December 13 issue of The Washington Post.

Mr. Knott implies that he is a friend of the Jewish people even though he is anti-Zionist, and he carries this fiction further when he goes on to quote the anti-Zionist remarks of the Hon. Oscar S. Straus, a device incidently, used by the Arab office in its dissemination of antipartition propaganda.

Mr. Knott makes two vicious implications. He states that the partitioning of Palestine in accession to Zionist demands will cause another world war to be foisted upon humanity. A future war therefore, cannot be blamed upon the economic and idealistic differences between the United States and the Soviet Union, the state of unrest and turmoil caused by the last war plus other reasons too numerous to mention, but according to Mr. Knott, upon the Jews.

He states that up until now the Arabs have protected Christian holy places implying that Palestinian Jews may not do so. This implication has absolutely no basis in fact. Furthermore, may I remind Mr. Knott of the persecution of Christians by Arabs in Lebanon.

"Reservation" Indians

Those who wish to profit by the Indians' unfortunate condition say that they are not capable of being anything but "reservation" Indians. What a cruel slander this is! The Indians, in spite of all obstacles, have helped to develop many States. Take Oklahoma, for example. They were among those who wrote the State constitution and have since been in the making and interpretation of every State law. Indians have been State judges and members of the State Legislature as well as outstanding businessmen. There have been Red bankers of Tahlequah and other Oklahoma cities. One of the best mayors Tahlequah ever had was a full blood Cherokee. The State is filled with popular Red teachers and prosperous Red farmers.

On the national stage Indian accomplishments cover a wide range: writers, scientists, inventors, opera singers.

Long ago tribal councils followed the philosophy that arbitrary legislation that deprives the individual of his initiative faculty cannot but produce a poor citizen. Put as many whites on reservations, cut away their privileges, make them dependent and they will become as heartsick and slothful as the most indigent Reds you might find there.

Give the Reds the advantage of the whites and they will do equally as well.

China's Rathole

As one American who is anxious over the policy of "flinging out the billions," I am grateful to The Washington Post for its opposition to Messrs. Judd, Bullitt and Dewey and General Wedemeyer. We cannot do what they advocate without disaster to ourselves and the wrecking of the American financial structure—even if it does not lead to war—will mean the ruin of the whole chain of European nations now temporarily dependent on our support.

We have sufficient wealth and power to save the 16 countries of western Europe which are already democracies. We have not the means or capacity to lift the Chinese out of their centuries-old condition and make them what it has taken other peoples hundreds of years of strife and struggle to achieve.

China is back in the Dark Ages. The few scores of American educated men and women in dominant financial positions at Nanking and diplomatic posts in foreign capitals, those who meet and speak with our people, are not representative of their country in the mass. In China more millions of people than in all Europe are starving to death. We cannot carry such a load. If the Russians want to attempt it let them do it. They will only put the chain about their own necks.

I am not calloused; I have lived years in China, have been in the midst of famines, and have suffered for the sufferers I could not relieve. I am only arguing the unwisdom of a man jumping into the ocean in a storm to try to save others from shipwreck.

The advocates of going to Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's assistance contend that the tremendous manpower of China could be equipped, organized and utilized by the Russians against us. The Kremlin has not yet organized and equipped its own people to any such extent. If it had it would dominate the continent of Europe today. If it attempts to dominate and militarize China it will find itself bogged down in a colossal quagmire. Every nation which ever entered China, including the Japanese, found that. The Chinese could not be made to fight for Russia or any other country. They have not thought seriously as a united people even against invaders, including the Japanese, for centuries.

If we—going "step by step"—got ourselves into another war in behalf of China our recent experience would be repeated; we would pay the bill and do the fighting. And what would be the result? Would it do the Chinese people any good? It would make more multimillionaires, as our lend-lease effort did, but it would also bring more destitution to scores of millions of ordinary people.

The impoverished condition of the Chinese masses was not brought about—though it was, of course, intensified—by the Japanese invasion; it has existed since before America was discovered. A little reading of history and facing of geographical and numerical facts would be a good thing for some of us who would now save nations from others who cannot be saved from themselves. Chinese have killed millions of Chinese.

To quote Theodore Roosevelt, "Don't Chinafy America." That is what we are likely to do in our efforts to Americanize the masses of the peoples of Asia. We can ruin ourselves in an attempt to make the rest of the world in our own image. It would be a mistake for us to get the super-race complex, even with righteous intentions.

The Chinese have many ancient sayings in which there is wisdom. They were once, a thousand years ago, the greatest nation in the world. One of their sayings is this: "In wars adversaries exchange vices." We were horrified when the Germans, Italians and Japanese first bombed open cities from the air. But we so thoroughly acquired the art that we frightened ourselves with the extent to which we carried it. The Chinese proverb might be varied to read: "In wars adversaries exchange follies." Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo led their peoples into madness. We are a mighty nation capable of saving itself. But there are limits to our capacity.

Our defense is secure if we restrain ourselves to the proper meaning of that term. If we distort it to mean the defense of 400 millions of Chinese and a billion other backward peoples, we doom ourselves. And with the collapse of the United States—if only financial—goes that of England, France, Italy and all the other existing democracies.

Russian Gamble

U. S. Depression

IT IS generally recognized that the policy of the Soviet Union is based upon the assumption that the capitalist system is doomed. What has not been so apparent has been Moscow's timetable.

An eastern European statesman who has served his country with outstanding distinction gave me his estimate the other day. He asserted that the members of the Politburo had differed among themselves as to the wisdom of the policy now being pursued, and that Mr. Molotov, who headed the group responsible for it, had won out only after bitter opposition.

In my friend's belief, the Molotov majority of the Politburo are confident that a disastrous economic depression will hit the United States before the end of the year 1948. They are persuaded that the American Government will then be forced to withdraw its occupation troops from central Europe and to terminate the heavy drain upon American resources represented by a Marshall Plan. The way would then be clear for the Soviet government to consolidate its control over Germany and Austria.

In that event western Europe is expected to fall automatically into the hands of local Communist regimes. If the Molotov timing proves accurate the Soviet Union could easily shore up its own economic structure for the time being in the assurance that the industrial resources of western Europe would be available to it before 1950.

THERE IS much evidence to support this thesis.

Except in one aspect of the Austrian negotiation, Mr. Molotov has spurned all compromises since the peace treaties with Italy and the Axis satellites were concluded.

He has refused to consider the economic unification of Germany unless the 10 billion dollars of reparations "demanded" by Russia were taken out of current German production—in other words, out of the pockets of the American taxpayers.

He has refused to consent to the incorporation of the Saar in France's economy unless the three western powers ratified Germany's present boundary with Poland, although the Potsdam agreements specifically provided that this frontier was subject to further negotiation.

He has refused to consider the imposition of international controls over Germany's key industries in the east although he insists upon a Russian share in the control of the Ruhr.

He has refused to agree to the establishment of any German government unless it is a form of government readily amenable to Communist control.

The logical reason for Mr. Molotov's adamant refusal to negotiate on any front would seem to be his confidence that Russia can by intransigence secure all that she presently seeks, and that there is no need for her to accept less by compromise and by negotiation.

It is unlikely that Mr. Molotov would have so thoroughly burned his bridges to western Europe at the London Conference, or have wooed the German people so persistently, had he not been convinced that western Europe would before long be safely within the Soviet zone and that from the Russian standpoint the immediate essential was a cooperative Germany.

THE FATE of the democracies depends to a large extent upon the capacity of the American people so to manage their internal policy that the depression upon which the Kremlin is gambling will not take place. There has never been a moment in the history of the United States when internal policy will more directly shape foreign policy.

Our present foreign policy cannot succeed unless the Marshall Plan is promptly adopted by the Congress. No such plan can be enacted unless it receives bipartisan support.

It is equally obvious that no European reconstruction program can be carried on effectively unless this Nation can control inflation within its own borders and correct the increasing maladjustments with which its domestic economy is beset.

The Government of the United States cannot by edict arrest inflation in the Soviet manner. Yet what in normal times would be primarily an internal problem has become a question which affects the entire world. The security of the West depends upon the willingness of the American people to cope with this internal problem in that same nonpartisan spirit responsible for the ratification of the Charter of the United Nations and the passage of the bill for stopgap aid to Europe.

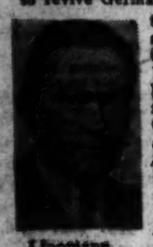
It was no coincidence that Hitler launched his blitzkreig against western Europe in the spring of 1940. Ribbentrop had convinced him that in a presidential election year the American Government would be unable to help the western democracies. Stalin and the Politburo are gambling that in 1948 party politics will be supreme, and that no bipartisan measures will be adopted by which the ills now afflicting the American economy can be cured.

The coming year will be one of supreme national emergency. Such an emergency can only be surmounted if public opinion realizes in time that this country's safety rests upon the capacity of the American Government to make its present foreign policy succeed, and that its foreign policy cannot succeed unless it is backed by a healthy national economy.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

Not For War But For Peace



RADIO MOSCOW, commenting on the Marshall Plan, says that it is a four-year program to revive Germany's war potential, that its "essence" is "war," that "American billions are to be used to transform western Germany into an arsenal of American expansion." There are many people in Europe, and some Americans too, who think this is or might be the purpose of the Marshall Plan.

Lippmann

They will not be convinced by our denials. But it is possible to demonstrate to any rational person that if it were a war plan, it would be a very bad plan.

FOR WHAT could be more foolish in preparing for war than to build up a great war potential within a day's march of the Red Army? Yet that is what Moscow accuses us of wishing to do. The Russians must think that men like Marshall, Forrestal, Eisenhower and Bradley are military simpletons; capable of the indescribable folly of building a great arsenal which could be captured in the first days of a war.

For western Germany is just about the last place on the face of the globe that an American strategist would select to build up an arsenal. We would be spending billions of dollars on an arsenal that is undefended and undefendable, which would be lost to the Russian infantry before it could be used against the Russians, and would then have to be destroyed by American air power after the American taxpayer had paid through the nose to reconstruct it.

AND WHAT an arsenal! Why on earth should the United States, which has a war potential at least five times as great as Germany as a whole before it was devastated and dismembered, which now has a war potential ten times greater than anything the Germans could achieve, be interested in developing the German war potential?

In case of war with Russia western Germany would not be a military asset but a dangerous liability. Not only would it be open to capture by the Red Army but it could easily be delivered to the Russians by the Germans who have so much more to gain by an alliance with Russia than by an alliance with the United States.

AN EXAMINATION of the Marshall Plan will show conclusively why it is not a scheme for making of Germany an arsenal against the Soviet Union and its allies in eastern Europe. A cardinal feature of the plan is its recognition that western Germany cannot be restored unless the imports of food and foodstuffs from the Russian orbit are restored to the prewar level.

Now in the calculations of the nations which are participating in the European Recovery Program, it is western Germany which is most dependent upon the restoration of trade with the Russian orbit. The other 16 participating countries are primarily dependent upon the restoration of overseas, extra-European, trade. But western Germany cannot be restored at all, and must remain forever a dead weight upon the American taxpayer, if it cannot export at least 30 per cent of its products and take at least 30 per cent of its imports from the Russian orbit.

How then can western Germany, dependent for its daily food upon the Russian orbit, be conceived as an arsenal against the Russian orbit? If western Germany is to be anyone's arsenal, it will be the arsenal of the Russian orbit.

THESE ARE the reasons why the Marshall Plan is not a war plan, and not even a plan for waging the cold war. It is a peace plan. It depends for its success upon a settlement which reunites Germany and Europe. And it is designed by those who organized the project, and understand it, to accomplish that great constructive end.

If it were something else, if it were a plan to harden the division of Germany and of Europe, it could not have as one of its cardinal assumptions that trade between eastern and western Europe must be restored in the course of four or five years. A wholly different plan would have had to be invented—one in which the western German food supply was to come permanently across the ocean, one in which German manufactures would not go to eastern Europe in payment for food.

AND IF this plan were a plan of American imperialism to make Britain and France, and all of western Europe, satellites of the United States, then it would not propose, insist, and demand that our European friends make every conceivable sacrifice in order to become independent of our aid.

The truth is that the object of the Marshall Plan in western Europe is the very opposite of imperialism. Its object is the independence of the nations of Europe and their unity—which, if we were imperialists, would be the very last thing we would want. For empires are founded by dividing and conquering, not by uniting the nations and helping them to be self-sustaining.

THE GREATEST obstacle to the plan, which has to be overcome abroad and at home, is the almost universal modern inability to believe that a great power can in fact have an enlightened policy. The degrading experience through which mankind has passed has left about almost all men with the feeling that if the policy of a nation is magnanimous and constructive, it is probably foolish and softheaded; that if the policy is sagacious, astute, and tough-minded, then it must be selfish and brutal and sinister.

That is why it is not easy to sell the Marshall Plan to our generation for what it is: as a very enlightened, magnanimous and constructive project, astutely and sagaciously conceived to promote the highest and the enduring interests of the American people. For so many who think it magnanimous, too magnanimous, will be sure it is not astute, and those who can see how it serves the American interest will not easily believe that it serves also the general interest of mankind.

THIS WAS to be expected. For a generation the world has seen great power used for evil purposes. It has seen that those who had good purposes were weak. It will therefore take time to convince the rest of the world, and indeed ourselves, that great power can be used intelligently for good ends.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph Alsop

The Zone of War—I

"WE ARE IN THE ZONE OF WAR." These grim words have not appeared in the slightly foggy official post-mortems on the London Conference, which formally divided one world into two worlds. Yet the sad admission is to be heard often enough from the diplomats, experts and military advisers, who are ultimately responsible for the official statements. It is the necessary starting point for any fully honest final report by a returning observer.

Of course, the fact that there is danger does not mean that war must come, or is even at all likely. It means, rather, that in the period ahead there will be many tests of nerve and trials of strength. It means, also, that these tests and trials will be even more difficult and dangerous than those which have occurred in the unpeaceful time since the German surrender. The game of world politics should not be played, without a clear understanding of the gigantic stakes upon the table.

Possibly the experts are wrong, yet it is significant that whereas opinions often diverged in the past, there is now pretty general agreement on the blueprint for the future. According to this blueprint, the Soviets will shortly extirpate the remnants of opposition in their zone of Germany, and establish a new puppet national front there. They will hasten the process of crushing the independence of Czechoslovakia, which should be completed by the spring unless the non-Communist Czechs show considerably more will to resist than they have done to date.

THEY WILL PUSH FORWARD the purge of "unreliable elements" in the governments of the other satellite countries of eastern Europe. They will make a clean sweep of every Pole, Hungarian, Romanian, Bulgarian, Yugoslav and Albanian, whether hireling non-Communist, or Communist, whose attachment to the Soviet Union is considered undependable. And they may well expel the Austrian government from the Soviet zone of Austria, although this will be a flat violation of treaty obligations.

The purpose of these moves will be to consolidate the Soviet world as a political and economic monolith, impervious, showing no chink, from base to pinnacle. Concurrently, offensive moves are also to be expected along the border between the Soviet world and the western worlds.

The first move is likely to be recognition, at least by the Kremlin's Balkan satellites, of the so-called "republican government of Greece," headed by the Communist General Vafiades. The Yugoslavs, Bulgars and Albanians will then be able to give much stronger support to the attack on the Greek government at Athens. At the same time, pressure on Trieste will probably be intensified. And later on, we must be prepared for other moves elsewhere, against Turkey, against Iran and Iraq, against the uncontrolled, uranium-rich Chinese province of Sinkiang, and in Manchuria and North China. In Manchuria, indeed, a far more aggressive Soviet policy seems to be taking shape already.

Almost without exception these points where Soviet pressure is anticipated cannot be sacrificed, without compromising the strategic security of the west. It is universally believed that the Soviets only mean to feel out soft spots, and that they can be turned back by firmness. Yet there will always be some risk of accident, so long as this condition of pressure and counter-pressure persists.

THE QUESTION REALLY IS whether the condition is curable. In this connection it is important to study the official Soviet strategy. This strategy was disclosed with astonishing frankness by Andrei Zhdanov at the famous organization meeting of the Cominform. Zhdanov rallied the assembled representatives of the most important European Communist parties for two grand efforts: The effort to transform the Soviet world into a single monolith, and the effort to prevent the rehabilitation of the west by frustrating the Marshall Plan for European recovery. His peroration consisted of a series of almost hysterical repetitions of the threat to wreck the European recovery program at all costs.

There is every reason to take Zhdanov quite literally. Developments in eastern Europe, and the crises in France and Italy, showed both the efforts he called for actually beginning, while Messrs. Molotov and Marshall, Bevin and Bidault were still in embittered session at Lancaster House.

Yet it is vital to note that Zhdanov's main emphasis was not on such local situations as that in Greece, but on the broad objective of preventing European recovery. The reason is obvious. The recovery of the 16 nations participating in the Marshall Plan for Europe will drastically alter the world power balance. After any such alteration in the world power balance, the Kremlin will at last be forced to come to terms, and not on the basis of unchallengeable domination which has been the Soviet objective ever since the German surrender. That is the real meaning of Secretary of State George C. Marshall's rather delphic remark, that "agreements between sovereign states are generally the reflection and not the cause of genuine settlements."

A Republican victory in 1948, ending President Truman's occupation of the White House, is forecast by the results of a poll among Washington correspondents of 57 leading American newspapers.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York is given the best chance to win the Republication nomination, and also is regarded by the correspondents as the man most likely to be the next President.

The poll, started by Look magazine in October and made public yesterday, shows that an overwhelming number of the correspondents expect Mr. Truman to be beaten next November. His nomination by the Democratic Party was taken for granted.

How They Voted

The correspondents were asked this question: "Who will be elected President?"

The 57 voted as follows:

Thomas E. Dewey	19
Robert A. Taft	12
Dwight D. Eisenhower	12
Harry S. Truman	5
Arthur H. Vandenberg	4
Harold E. Stassen	1
Uncertain votes	4

A check among the correspondents yesterday showed that some had changed their minds since voting in the Look poll in October. The switches were in Mr. Truman's favor. Some who predicted his defeat were ready to eat their words and predict his election for a full, 4-year term. However, even with the switches, the poll made the Republican Party a top-heavy favorite to win.

Some, thinking it over again, said that the chances of Dewey and Eisenhower seemed less bright than in the autumn.

Dewey First Choice

Just the same, Dewey remained first choice for the Republican nomination, with 20 votes. Then came Ike, with 13; Taft, 12; Vandenberg, 5; Stassen, 1, and Senator John W. Bricker, 1. There were five "uncertain" votes.

The man most of the correspondents thought would be the Democratic vice presidential nominee was Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal. Since they made their prediction Forrestal, adopting language used earlier by Secretary of State George C. Marshall, has said that he could not be "drafted" for any political office.

Gallup Poll Contrary

The poll among Washington correspondents is at sharp variance with the Gallup Poll, which for some time now has given the Democratic Party the edge for 1948.

The most recent surveys of Dr. George Gallup show that the Democratic Party is a favorite even in such States as New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio — States without which the Republicans could not hope to win.

In the three States, a cross section of voters was asked the question, "If a presidential election were held today, which party would you vote for—the Democratic or Republican? In all three, the result was the same: Democratic, 51 per cent; Republican, 49 per cent.

U. S. Living Cost Report Stirs Rep. Kean's Hopes for Tax Cut

By The Associated Press

A Treasury Department analysis of the relationship between rising costs and present tax exemptions was hailed by Republicans yesterday as an argument for an immediate income tax reduction.

Representative Kean (R., N. J.), member of the tax-framing House Ways and Means Committee, told reporters, "The Treasury report indicates to me the Administration is thinking about tax reduction and that President Truman will have some tax recommendations in January."

Discussing the relations of taxes and rising living costs, the Treasury analysis said an adjustment would require an individual income tax exemption "of about $650 merely to restore the substantive levels prevailing on 1944, the time of the enactment of the $500 per capita exemptions."

"I agree in general that the cost of living has increased to such an extent that the $500 exemptions does not give the same fair treatment to the low incomes as when this exemption level was adopted by Congress."

Loss in Revenue Considered

The Treasury report said lower income taxes would tend to dampen demands for wage "rate increases," but it added that if tax rates were cut or exemptions increased, the revenue loss might require "heavier reliance on excise or sales taxes," and possibly "indirect tax revenues."

Significance was attached to the survey since it was published shortly after Chairman Knutson (R., Minn.) of the Ways and Means Committee introduced a new Republican bill calling for a $5,600,000,000 slash in income levies. The measure will come up for action when Congress reconvenes in January.

However, the Treasury made no direct recommendations for tax law changes and did not comment upon the Knutson bill. The report is one of a number it has sent to Congress periodically for use in considering tax law revisions.

$824 Now Equals $500 in '39

On the day Knutson introduced his tax bill, President Truman dashed cold water on the idea that the condition of the Treasury justifies immediate tax reduction.

The Treasury report says that $824 is needed now to buy what $500 would buy in 1939. Therefore, it said, if tax relief is to be given by changing personal exemptions, it would be more in line with living costs to give the taxpayer and his wife higher exemptions than those allowed for children or other dependents.

The taxpayer and each dependent now has a flat $500 exemption. Knutson's new bill proposes that the exemption be raised from $500 to $600, that husbands and wives in all States be allowed to split the family income equally for tax reporting purposes and, in addition, cuts be allowed across the board ranging from 20 per cent in lower income brackets to 10 per cent in the upper brackets.

Representative Engle (R., Mich.) commented that the Treasury is "thinking in the right direction when it suggests higher exemptions for heads of families." Engle has a bill pending proposing that the head of a family be given a $1500 exemption.

Goodyear Arranges 100-Million Financing

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—P. W. Litchfield, chairman of the board of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., announced today that arrangements have been completed with insurance companies for borrowing at par $68,421,000 in 3 per cent unsecured promissory notes due in 1967 and for refunding $31,579,000 bonds due 1964 with notes having the same interest rates.

The 100-million-dollar refinancing plan was approved by preferred stockholders last week.

Goodyear has the privilege under the agreements with the insurance group of both fixed and optional prepayments. The schedule of fixed prepayment will retire 73 per cent of the loans by maturity.

SEC Lifts Ban On Trading in Italian Securities

Philadelphia, Dec. 22 (U.P.).—The Securities and Exchange Commission today lifted its wartime restrictions on trading in Italian securities and declared effective a $131,971,000 bond registration filed last week by the Italian republic.

An SEC spokesman said the New York Stock Exchange intends to resume trading tomorrow in all Italian securities traded on the exchange prior to the United States entrance into World War II.

Gen. Meyers Waives Hearing In Perjury Case, Posts Bail

New York, Dec. 22 (U.P.).—Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, retired deputy chief of wartime Air Force procurement, was released in $2000 bail today and ordered to appear in Washington Federal Court on January 7 for arraignment on perjury indictments.

The dapper retired general, who has been under fire since Howard Hughes' testimony made him a target of the Senate Special War Investigation Committee, waived a hearing when he appeared before a United States Commissioner in Brooklyn.

Indicted on Six Counts

A Washington Federal grand jury indicted Meyers on six counts—three of perjury and three of inducing his former associate, Bleriot Lamarre, to commit perjury in testimony before the Senate committee.

An explosion of flash bulbs greeted Meyers when he entered the hearing room with his attorney, Charles Birdsall.

"How do you boys expect me to read after this?" Meyers asked with a grin.

While he waited for bail papers to be drawn up and signed, Meyers joked with newsmen and photographers.

Extends Season's Greetings

After bail was arranged, Meyers wished everyone a "Merry Christmas" and went to his Long Island estate where he will spend the holidays with his wife.

Meyers is charged with perjury in his testimony before the Senate committee about his alleged war profits from the Aviation Electric Corp., a plane-parts subcontracting company.

Lamarre, the $51.50-a-week president of the firm, charged that Meyers was the real owner of the company and had realized $150,000 profits from it.

Lamarre Posts Bond

Dayton, Ohio, Dec. 22 (AP).—Bleriot H. Lamarre, 35, posted bond of $1000 today in United States District Court here for his appearance in Washington January 7 to answer a three-count Federal perjury indictment.

Revenue Collector Is Suspended In 'Shakedown'

Frank W. Kraemer, Connecticut Internal Revenue collector who was indicted last Friday on charges of collecting Democratic campaign funds from Federal employes, was indefinitely suspended yesterday.

The suspension was made effective as of last Friday. Kraemer's two aides indicted on similar charges—Thomas J. O'Neal of Canaan, chief of the income tax division, and Ralph Piccolo, chief of the Bridgeport division—were suspended last Friday.

Thomas Griffin, assistant collector for Connecticut, has been directed to take over Kraemer's office.

The three were indicted by a Federal grand jury on charges of violating the Pendleton Act, a part of the Federal Corrupt Practices Act, for allegedly collecting about $2500 from 22 Internal Revenue employes "for the purpose of furthering the interest of the Democratic Party," in the 1946 general election.

A. S. & T. Maps Stock Splitup Of 10-for-1

By S. Oliver Goodman

A 10-for-1 stock splitup has been recommended by directors of American Security & Trust Co.

The action, if approved by stockholders at the annual meeting on January 20, will mean changing the par value of each share from $100 to $10. There will be no change in the total par value of outstanding capital stock which is $3,400,000.

A letter to stockholders explained the proposed stock splitup is "in order to encourage a broader distribution" of the bank's stock. Last transaction in American Security's stock on the Washington Stock Exchange was at $300 a share.

Shareholders also will vote on a new pension plan for the bank's more than 500 employes. Workers would contribute 3 per cent of their basic monthly salaries and the bank would contribute the balance.

PROFIT-SHARING: The 200 employes of the Capitol Cadillac-Oldsmobile Co. will receive $120 for each year's service under a new profit - sharing plan, President Floyd D. Akers announced yesterday. He added that the majority of employes have more than five years' service. In addition to profits distribution, each employe will receive a Christmas turkey at the annual meeting today. The latter is a 13-year custom of the firm which is located at 1222 22d st. nw. . . . Cherrydale Cement Block Co. and Rucker Lumber Co., both of Arlington, announced bonuses for employes, based on length of service.

NET DOUBLES: Seaboard Finance Co., whose stock is widely held in Washington, yesterday reported net income of $2,170,987 for fiscal year ended September 30, equal to $2.56 a common share. This compares with $1,002,607 or $1.13 a common share in previous fiscal year. President W. A. Thompson reported that instalment notes receivable, business volume and earnings all set new records.

NASD TO ELECT: Nomination of Wallace H. Fulton of Washington as executive director of the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc., was announced yesterday at the local offices. Other nominations included: L. Raymond Billett of Chicago, chairman; Joseph L. Ryons of Los Angeles, vice chairman; Robert C. Kirchofer of Raleigh, N. C., vice chairman, and W. Rex Cromwell of Dallas, treasurer. Election will itake place at a meeting of Board of Governors January 12-13 in New Orleans.

Married Man's Tax Lament: More He Earns, Less He Has

By J. A. Livingston

CONGRESSMAN ENGEL (Rep., Mich.) can take a bow. In March, 1945, he argued in the House that income tax exemptions for wage earners were too harsh. "As the cost of living went up, income tax exemptions went down," he declared. "We're taking money we call taxes—in reality blood money—from the low-income groups . . . It's money they require to give them a decent living."

Livingston

Thereupon, Engel called on the Bureau of Labor Statistics to provide "cost of living figures based on the right of every American to a decent living." He arranged for the BLS to get the necessary funds for such an inquiry. And today, Representative Engel has what he wanted. Not only a survey, but proof that he was prophetically right.

The BLS found that a family of four must have an income ranging from $3004 in New Orleans to $3458 in Washington, D. C., to live modestly in a five-room house with modern plumbing. Obviously, the $500-per-person exemption now allowed by Congress is not up to current living requirements.

The progression of the Federal tax system makes it hard for the workingman to hold to a scale of living during inflation. Suppose a wage earner or salaried man is squeezed by higher prices; suppose he puts in longer hours or takes a nighttime job to eke out his income. Why, then, a larger proportion of his earnings goes to Uncle Sam.

CONSIDER a Portland, Oreg. family of four. In March, 1946, the family got along on $2748. But by June, 1947, that family needed $413 a year more to maintain its living scale. And of that jump, at least $78 or nearly 20 per cent, was due to an increase in Federal taxes. Why such a big chunk? Because the worker moved up into a higher tax bracket!

What is true of Portland families is true of all families. In Washington, the worker who managed to earn more money to keep his economic status, would have had to pay $81 more in taxes; in Philadelphia, $94; in St. Louis, $73, and so along. The toll is higher in States or cities which pile their own income taxes on top of Federal taxes.

There's another reverse wrinkle in the tax structure. It makes no allowance for the law of diminishing household costs. Congress sponsors large families by granting a straight $500 exemption per person. Yet, the larger the family, the lower are the operating expenses per person. Rent, light, heat, wear-and-tear go on regardless of the number of people in a household. In Kansas City, for instance, it costs 43 per cent more per person for a family of two than for a family of five, as the following table shows:

No. of Persons in Household	Worker's Budget*	Cost Per Person
One	$1780	$890
Three	2301	767
Four	2739	685
Five	3123	624

*Excluding taxes.

IN 1913, CONGRESS recognized this. A single person was granted a $3000 exemption, a married couple $4000. No credit was allowed for dependents. In 1917, the exemptions were changed to $1000 for a single person, $2000 for a couple, and an additional $200 per dependent. In 1921, the couple's exemption was raised to $2500 and the exemption per dependent was boosted to $400. The record follows:

	Couple.	Single Person.	Dependent.
1913-16	$4000	$3000	...
1917-20	2000	1000	200
1921-24	2500	1000	400
1925-27	3500	1500	400
1928-39	2500	1000	400
1940	2000	800	400
1941	1500	700	400
1942-43	1200	500	350
1944-47	1000	500	500

The last change—lowering the exemption of the married couple from $1200 to $1000 and raising the exemption of the dependent from $400 to $500—defied a tested economic principle: The greater the spread of overhead cost, the lower the cost per unit.

In the face of that, Representative Engel's complaint is particularly poignant. Not only did we cut exemptions when they hurt the most—when living costs were rising—but also we made the scale particularly tough on childless couples just getting started.

This, then, is the workingman's tax dilemma: Raise a big family and get a break on exemptions; but boost your income to maintain that family and up you go into a higher tax bracket.

Cudahy Reports Increase In Income

Chicago, Dec. 22 (AP).—The Cudahy Packing Co., meat packers, today reported net income of $7,121,707 in the fiscal year ended November 1, 1947, compared with net income of $6,720,585 in the preceding fiscal year.

Net income this year was equal to $4.32 a share on the common stock, against $4.06 in the previous year.

Total sales of $572,737,202 in 1947 were largest in the company's history and a gain of 63.7 per cent over sales of $349,901,504 in 1946.

E. A. Cudahy, chairman, discussing Government plans for controlling the use of wheat as an animal feed, in order to make more wheat supplies available for Europe, said, "it is imperative that no program be adopted that contemplates a reduction in the Nation's production of livestock, poultry and dairy products."

Anti-Inflation Bill May Create Many New Jobs

EXPANSION: The Taft anti-inflation bill, if signed by the President, will require three departments — Agriculture, Commerce, and Interior—to expand their activities.

Personnel-wise, not more than 500 new employes will be hired between the three departments within the next few weeks. But that figure could easily jump to several thousands if the fight to curb inflation is carried forward.

Commerce is slated to add several thousand employes to administer a broader program of export controls as provided in the bill. It must also set up a staff to work with the various business advisory committees that will draft agreements on the allocations, priorities, and conservation of scarce goods such as iron and steel, building materials, fertilizer, etc.

The Taft bill would also give new duties to Census and several other Commerce agencies. Census would be called on to make inventories of scarce goods. The Office of Domestic Commerce would be called on to determine how much of the scarce goods are needed for the domestic economy. The Office of International Trade would decide what percentage of the short materials are to be exported, and to which countries.

The Taft bill makes $750,000 available to Commerce until March 1 for these new duties. In addition, the department can use $110,000 which was "frozen" to pay the terminal leave of export control employes. The bill extends the life of export control from February 28 to June 30, 1949.

Agriculture has $2,750,000 which it can use between now and March 1 on its anti-inflation program. This is sufficient to hire several thousand new employes. However, Agriculture officials say most of its new duties will be handled by its present staff.

The department plans to launch large-scale public relations programs to conserve food and grain. Examples are: to kill rats, more effective use of insecticides, better storage of food, etc. Also, to induce farmers to sell their livestock at certain weights to save grain.

Interior is brought into the picture because of its control over oil and gas. It will work with the industry on a conservation program. The department also will try to get the industry to agree to a voluntary system ot allocations and priorities.

All the programs are voluntary except export controls It means that the Government must hire able public relations people to see the public and industry on the conservation of food, oil, etc., to fight inflation. And once the programs are under way, you can be sure that the agencies will be accused of propagandizing the public.

VA: It's losing Fred Zappolo, its very able director of departmental personnel. Zappolo told his staff yesterday that he had resigned to enter business in Florida.

He has been in Government personnel work for 15 years. He served in WPA, OPA and the Army before he took the Veterans' Administration post. Zappolo is generally credited with introducing personnel counseling in Government.

STABILIZED: There was no marked change in Federal employment during November. Civil Service reports there were 1,772,700 fulltime employes in this country in the executive branch of the Government on December 1. This is only 1300 fewer employes than was reported for the previous month. In this city, a total of 195,500 was reported, about the same as for October.

VA, War Assets, Agriculture and Treasury reported the largest reductions, but they were offset by increases in Postoffice, Army and Air Forces.

NOTES: A testimonial dinner for Malcolm Kerlin will be given on January 7 at the Mayflower. Kerlin is retiring after 42 years of Federal service. Call 2200, Branch 646 for reservations . . . Look for H. L. Buckardt to run for Congress on the GOP ticket from Illinois. He has resigned from Civil Service to make campaign plans . . . Interior is studying plans to decentralize its Bureau of Land Management. The department is all for it and several bills are now pending in Congress which would give it the authority it needs.

Coordinator May Be Named Here for Fuel Oil Emergency

The Commissioners will meet at 10:30 a. m. tiday to decide whether the Distric tneeds an emergency fuel oil coordinator.

Asked to attend today's meeting were J. Thomas Kennedy, superintendent of weights and measures, and Roland Brennan, District purchasing officer.

Although an investigation made by Kennedy last week showed no current shortage of gasoline and fuel oil supplies in the District, the Senate Interstate Commerce Subcommittee has warned that Eastern states face a 15 per cent fuel oil shortage between now and March.

The "desirability" of the District having a fuel oil coordinator was recommended to the Commissioners by Senator Tobey (R., N. H.), chairman of the subcommittee, whose letter included a report from M. J. Rathbone, president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.

The Rathbone report to the Senate subcommittee stressed these 10 points:

1. Despite an increased supply, there will be a 15 per cent gap betwee nsupply and demand for distillate fuels from December through March. The expected deficit in heavy residual fuels is 10 per cent.

2. If the public, industry and Government agencies cooperate, the deficit can be eliminated.

3. The deficit in heavy residual oils will be the more difficult to ease.

4. Most important factor in reducing consumption of fuel oil is consumer cooperation, and industry and the Government must outline the situation to consumers to save fuel.

5. The oil industry must adjust refinery yields to maximize distillate oil yields at the expense of gas oline for the next toow rhee gasoline for the next two or three months.

6. The Maritime Commission should expedite the release of idle tankers.

7. Increased crude oil production in the Gulf States is essential to fill the idle refining capacity of plants.

8. The Government should limit oil requirements for the first quarter of 1948 to a minimum and attain desired stock levels later. It should release for civilian use any stocks which can me rteleased without hampering essential or military operations this winter.

9. The Commerce Department should make sure only minimum export requirements are met in the next two or three months.

10. While it is believed the supply-and-demand situatoin can be balanced on distillate fuels by these measures, it will be a close balance and can best be handled on a local basis by each State setting up an emergency fuel coordinator. This coordinator will urge suppliers to ration supplies.

Prices Are Raised

Meantime, two oil distributors, the American Oil Co. and the Continental Oil Co., followed the lead of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and raised prices on their products.

Among its increases, Standard of New Jersey had boosted the price of gasoline a cent a gallon and the price of fuel oil 1.4 cents a gallon.

American and Continental both increased gasoline prices by 1 cent, and American upped its fuel oil price by 1.5 cents. Continental said it was awaiting instructions from its home office what the other increases would be.

The price increases were expected to be adopted by other distributors in the next few days.

Pre-Christmas Thieves Steal 2 Special Delivery Packages

Pre-Christmas thievery reported to police yesterday involved a variety of loot, including dressed turkeys, special delivery packages and whisky.

George V. Evans, general manager of the Southern Hotel Supply Co., said 105 pounds of turkeys in a crate were stolen about neen from a truck parked in front of the firm's plant at 416 Morse st. ne.

Two special delivery packages weer taken from the automobile of Miller Roberts, a postoffice worker, while he was making a stop at 1825 New Hampshire ave. nw., he told police.

Nine cases of whisky valued at about $285 and $160 in bills and change were stolen by burglars from the Eleventh Street Liquor Store, 3102 11th st. nw., Marris Berger reported. Entraance was gained by prying front door locks.

Miss Gayle Gift, 31, Justice Department employe, complained to police yesterday of the injustice of the $250 gift she involuntarily made to a sneak thief. Two $100 bills and one $50 bill were stolen from a bedroom cabinet, she said, by a thief who apparently had time to make himself a cup of coffee.

Joseph Pollack, Baltimore, Md., told police thieves stole from the Spotlight Guild, 17th and M sts. nw., a cash box containing $114.65, a wallet containing $8, six bottles of whisky and four packs of cigarettes.

A $200 muskrat fur coat and jewelry worth $33 were stolen from 1719 13th st. nw., Doris Ferebee complained.

From a Pullman car in the Washington Terminal yards, 43 pillow cases and 8 sheets were taken, according to Capt. W. A. Peal, of the yard police.

At the W. C. and A. N. Miller Development Co., 4830 Massachusetts ave. nw., someone carted off 3000 feet of lumber in 16-foot lengths, with $90, during the night. Befron Davenport, superintendent, said a garage door was forced.

Two rolls of copper flashing valued at $80 was reported stolen from a truck belonging to the Koons Roofing Co., 933 V st. nw., and parked behind 2901 Connecticut ave. nw. about 2:30 p. m.

Parrot Sees Start of Fire But Won't Talk

Police and firemen could get no information yesterday from an eyewitness who was the only occupant of a house in which three fires broke out simultaneously.

The witness, who would not talk, although usually voluble, was a 50-year-old green, yellow and red parrot named Polly, owned by Mrs. Ada Scott, 710 Lamont st. nw., in whose home the blazes occurred.

The fires were reported by a passerby who saw flames coming through a front window about 10:30 a. m. after Mrs. Scott, her daughter, two sons and two roomers had all left for work. The roomers had left the house an hour before, Mrs. Scott said.

Firemen found three fires going when they arrived, in the first-floor dining room occupied by Polly, in a first-floor bedroom and one on the second floor of the two-story frame dwelling. Damage, which was confined to clothing and furniture, was estimated at $400 to $500.

Precinct Detectives John Daniels and John Neshkoff of the Tenth Precinct believed the fires may have originated from short circuits in the house wiring, pointing out that a penny was found in a fuse box.

Maybe You Don't Know

Flint, Mich. (U.P.).—Hurley Hospital has the figures on the rise in food prices. Margaret Ross, dietician, reports that meals cost an average of 50.77 cents, compared with 27 cents in 1941. Cost of food at the hospital is $13,000 a month higher than it was prewar.

7 D. C. Banks Save $45,000 Yearly in Tax

Institutions Put in Savings Classification By Koenigsberger

Because seven Washington banks have been officially declared savings banks within the meaning of the gross-earnings tax law, they are going to save a total of $45,000 per year.

This was the effect of the decision yesterday by Lawrence Koenigsberger, one-man Board of Tax Appeals for the District of Columbia, on an appeal of the banks from a ruling of the District tax assessor.

Banks classed as savings banks are Bank of Commerce & Savings, Security Savings & Commercial Bank, City Bank, McLachlen Banking Corporation, Anacostia National Bank of Washington (as successor to the Anacostia Bank), Industrial Bank and Citizens Bank.

The appeal, made on tax assessments for the fiscal year 1945, came when the assessor assessed taxes against the banks on a six per cent rate. The banks claimed the assessor had no right to recompute their taxes and levy additional taxes.

They claimed they were entitled to a tax of four per cent on their gross earnings, less interest paid out to savings depositors. The 6 per cent levy allowed no deduction for interest.

Koenigsberger held that the assessor did have the right to recompute the taxes levied against the banks, but he upheld the institutions' claims that they should be classed as savings banks and accorded the more favorable tax treatment granted such institutions under a law enacted in 1904.

Jury Charges Girl, 18, With 6 Burglaries

An 18-year-old girl was charged with six housebreakings and five larcenies yesterday in indictments returned by a District grand jury.

The grand jury found a total of 58 indictments, and ignored charges in eight cases.

The housebreaking defendant, Ethonia P. White, 63 DeFrees st. nw., was accused of gaining entrance to homes by stealing duplicate keys from elevators. All the places entered were apartments. Cash and articles stolen were valued at $308.69.

Indicted For Murder

Willie Callaham, 32, of 424 M st. nw., was indicted for first-degree murder in the pistol slaying of Richard Mosley, 30, of 1308 H ham's room last November 21. st. nw., during a fight in Calla-

A second charge of assault with a dangerous weapon was placed against Cilaham, the charge growing out of the wounding of Allen Settles, of 430 M st. nw., who entered the room during the brwl.

A crackdown on numbers policy writers resulted in the indictment of 11 men and two women on charges of violating lottery laws.

In addition, four of the men were indicted for conspiring to violate the laws.

All were seized in a series of police raids last August, directed against the numbers ring police said was headed by Paul C. Lewis, a former Mertopolitan policeman.

Besides Lewis, those indicted were: Sam Jennings, 1416 New Jersey ave. nw., Vineter Q. White, 77, DeFrees st. nw.; Earl D. Claggett, 1509 Taylor st. nw.; James Brent, 61, R st. nw.; Lowerence M. Rollins, 302 C st. ne.; Elizabeth P. Cunningham, same address; Ardelia Morris, 1110 N. Capitol st.; Chester Holston, jr., 1120 3d st. ne.; William T. Fenwick, 21, L st. nw.; John F. Howard, 1854 2d st. nw.; Julius A. Lee, 2229 1st st. nw.; Charles A. Floyd, 1131 New Jersey ave. nw.

Conspiracy Charged

Indicted for conspiracy were Lewis, Brent, Claggett and Lee.

Two men were indicted on manslaughter charges growing out of fights.

Colanell Stephens jr., 41, of 7808 2nd st. se., was indicted in the knife-slaying of Gibson F. Maiden, 34, of 913 6th st. se., last November 23 during a brawl at 807 2nd st., sw.

Joseph D. Butler, 208 10th st. se., was charged with the pistol-slaying of Tommie Lee Coleman, 718 7th st. se., last November 9.

Bernard L. Bottomley, 52, of 648 I st. ne., was indicted for having incestuous relations with his 30-year-old daughter, The woman, who police said received a head injury when she was a child, is unable to read or write.

U. S. and Burma Sign Educational Pact

Rangoon, Burma, Dec. 22 (AP).—Foreign Minister Tin Tut and United States Charge d'Affaires R. Austin Ackly signed today a 20-year educational agreement, the first international document to which the official seal of the new republic of Burma has been affixed. The agreement provides for a two-way exchange of educational facilities.

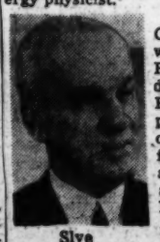
Traffic claimed two victims in Greater Washington yesterday, one of them a 33-year-old atomic energy physicist.



Slye

Dr. Leonard C. Miller, who worked at Oak Ridge, Tenn., died in Casualty Hospital at 1:15 p. m. yesterday of injuries suffered Friday in a crash at Rhode Island ave. and North Capitol st. He was the District's seventieth traffic victim of the year.

John W. Lee, 56, Rockville, Md., laborer, was killed instantly when he fell in front of an automobile at 6:43 p. m. on Route 240, Rockville pike, 2 miles south of Rockville.

Meanwhile, other accidents sent persons to hosiptals. One of the injured is John Q. Slye, 71, retired Secret Service agent, who helped guard seven American Presidents.

Dr. Miller was employed at the Oak Ridge atomic energy plant by the Monsanto Chemical Co. He had remained unconscious since the accident at 3:10 a. m. Friday. Surgeons operated Friday afternoon in an attempt to remove a blood clot from the brain. The hospital said death resulted from a fractured skull and brain hemorrhages.

Police said Dr. Miller, who had been visiting friends in Washington, was driving south on N. Capitol st. when he collided with a car going west on Rhode Island ave., driven by Samuel G. Jordan, 32, of Baltimore.

Two passengers in Jordan's car were slightly hurt. Louise Wilson, 21, of Statesville, N. C., suffered foot injuries, and Walter J. Hackett, 24, of 1525 Elliot pl. nw., suffered possible rib fractures.

Arraigned in Municipal Court Friday on charges of passing a red light and driving with dead tags, Jordan was released in $200 bond pending outcome of Dr. Miller's injuries.

A University of Chicago graduate, Dr. Miller was an experimental physicist with the X-ray section of the Bureau of Standards here from 1939 until 1945, working in the field of general nuclear physics.

Dr. Miller was the son of a retired rabbi, and four of his five brothers are rabbis. The father is Rabbi Samuel Miller of Chicago. The brothers are Rabbi Uri Miller of Baltimore, Rabbi Philip Miller of New Orleans, Rabbi Marshall Miller of Kansas City, Kans., Rabbi Irving Miller of Racine, Wis., and Capt. Edward Miller, a doctor at the Veterans Hospital in Alexandria, La.

Dr. Miller is also survived by three sisters, Miss Fannie Miller and Mrs. Sidney Camras, both of Chicago, and Mrs. Stanley Harris, Rock Island, Ill. The body will be sent to Chicago where funeral services will be held tomorrow.

The Rockville pike fatality happened near the Joseph H. Bradley farm. Montgomery County police said the driver of the car which struck Lee was Rodney R. Keith, 29, of Boyds, Md. Keith said he was driving north when Lee, who was walking along the side of the highway, lurched in front of the car. Dr. F. J. Broschart, county medical examiner, issued a certificate of accidental death.

Secret Service veteran "Jack" Slye of 5509 39th st. nw. suffered head bruises, elbow and knee cuts and possible rib fractures when his car skidded on a patch of ice yesterday afternoon in the 4600 block of Broad Branch rd. nw., and careened 260 feet over a bank into Rock Creek, landing on its top. The metal top, except for the portion over the driver, was crushed. Slye extricated himself and hailed a passing motorist, who took him to Emergency Hospital.

Slye helped guard Presidents Taft, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover, Roosevelt and Truman, retiring last year.

Browne Strike Parley Ends In Stalemate

A conference between members of the executive committee of the Browne Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association and a committee of the Board of Education yesterday failed to bring forth a solution to the parent-inspired strike of Browne students.

Parents asked the board to return all Browne students to part-time schedules and abandon the use of two former white elementary schools, the Blow and Webb, as annexes to Browne.

Board members urged the parents to return their children to school while they considered other alternatives than the use of Blow and Webb to relieve overcrowded Browne. A student strike, now in its fourteenth day, was sponsored by parents.

Alternative Suggested

"I cannot think the way to meet this situation is for parents to advise children to disobey the law," George E. C. Hayes, Negro member of the board's committee on buildings and grounds, said.

"We should inveigh against segregation whenever possible but I do not think as a minority group we have a right to ask that law be enforced by violating it," he said.

An alternative suggested by the parents was the transfer of Eastern High School students to other white high schools in the city, the transfer of white junior high students at Stuart and Eliot to Eastern and the use of the Stuart and Eliot buildings by the Negro children.

The P-TA committee of six was headed by James C. Carr, president, whose suit for permission to enroll his daughter at Eliot was dismissed in District Court yesterday.

Confidence Lost, Says Professor

Board members were told by Dr. Martin Jenkins, professor of education at Howard University and member of the P-TA, that they had lost the confidence of the Browne parents.

"The basic objection of the parents is that you have given us elementary buildings for junior high students when you could have given us junior high buildings," he said.

Dr. Garnet C. Wilkinson, first assistant superintendent in charge of Negro schools, said use of Blow and Webb as annexes placed 1150 part-time Browne students on full time. Where formerly they received 200 minutes of instruction in each subject each week they now receive 225.

He said that overcrowding is still such that the children are unable to have supervised study, guidance and clubs.

ICC Hearing On Arnold Bus Service Called

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday refused to dismiss a complaint of inadequate service against the Arnold bus line, and scheduled a public hearing for January 27.

The commission set the date after refusing the bus line's motion to dismiss the complaint filed by the Arlington County board that the line had eliminated some services and provided inadequate service to other points following authority last October to raise passenger fares.

ICC Examiner Tobias Naftalin was designated to sit at the hearing, it was announced.

The bus line, officially known as the Washington, Virginia & Maryland Coach Co., denied inadequacy of service, in answer to the board's charges. The answer said the company had eliminated no routes taking in sufficient revenue to pay 50 per cent of their costs of operation.

In granting rate increases last October, ICC said it would take "further appropriate action" if the bus line did not provide adequate service "within a reasonable time after the new fares become effective."

The Arlington County board filed its complaints on November 19.

After breakfast Christmas Day, the Trumans and relatives will open presents under the family tree on the second floor of the White House. In the evening a turkey dinner, with all the trimmings, will be served.

Tree-lighting Ceremony

President Truman will deliver his Yuletide messsge during tree-lighting ceremonies beginning at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow on the south lawn of the White House. Between 15,000 aand 20,000 persons are expected to attend.

The southeast and southwest gates of the White House will be opened to the public at 3:30 p. m. The Secret Service has announced it will deny entrance to persons carrying cameras or packages.

All motor traffic will be detoured away from the 15th and E sts. nw. area beginning at 3:30 p. m., according to police. The public is asked to avoid that area unless attending the ceremonies.

The ceremony will be televised fro m4:30 to 5:30 p. m. The Nation-wide broadcast begins at 5 p. m.

White House Gaily Decorated

The White House is gaily decorated in Christmas trappings. Trees are lighted on the Pennsylvania ave. portico, and a large cedar wreath is tied over the north door. In the foyer, red poinsettias lend a festive touch, and there is holly on the mantel in the State dining room.

Here to spend Christmas are Mr. Truman's sister, Miss Mary Truman, of Independence, Mo., and Mrs. Truman's brother, D. F. Wallace, of Denver, and his family.

Two other brothers of Mrs. Truman, George P. Wallace and Frank G. Wallace, both of Independence, and their wives will arrive by Christmas.

According to Mrs. James H. Helm, White House social secretary, Christmas dinner will be prepared with an eye toward wheat conservation. Only bread used will be in the chestnut dressing.

Car Tickets 'Fixed' for Policeman, Congressman

11 D. C. Motorists Get Cancellations, 121 Warnings on Traffic Charges

A Congressman, a police lieutenant and a deputy United States marshal were among 132 motorists who had traffic tickets "fixed" last week.

Lists from the 13 police precincts, traffic and harbor divisions showed 121 warnings and 11 cancellations last week, compared to 116 warnings and 17 cancellations for the week before.

The Congressman was Representative Frank W. Boykin (D., Ala.), who was warned on a ticket received for "parking in a loading zone," according to the list. The reason given on the list was "Congressman on official business."

Both the police officer, Lieut. Bagby R. King, attached to the Fifth Precinct, and the deputy marshal, Edgar J. McCloy, received only warnings because they were "on offical business." Both got tickets for parking in loading zones.

Six cancellations were granted motorists because of diplomatic immunity. Warnings were issued to 15 drivers who were strangers in the city, while adjustments were made for eight others who pleaded ignorance of the regulations.

Fifteen drivers, including six doctors, were excused for emergency stops, and 13 because their cars were disabled. Police adjusted tickets for 10 motorists because they had not received previous warnings.

Cancellations and warnings for the week of December 14-20 follow:

Traffic Division—15 warnings; 2 cancellations.

Harbor Division—No warnings; no cancellations.

First Precinct—6 warnings; no concellations.

Second Precinct—7 warnings; 1 cancellation.

Third Precinct—12 warnings; no cancellations.

Fourth Precinct—12 warnings, 1 cancellation.

Fifth Precinct—9 warnings! no cancellations.

Sixth Precinct—11 warnings; 1 cancellation.

Seventh Precinct—3 warnings; no cancellations.

Eighth Precinct—10 warnings; no cancellations.

Ninth Precinct—5 warnings; no cancellations.

Tenth Precinct—17 warnings; 2 cancellations.

Eleventh Precinct—2 warnings; 1 cancellation.

Twelfth Precinct—5 warnings; 1 cancellation.

Another Mild Day Promised Yule Shoppers

Late Christmas shoppers will have another mild day for their purchasing pilgrimages today, the Weatherman, undoubtedly a man of dilatory buying habits himself, reported last night.

Weebee

He anticipated a high temperature of around 44 degrees, about the same as yesterday's 43 which was registered at 1:10 p. m., just as downtown shoppers were getting their second wind after lunch. Lowest recording was 26 at 6:42 a. m.

But don't let today's clouds give rise to any false hopes that Junior can try out his gift sled on Christmas Day, he warned. Killjoy that he is, he said that only "unusual circumstances" can bring about a Yuletide snowfall this year.

Those shiny new runners won't get rusty from disuse, though, as he promised to make good with snows before the winter season ends.

Earthquake Forecast Starts Jap Exodus

Tokyo, Dec. 22 (AP).—Dr. Kenzo Sasa, who's been right before, has predicted a major earthquake is inevitable in the heavily-populated Kansai district, embracing Kyoto, Osaka and Wakayama, and jittery residents have started packing, Kyodo news agency said today.

Sasa, professor of physics at Kyoto University, did not set a time for the promised upheaval. On December 9, Sasa warned of a possible quake. A few hours later one occurred.

Exhaust Gas Kills 2 in Parked Auto

Oak Hill, W. Va., Dec. 22 (AP).—State police said carbon monoxide gas seeping from a broken exhaust pipe resulted in the deaths of Virgil Kenneth Hambrick, 23, of Ingram Branch, and Delores Gilkey, 19, of Oak Hill.

Area News in Brief

Violinist Must Face Jury in Assault Case

Was John I. Kuhaetz, violinist with the National Symphony Orchestra, reaching out for more elbow room in the Christmas shopping crowd last Saturday, or—

Was he guilty of "assault" on a woman shopper?

Municipal Court Judge Armond W. Scott ruled the case a matter for jury trial, on January 23, at a preliminary hearing yesterday which lacked expression.

Kuhaetz's attorney, C. Reginald Audrick, told the judge that his client was merely pushing his way through the shopping throngs on G st. nw., between 12th and 13th sts.

Pvt. James D. Kennedy, policeman on special shopping detail, who arrested Kuhaetz, testified he watched the 58-year-old violinist both inside a Five and Ten and outside.

Pantomiming what he saw, Kennedy reached back and patted the sole woman complainant appearing against Kuhaetz.

Pass the Headache Powder

The police vice squad raided a variety store yesterday but found the only merchandise to be two boxes of headache powder.

Behind the counter was a large quantity of lottery slips, they said. So they arrested the three occupants, Raymond E. Davis, 31, of 950 22d st. nw.; Cornelius A. Ray, 29, of 1309 3d st. nw., and Vonder Payne, jr., 26, of 629 Florida ave. nw., on charges of operating a lottery and possession of lottery slips.

All three were ordered held under $1500 bond each for appearance in Municipal Court today.

Youth Sentenced

Theodore M. Gray, 22, of 2516 Lee blvd., Arlington, yesterday was given an indeterminate sentence of up to 6 years in the Maryland Reformatory for housebreaking and larceny.

Gray, defended by former State's Attorney Joseph B. Simpson, jr., said he was innocent and denied having broken into the home of Louis A. Gravelle, 8720 Bradley blvd., Bethesda, last June 28.

Missing after the housebreaking was an estimated $1600 worth of clothing, jewelry, radios and a typewriter, most of which was recovered.

Five Clubs to Continue

Five of the six USO clubs in Greater Washington, will remain open after USO halts work Friday.

The only club which will close is the H st. club at 1911 H st. nw.

The Catholic Youth Organization will operate the club at 918 10th st. nw.

The YWCA will take back the club at 17th and K sts. nw. and also will run the Bethesda Club at 8410 Wisconsin ave.

Ownership of the USO club at 2011 Georgia ave. nw. is not settled, said its director, W. E. Payne. But, he added, the YMCA will continue to operate a USO-type club, probably at the same address.

In Alexandria, the club at 115 N. Washington st., will continue under the supervision of the National Catholic Community Service.

Lawyer to Face Trial

John M. Holsworth, New York attorney charged with passing bad checks totalling $50 at the Statler Hotel, yesterday was released in personal bond, pending trial in District Court January 16.

The lawyer has been in police custody, unable to make $1000 bond since September 11, when he was arrested. Yesterday's release was granted by Associate Justice Edward M. Curran.

Policeman Gains Slowly

The condition of Raymond Wanner, Arlington County policeman who suffered a broken right leg in a motorcycle accident last week, was described as "fairly good" yesterday. Officials at Arlington Hospital said Wanner was improving slowly.

Suggestion Prizes Won

Six Bureau of Engraving and Printing employes yesterday were awarded cash bonuses totaling $330 for suggestions which the Treasury Department adopted to cut expenses.

They were Clifford E. Cole, foreman of the offset section of the plate printing division; Ernest Sizemore, printer in the surface printing division; Charles H. Kissner, supervisor of the vault and delivery section; Mrs. Helen B. Tanner, printer's assistant in the plate printing division; Ralph E. Payne, carpenter, and John J. Carow, foreman of the rotary press section.

Cole was awarded $375 for a suggestion to reduce the size of paper used for internal revenue stamps for cigarettes. The department estimates the annual saving at $30,000. Sizemore was given $75 for suggesting using infra-red lamps to heat the paper to dry it before it is fed into the presses, and Kissner thought of pasting labels on packages instead of printing the labels. He won $50.

Mrs. Tanner talked the bureau into getting mandolin picks for its employes who separate sheets of paper, while Payne suggested a new type glue, and Carow thought of using long-wearing metal wedges instead of wooden ones the bureau had been using. Each was awarded $10.

Cleared on Smoke Charge

W. C. Robbins, superintendent of the American Agricultural Chemical plant in Alexandria, was acquitted in Alexandria police court yesterday of a charge of violating the city's smoke control ordinance.

The company was fined $250 in October for creating a nuisance with gas and smoke. Individual charges against Robbins had been held up to await the company's efforts to stop the nuisance.

Smoke Control Engineer John J. Kelley said yesterday the company has stopped complaints by installing new equipment.

Bandaged Battler Freed

Municipal Court Judge Armond W. Scott yesterday ruled that two defendants already had meted out punishment to fit their crimes.

He dismissed assault charges against Columbus B. Knox, 26, of 81 Pierce st. nw., and Henry T. Hinant, 37, of 1231 8th st. nw. Both appeared with heavily bandaged heads.

They were charged with assault on each other with bowling pins in an argument over a glass of wine Saturday night.

"It looks like you two held court before you got here," declared Judge Scott. "I might add, the sentencing seems severe."

Heads Blood Donor Work

Appointment of Rudolph M. Evans as chairman of the District Red Cross blood donor recruitment committee was announced yesterday by John Clifford Folger, District chairman.

Evans, who served as governmental chairman of the Red Cross blood donor committee from August, 1944, to August, 1945, is a member of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System.

Mrs. Nita S. Russell, who has directed blood donor recruitment since the opening of the original military blood center in 1941, was named director of recruitment by Evans in his first official act in his new post.

Toy Gun Holdup

Two youths were held for the grand jury and one for juvenile authorities in Arlington yesterday on charges of holdup and robbery with a cap pistol.

They were listed by police as Arthur L. Marcey, 24; John Toth 19, and a 15-year-old juvenile, all of Arlington.

C. E. Hockman, 2008 N. Illinois st., Arlington, told police he accepted a ride with the trio, who then held him up and took $1.85 from his wallet, leaving him only enough for bus fare.

Officers John Kadel and William Dinsmore picked up the car and found the toy pistol in the car.

Rent Increases Asked

Rent Examiner Denis K. Lane, yesterday heard a request for a rent increase on 78 units in the 100 and 200 block of Hawaii ave. ne. and at 100 Webster st. ne. Present rents range from $68 to $70.92.

Examiner James G. Tyson held a hearing on a request for increases on 42 units at 1126 11th st. nw. Present rents run from $52 to $77.50; requested rents from $57.20 to $85.25.

A hearing on a request for rent rises on 126 units at 2141 I st. nw. was postponed to a lated date.

Gun Victim Critical

Clarence Golliday, 31, of Gaithersburg, Md., was still in critical condition at Suburban Hospital yesterday as the result of a self-inflicted gunshot wound below the heart.

Mrs. Cora Golliday, 21, who, police said, was shot by her husband before he turned the shotgun on himself Friday night, was reported improved despite amputation of her hand following the shooting.

Dr. Helfenstein Dies; Retired Md. Bishop

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—One of Maryland's oldest church leaders, the Right Rev. Edward T. Helfenstein, D. D., died today at his home after a heart attack. He was 82 years old.

He was bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Maryland from 1929 to 1943, when he retired, after 57 years in church work in the State.

Bishop Helfenstein had returned home several weeks ago, after spending some time in the Church Home and Hospital in Baltimore.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 11 a. m. in the Baltimore Pro-Cathedral, after which the body will be removed to Frederick for burial in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

The Right Rev. Nobel C. Powell, who succeeded Bishop Helfenstein as head of the diocese; the Rev. Harold N. Arrowsmith, canon of the Pro-Cathedral, and the Rev. Dr. Philip J. Jensen, rector of St. Thomas Church, Garrison Forest, will officiate at the services here and in Frederick. Only officiating clergymen will be vested at the simple ceremonies, although a large number is expected to attend. This was a special request of the late bishop.

Bishop Helfenstein is survived by his wife, the former Grace Felton Nelson, whom he married in 1890, the year he was ordained. Miss Nelson was the daughter of the Rev. Dr. Kinloch Nelson of the faculty at the Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexandria, where Bishop Helfenstein studied.

The bishop was born in St. Louis April 7, 1865, but his parents were from Frederick, Md. They were Cyrus G. and Annie Trail Helfenstein, and returned to Frederick when the future bishop still was a small child.

He attended Frederick schools, Johns Hopkins University, and then entered the seminary.

After serving at St. Mary's parish in Frederick and Washington counties for 10 years, he went to Ellicott City in 1900 to become pastor of St. John's and St. Peter's churches in Howard County.

In 1926, he was made Bishop Coadjutor of Maryland, and he was chosen to head the diocese October 3, 1929, upon the death of Bishop John Gardner Murray. At that time, Bishop Murray was presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in the United States.

Craig Biddle

Wakefield, R. I., Dec. 22 (AP).—Craig Biddle, member of the socially prominent Philadelphia family and a noted sportsman, died early today at South County Hospital here. He was 66.

L. O. Robbins, Retired U. S. Lawyer, Dies

Lawrence O. Robbins, 77, retired Government attorney, died yesterday in pursuit of his hobby, exploring area byways, woods and streams.

An amateur naturalist, he was found dead of a heart attack yesterday afternoon, lying by the side of Laytonsville-Goshen rd., 2½ miles north of Gaithersburg, Md. Beside him lay his well-marked map of the area, annotated with his findings.

Dr. Frank J. Broschart, Montgomery County medical examiner, issued a certificate of death due to natural causes. Nearest of kin, a cousin, Philip Ogden, of Penn Yan, N. Y., was notified.

Robbins' body was found more than a mile down the road from his parked and locked automobile. Apparently he had strode off in search of new discoveries, as he had done for 20 years since he retired, friends said.

The body was taken in by the Gaithersburg Rescue Squad, which had been notified by two passing motorists, and later removed to the Gartner funeral home, Gaithersburg.

The Rev. Dr. John Van Schaick, neighbor of Mr. Robbins at the Knickerbocker Apartments, 1840 Mintwood pl. nw., said Mr. Robbins spent much time exploring and photographing natural haunts of the area, accumulating many photographs of remains of ancient grist mills.

A onetime lawyer in both the State and Agriculture Departments, he moved into the Knickerbocker Apartments at the death of a sister, Miss Louise Robbins, four years ago.

W. J. Dempsey, Jr.

William J. Dempsey, jr., 15, son of William J. Dempsey, former general counsel of the Federal Communications Commission, died yesterday at his father's home, 4935 Linnean ave. nw., following an illness of two months.

A student at La Salle Military Academy, Oakdale, N. Y., where he was a Cadet Sergeant, William attended St. Ann's and Blessed Sacrament Parochial Schools here. He was born in New York City but had lived here since he was one year old.

In addition to his parents he leaves two sisters, Mary Catherine and Joanne Dempsey; his grandfather, former Representative John J. Dempsey, Santa Fe, N. Mex., and his grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Garrett, Washington.

Requiem mass will be said tomorrow at 11 a. m. at the Shrine of the Blessed Sacrament, Chevy Chase cir. Interment will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Adm. Sowell, Atlantic Fleet Officer, Dies

Rear Admiral Ingram Cecil Sowell, USN, general inspector of the Atlantic Fleet, died Sunday at the Naval Hospital, Long Beach, Calif. He was 58.

A native of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., he graduated from the Naval Academy in 1912. During World War I he commanded the submarine USS K-2, which operated in the Azores. He received the Navy Cross for his service at that time.

During 1921-22 he was on duty here in the office of the director of gunnery exercises and engineering performance. Much of his duty was in the submarine service, and from 1932 until 1934 he was commander of Submarine Division 4.

In 1934 he received the Legion of Merit for his work as commandant of the naval operating base in Bermuda. For three months in 1944 he was commander of Battleship Division 5, and from December, 1944, until November, 1945, was commander of Battleship Division 4. For his services in the Okinawa campaign he received the Silver Star, Gold Star in lieu of a second Legion of Merit, and the Bronze Star.

Since June, 1946, Admiral Sowell had been general inspector of the Atlantic Fleet. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Frances J. Sowell of Long Beach, Calif. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

John J. Hamilton

Requiem mass for John J. Hamilton, Washington lawyer, will be held today at 10 a. m. at St. Matthew's Cathedral, Rhode Island ave. between 17th and 18th sts. nw. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Mr. Hamilton, a District lawyer for 55 years, died Friday night after a brief illness. He was a member of the firm of Hamilton and Hamilton, and was well-known as a trial lawyer.

Honorary pall bearers will be George T. Dunlop, Henry R. Gower, James M. Green, J. Spaulding Flannery, John W. Childress, John W. Davidge, Dr. Hugh Fegan, Joseph B. Schaaff, Sydney R. Prince, S. William Miller, Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue, Justice James M. Proctor.

Justice F. Dickenson Letts, Hugh Obear, Arlon V. Cushman, Bernard R. Tolson, Henry D. Crampton, Eugene R. West, Eugene G. Adams and James J. Becker.

Rep. Drewry Dies at 72 of Heart Attack

Representative Patrick Henry Drewry (D., Va.), a member of the House of Representatives for the past 27 years and a Democratic Party leader, died Sunday night at his Petersburg, Va., home after a heart attack.

He was 72. An astute politician, who took an active part in politics from his early manhood, Drewry first took public office at the age of 36 as Virginia State Senator.

In that capacity he was named chairman of a commission on economy and efficiency, and took an active part in passage of a budget act which formed the basis for organizing and controlling the State's fiscal affairs.

Drewry was elected to the House of Representatives in 1920 to succeed the late Representative Walter A. Watson.

Headed National Committee

The soft-spoken, white-haired Congressmen was a member of the House Naval Affairs Committee and by seniority rose to ranking Democratic member of that body during the years of the great naval expansion. He also served frequently as a member of the board of visitors to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The Virginia legislator frequently was a delegate to State Democratic conventions and was a delegate from Virginia at the 1916 national convention in St. Louis, as well as at the 1936 and 1940 national conventions.

In 1923 he was named a member of the Democratic National Committee and in 1935 he was named chairman.

An able speaker, Drewry made few formal speeches on the floor. He preferred to confine his efforts to organization and committee work.

Drewry graduated from Randolph-Macon College at Ashland, Va., in 1896. He then studied law at the University of Virginia and was admitted to the bar in 1901. Returning to Petersburg to practice law, Drewry soon became a member of the city Democratic committee and in 1911 ran for the State Senate. He began his service there in 1912.

Confederate History His Hobby

A man of simple tastes, Drewry often retired to the seclusion of his cabin on the James River to hunt and fish. He made the study of history his hobby, and was especially interested in the period dealing with the Confederacy.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Metcalf Drewry; two sons, John Metcalf Drewry of Alexandria and Patrick H. Drewry, jr., of Richmond, and three grandchildren.

Governor William M. Tuck, in commenting on Drewry's death yesterday, described him as a "distinguished and able Virginian" who "will be greatly missed throughout Virginia as well as in the Congress where he had served so long and faithfully."

From fellow-Congressman Howard W. Smith of Alexandria came the prediction that "his wise counsel and long experience in national affairs will be sorely missed in the critical days ahead."

A funeral service will be held at the graveside in Blandford Cemetery in Petersburg today at 3 p. m. The Governor and other prominent Virginia political leaders will attend the services.

Mrs. Grace L. Timanus

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—Mrs. Grace L. Timanus, 83, widow of E. Clay Timanus, a former Mayor of Baltimore, died last night after a long illness.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at her home here.

The former Grace Lowry Hutchins, she was born in Baltimore County and married Timanus in 1886. Timanus was mayor from 1904 to 1907. He died 24 years ago.

Mrs. Timanus leaves a son and two daughters.

In Memoriam

ABENDSCHEIN, RUTH ELIZABETH.
A wonderful mother, woman and aid
One who was better died never made;
A wonderful worker so loyal and true,
One in a million—that, mother, was you.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loved by your friends and all whom you knew,
Our wonderful mother—that, mother, was you.
DAD AND FOUR SONS.

Stony Creek Bridge Only One-Third Done

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—After 302 working days, the new Stony Creek Bridge in Anne Arundel County is only one third completed, Walter Hopkins, bridge engineer for the Maryland Roads Commission, reported.

The time spent represents two days more than was allotted in the original contract.

Roads officials hope to open the bridge to traffic by late summer.

Md. Seeks U. S. Aid for Roads Near District

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—Governor Lane, Maryland roads officials and Gen. Philip Fleming, Federal Public Works Administrator, will meet January 5 to discuss the possibility of increased Federal appropriations to build roads in the Maryland area of metropolitan Washington.

The conference was arranged today at a meeting of the Highway Advisory Council and the State Roads Commission. Governor Lane was present.

In considering a roads program for the Washington area, State officials reportedly have taken into account the fact that the District of Columbia gasoline tax is one cent lower than Maryland's.

Many Maryland residents, especially those who work in Washington, take advantage of the lower gasoline prices in the District. Since those residents escape the Maryland tax, the burden falls upon those who live in other areas of the State, an official said.

Maryland authorities did not disclose the amount of the special Federal appropriation which will be sought.

The site of the January 5 conference has not been set.

Mother Guilty In Strangling Of New Baby

Miss Ruth Hottel, 32, of 5528 Wisconsin ave. nw., yesterday was convicted of manslaughter in the death of her new-born infant in a Chevy Chase Club locker room last February 6.

An all-male jury deliberated for two hours before returning the guilty verdict in Montgomery County Circuit Court.

In arguing the case yesterday, State's Attorney Walter W. Dawson contended the former switchboard operator at the club "violated not only the law of the State but the law of God: Thou Shalt Not Kill."

Miss Hottel testified she remembered nothing of the child's birth and said she could not explain how a lady's handkerchief was tied "very tightly" about the infant's throat.

A ladies' maid at the club testified last week the dead infant was found in a laundry box which Miss Hottel had asked her to put in the trash.

Judge Charles W. Woodward deferred imposition of sentence.

Hopes Slim For Settlement At Fairlington

The strike of Fairlington service workers went into its third week yesterday, with only a faint hope that management and the union could get together anytime soon.

Arlington County Manager A. T. Lundberg said he would communicate before Christmas with both sides to urge them to resolve their differences.

Meanwhile, the Fairmac Corp., owners of the 3439-unit apartment development, appeared to have corrected what Lundberg had called a "health hazard" resulting from accumulated trash.

Nathaniel Smith, operator of Super Service Trash Co., 610 Delaware ave. sw., said the sprawling development was "100 per cent clean" after his trucks and men made garbage collection rounds Sunday and yesterday. A normal schedule of daily collections, alternating between the north and south sides, can now be followed, he said.

About 100 members of Local 82, Building Service Employes (AFL), walked off their jobs at the development December 8.

Violinist Must Face Jury in Assault Case

Was John I. Kuhaetz, violinist with the National Symphony Orchestra, reaching out for more elbow room in the Christmas shopping crowd last Saturday, or—

Was he guilty of "assault" on a woman shopper?

Municipal Court Judge Armond W. Scott ruled the case a matter for jury trial, on January 23, at a preliminary hearing yesterday which lacked expression.

Kuhaetz's attorney, C. Reginald Audrick, told the judge that his client was merely pushing his way through the shopping throngs on G st. nw., between 12th and 13th sts.

Pvt. James D. Kennedy, policeman on special shopping detail, who arrested Kuhaetz, testified he watched the 58-year-old violinist both inside a Five and Ten and outside.

Pantomiming what he saw, Kennedy reached back and patted the sole woman complainant appearing against Kuhaetz.

She moved aside.

Pass the Headache Powder

The police vice squad raided a variety store yesterday but found the only merchandise to be two boxes of headache powder.

Behind the counter was a large quantity of lottery slips, they said. So they arrested the three occupants, Raymond E. Davis, 31, of 950 22d st. nw.; Cornelius A. Ray, 29, of 1309 3d st. nw., and Vonder Payne, jr., 26, of 629 Florida ave. ne., on charges of operating a lottery and possession of lottery slips.

All three were ordered held under $1500 bond each for appearance in Municipal Court today.

Youth Sentenced

Theodore M. Gray, 22, of 2516 Lee blvd., Arlington, yesterday was given an indeterminate sentence of up to 6 years in the Maryland Reformatory for housebreaking and larceny.

Gray, defended by former State's Attorney Joseph B. Simpson, jr., said he was innocent and denied having broken into the home of Louis A. Gravelle, 8720 Bradley blvd., Bethesda, last June 28.

Missing after the housebreaking was an estimated $1600 worth of clothing, jewelry, radios and a typewriter, most of which was recovered.

Five Clubs to Continue

Five of the six USO clubs in Greater Washington, will remain open after USO halts work Friday.

The only club which will close is the H st. club at 1911 H st. nw.

The Catholic Youth Organization will operate the club at 918 10th st. nw.

The YWCA will take back the club at 17th and K sts. nw. and also will run the Bethesda Club at 8410 Wisconsin ave.

Ownership of the USO club at 2011 Georgia ave. nw. is not settled, said its director, W. E. Payne. But, he added, the YMCA will continue to operate a USO-type club, probably at the same address.

In Alexandria, the club at 115 N. Washington st., will continue under the supervision of the National Catholic Community Service.

Lawyer to Face Trial

John M. Holzworth, New York attorney charged with passing bad checks totalling $50 at the Statler Hotel, yesterday was released in personal bond, pending trial in District Court January 16.

The lawyer has been in police custody, unable to make $1000 bond since September 11, when he was arrested. Yesterday's release was granted by Associate Justice Edward M. Curran.

Policeman Gains Slowly

The condition of Raymond Wanner, Arlington County policeman who suffered a broken right leg in a motorcycle accident last week, was described as "fairly good" yesterday. Officials at Arlington Hospital said Wanner was improving slowly.

Suggestion Prizes Won

Six Bureau of Engraving and Printing employes yesterday were awarded cash bonuses totaling $330 for suggestions which the Treasury Department adopted to cut expenses.

They were Clifford E. Cole, foreman of the offset section of the plate printing division; Ernest Sizemore, printer in the surface printing division; Charles H. Kissner, supervisor of the vault and delivery section; Mrs. Helen B. Tanner, printer's assistant in the plate printing division; Ralph E. Payne, carpenter, and John J. Carow, foreman of the rotary press section.

Cole was awarded $375 for a suggestion to reduce the size of paper used for internal revenue stamps for cigarettes. The department estimates the annual saving at $30,000. Sizemore was given $75 for suggesting using infra-red lamps to heat the paper to dry it before it is fed into the presses, and Kissner thought of pasting labels on packages instead of printing the labels. He won $50.

Mrs. Tanner talked the bureau into getting mandolin picks for its employes who separate sheets of paper, while Payne suggested a new type glue, and Carow thought of using long-wearing metal wedges instead of wooden ones the bureau had been using. Each was awarded $10.

Cleared on Smoke Charge

W. C. Robbins, superintendent of the American Agricultural Chemical plant in Alexandria, was acquitted in Alexandria police court yesterday of a charge of violating the city's smoke control ordinance.

The company was fined $250 in October for creating a nuisance with gas and smoke. Individual charges against Robbins had been held up to await the company's efforts to stop the nuisance.

Smoke Control Engineer John J. Kelley said yesterday the company has stopped complaints by installing new equipment.

Bandaged Battler Freed

Municipal Court Judge Armond W. Scott yesterday ruled that two defendants already had meted out punishment to fit their crimes.

He dismissed assault charges against Columbus B. Knox, 26, of 81 Pierce st. nw., and Henry T. Hinant, 37, of 1231 8th st. nw. Both appeared with heavily bandaged heads.

They were charged with assault on each other with bowling pins in an argument over a glass of wine Saturday night.

Heads Blood Donor Work

Appointment of Rudolph M. Evans as chairman of the District Red Cross blood donor recruitment committee was announced yesterday by John Clifford Folger, District chairman.

Evans, who served as governmental chairman of the Red Cross blood donor committee from August, 1944, to August, 1945, is a member of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System.

Mrs. Nita S. Russell, who has directed blood donor recruitment since the opening of the original military blood center in 1941, was named director of recruitment by Evans in his first official act in his new post.

Toy Gun Holdup

Two youths were held for the grand jury and one for juvenile authorities in Arlington yesterday on charges of holdup and robbery with a cap pistol.

They were listed by police as Arthur L. Marcey, 24; John Toth 19, and a 15-year-old juvenile, all of Arlington.

C. E. Hockman, 2008 N. Illinois st., Arlington, told police he accepted a ride with the trio, who then held him up and took $1.85 from his wallet, leaving him only enough for bus fare.

Officers John Kadel and William Dinsmore picked up the car and found the toy pistol in the car.

Rent Increases Asked

Rent Examiner Denis K. Lane, yesterday heard a request for a rent increase on 78 units in the 100 and 200 block of Hawaii ave. ne. and at 100 Webster st. ne. Present rents range from $68 to $70.92.

Examiner James G. Tyson held a hearing on a request for increases on 42 units at 1126 11th st. nw. Present rents run from $52 to $77.50; requested rents from $57.20 to $85.25.

A hearing on a request for rent rises on 126 units at 2141 I st. nw. was postponed to a lated date.

Gun Victim Critical

Clarence Golliday, 31, of Gaithersburg, Md., was still in critical condition at Suburban Hospital yesterday as the result of a self-inflicted gunshot wound below the heart.

Mrs. Cora Golliday, 21, who, police said, was shot by her husband before he turned the shotgun on himself Friday night, was reported improved despite amputation of her hand following the shooting.

Dr. Helfenstein Dies; Retired Md. Bishop

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—One of Maryland's oldest church leaders, the Right Rev. Edward T. Helfenstein, D. D., died today at his home after a heart attack. He was 82 years old.

He was bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Maryland from 1929 to 1943, when he retired, after 57 years in church work in the State.

Bishop Helfenstein had returned home several weeks ago, after spending some time in the Church Home and Hospital in Baltimore.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 11 a. m. in the Baltimore Pro-Cathedral, after which the body will be removed to Frederick for burial in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

The Right Rev. Nobel C. Powell, who succeeded Bishop Helfenstein as head of the diocese; the Rev. Harold N. Arrowsmith, canon of the Pro-Cathedral, and the Rev. Dr. Philip J. Jensen, rector of St. Thomas Church, Garrison Forest, will officiate at the services here and in Frederick. Only officiating clergymen will be vested at the simple ceremonies, although a large number is expected to attend. This was a special request of the late bishop.

Bishop Helfenstein is survived by his wife, the former Grace Felton Nelson, whom he married in 1890, the year he was ordained. Miss Nelson was the daughter of the Rev. Dr. Kinloch Nelson of the faculty at the Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexandria, where Bishop Helfenstein studied.

The bishop was born in St. Louis April 7, 1865, but his parents were from Frederick, Md. They were Cyrus G. and Annie Trail Helfenstein, and returned to Frederick when the future bishop still was a small child.

He attended Frederick schools, Johns Hopkins University, and then entered the seminary.

After serving at St. Mary's parish in Frederick and Washington counties for 10 years, he went to Ellicott City in 1900 to become pastor of St. John's and St. Peter's churches in Howard County.

In 1926, he was made Bishop Coadjutor of Maryland, and he was chosen to head the diocese October 3, 1929, upon the death of Bishop John Gardner Murray. At that time, Bishop Murray was presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in the United States.

Craig Biddle

Wakefield, R. I., Dec. 22 (AP).—Craig Biddle, member of the socially prominent Philadelphia family and a noted sportsman, died early today at South County Hospital here. He was 66.

L. O. Robbins, Retired U. S. Lawyer, Dies

Lawrence O. Robbins, 77, retired Government attorney, died yesterday in pursuit of his hobby, exploring area byways, woods and streams.

An amateur naturalist, he was found dead of a heart attack yesterday afternoon, lying by the side of Laytonsville-Goshen rd., 2½ miles north of Gaithersburg, Md. Beside him lay his well-marked map of the area, annotated with his findings.

Dr. Frank J. Broschart, Montgomery County medical examiner, issued a certificate of death due to natural causes. Nearest of kin, a cousin, Philip Ogden, of Penn Yan, N. Y., was notified.

Robbins' body was found more than a mile down the road from his parked and locked automobile. Apparently he had strode off in search of new discoveries, as he had done for 20 years since he retired, friends said.

The body was taken in by the Gaithersburg Rescue Squad, which had been notified by two passing motorists, and later removed to the Gartner funeral home, Gaithersburg.

The Rev. Dr. John Van Schaick, neighbor of Mr. Robbins at the Knickerbocker Apartments, 1840 Mintwood pl. nw., said Mr. Robbins spent much time exploring and photographing natural haunts of the area, accumulating many photographs of remains of ancient grist mills.

A onetime lawyer in both the State and Agriculture Departments, he moved into the Knickerbocker Apartments at the death of a sister, Miss Louise Robbins, four years ago.

W. J. Dempsey, Jr.

William J. Dempsey, jr., 15, son of William J. Dempsey, former general counsel of the Federal Communications Commission, died yesterday at his father's home, 4935 Linnean ave. nw., following an illness of two months.

A student at La Salle Military Academy, Oakdale, N. Y., where he was a Cadet Sergeant, William attended St. Ann's and Blessed Sacrament Parochial Schools here. He was born in New York City but had lived here since he was one year old.

In addition to his parents he leaves two sisters, Mary Catherine and Joanne Dempsey; his grandfather, former Representative John J. Dempsey, Santa Fe, N. Mex., and his grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Garrett, Washington.

Requiem mass will be said tomorrow at 11 a. m. at the Shrine of the Blessed Sacrament, Chevy Chase cir. Interment will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Adm. Sowell, Atlantic Fleet Officer, Dies

Rear Admiral Ingram Cecil Sowell, USN, general inspector of the Atlantic Fleet, died Sunday at the Naval Hospital, Long Beach, Calif. He was 58.

A native of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., he graduated from the Naval Academy in 1912. During World War I he commanded the submarine USS K-2, which operated in the Azores. He received the Navy Cross for his service at that time.

During 1921-22 he was on duty here in the office of the director of gunnery exercises and engineering performance. Much of his duty was in the submarine service, and from 1932 until 1934 he was commander of Submarine Division 4.

In 1934 he received the Legion of Merit for his work as commandant of the naval operating base in Bermuda. For three months in 1944 he was commander of Battleship Division 5, and from December, 1944, until November, 1945, was commander of Battleship Division 4. For his services in the Okinawa campaign he received the Silver Star, Gold Star in lieu of a second Legion of Merit, and the Bronze Star.

Since June, 1946, Admiral Sowell had been general inspector of the Atlantic Fleet. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Frances J. Sowell of Long Beach, Calif. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

John J. Hamilton

Requiem mass for John J. Hamilton, Washington lawyer, will be held today at 10 a. m. at St. Matthew's Cathedral, Rhode Island ave. between 17th and 18th sts. nw. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Mr. Hamilton, a District lawyer for 55 years, died Friday night after a brief illness. He was a member of the firm of Hamilton and Hamilton, and was well-known as a trial lawyer.

Honorary pall bearers will be George T. Dunlop, Henry R. Gower, James M. Green, J. Spaulding Flannery, John W. Childress, John W. Davidge, Dr. Hugh Fegan, Joseph B. Schaaff, Sydney R. Prince, S. William Miller, Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue, Justice James M. Proctor.

Justice F. Dickenson Letts, Hugh Obear, Arlon V. Cushman, Bernard R. Tolson, Henry D. Crampton, Eugene R. West, Eugene G. Adams and James J. Becker.

Rep. Drewry Dies at 72 of Heart Attack

Representative Patrick Henry Drewry (D., Va.), a member of the House of Representatives for the past 27 years and a Democratic Party leader, died Sunday night at his Petersburg, Va., home after a heart attack.

He was 72. An astute politician who took an active part in politics from his early manhood, Drewry first took public office at the age of 36 as Virginia State Senator.

In that capacity he was named chairman of a commission on economy and efficiency, and took an active part in passage of a budget act which formed the basis for organizing and controlling the State's fiscal affairs.

Drewry was elected to the House of Representatives in 1920 to succeed the late Representative Walter A. Watson.

Headed National Committee

The soft-spoken, white-haired Congressmen was a member of the House Naval Affairs Committee and by seniority rose to ranking Democratic member of that body during the years of the great naval expansion. He also served frequently as a member of the board of visitors to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The Virginia legislator frequently was a delegate to State Democratic conventions and was a delegate from Virginia at the 1916 national convention in St. Louis, as well as at the 1936 and 1940 national conventions.

In 1923 he was named a member of the Democratic National Committee and in 1935 he was named chairman.

An able speaker, Drewry made few formal speeches on the floor. He preferred to confine his efforts to organization and committee work.

Drewry graduated from Randolph-Macon College at Ashland, Va., in 1896. He then studied law at the University of Virginia and was admitted to the bar in 1901. Returning to Petersburg to practice law, Drewry soon became a member of the city Democratic committee and in 1911 ran for the State Senate. He began his service there in 1912.

Confederate History His Hobby

A man of simple tastes, Drewry often retired to the seclusion of his cabin on the James River to hunt and fish. He made the study of history his hobby, and was especially interested in the period dealing with the Confederacy.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Metcalf Drewry; two sons, John Metcalf Drewry of Alexandria and Patrick H. Drewry, jr., of Richmond, and three grandchildren.

Governor William M. Tuck, in commenting on Drewry's death yesterday, described him as a "distinguished and able Virginian" who "will be greatly missed throughout Virginia as well as in the Congress where he had served so long and faithfully."

From fellow-Congressman Howard W. Smith of Alexandria came the prediction that "his wise counsel and long experience in national affairs will be sorely missed in the critical days ahead."

A funeral service will be held at the graveside in Blandford Cemetery in Petersburg today at 3 p. m. The Governor and other prominent Virginia political leaders will attend the services.

Mrs. Grace L. Timanus

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—Mrs. Grace L. Timanus, 83, widow of E. Clay Timanus, a former Mayor of Baltimore, died last night after a long illness.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at her home here.

The former Grace Lowry Hutchins, she was born in Baltimore County and married Timanus in 1886. Timanus was mayor from 1904 to 1907. He died 24 years ago.

Mrs. Timanus leaves a son and two daughters.

In Memoriam

ABENDSCHEIN, RUTH ELIZABETH.
A wonderful mother, woman and aid
One wife was better died never made;
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true,
One in a million—that, mother, was you.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loved by your friends and all whom you knew,
Our wonderful mother—that, mother, was you.
DAD AND FOUR SONS.

Stony Creek Bridge Only One-Third Done

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—After 302 working days, the new Stony Creek Bridge in Anne Arundel County is only one third completed, Walter Hopkins, bridge engineer for the Maryland Roads Commission, reported.

The time spent represents two days more than was allotted in the original contract.

Roads officials hope to open the bridge to traffic by late summer.

Md. Seeks U. S. Aid for Roads Near District

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—Governor Lane, Maryland roads officials and Gen. Philip Fleming, Federal Public Works Administrator, will meet January 5 to discuss the possibility of increased Federal appropriations to build roads in the Maryland area of metropolitan Washington.

The conference was arranged today at a meeting of the Highway Advisory Council and the State Roads Commission. Governor Lane was present.

In considering a roads program for the Washington area, State officials reportedly have taken into account the fact that the District of Columbia gasoline tax is one cent lower than Maryland's.

Many Maryland residents, especially those who work in Washington, take advantage of the lower gasoline prices in the District. Since those residents escape the Maryland tax, the burden falls upon those who live in other areas of the State, an official said.

Maryland authorities did not disclose the amount of the special Federal appropriation which will be sought.

The site of the January 5 conference has not been set.

Mother Guilty In Strangling Of New Baby

Miss Ruth Hottel, 32, of 5528 Wisconsin ave. nw., yesterday was convicted of manslaughter in the death of her new-born infant in a Chevy Chase Club locker room last February 6.

An all-male jury deliberated for two hours before returning the guilty verdict in Montgomery County Circuit Court.

In arguing the case yesterday, State's Attorney Walter W. Dawson contended the former switchboard operator at the club "violated not only the law of the State but the law of God: Thou Shalt Not Kill."

Miss Hottel testified she remembered nothing of the child's birth and said she could not explain how a lady's handkerchief was tied "very tightly" about the infant's throat.

A ladies' maid at the club testified last week the dead infant was found in a laundry box which Miss Hottel had asked her to put in the trash.

Judge Charles W. Woodward deferred imposition of sentence.

Hopes Slim For Settlement At Fairlington

The strike of Fairlington service workers went into its third week yesterday, with only a faint hope that management and the union could get together anytime soon.

Arlington County Manager A. T. Lundberg said he would communicate before Christmas with both sides to urge them to resolve their differences.

Meanwhile, the Fairmac Corp., owners of the 3439-unit apartment development, appeared to have corrected what Lundberg had called a "health hazard" resulting from accumulated trash.

Nathaniel Smith, operator of Super Service Trash Co., 610 Delaware ave. sw., said the sprawling development was "100 per cent clean" after his trucks and men made garbage collection rounds Sunday and yesterday. A normal schedule of daily collections, alternating between the north and south sides, can now be followed, he said.

About 100 members of Local 82, Building Service Employes (AFL), walked off their jobs at the development December 8.

One on the Aisle—

Editing 'The Messiah'

Little's Handel Film Is Timely

By Richard L. Coe

THE LITTLE HAS HAD the happy idea of booking "The Great Mr. Handel" as its Christmas attraction. This British color film pictures the great composer in the period which brought forth "The Messiah," which is paid yearly tribute by cathedral choirs and Muzak wires.

Handel's score is played by the London Philharmonic Orchestra, the background details of the period are paid loving attention in Technicolor and the film has an air of leisurely charm.

Showing composers in the grip of genius has a fascination for movie-makers and proves as troublesome to the Britishers who made "The Great Mr. Handel" as it does to our own Hollywood artists. The results of genius are always thrilling and no one exults to "The Messiah"—every bar of it—more than this reformed choir boy. But genius at work is something else again.

Handel's exasperating labors are shown to us with appealing thoroughness; the events which led up to the composition of "The Messiah" 'are detailed for over three quarters of the film. The work passes all too swiftly; only the "Hallelujah!" employs full chorus and orchestra.

Since it is the evident aim of the producers to depict the composition of "The Messiah" as the triumphant event of Handel's life, it's hard to understand why more of the master work wasn't included on the soundtrack. Granted, a movie is supposed to appeal to moviegoers, but obviously a movie about Handel and "The Messiah" must appeal above all to lovers of the composer and the oratorio. True, one hears some of the score while the composer is thinking it out, but you get "And the Glory of the Lord," "Comfort Ye" and "He Shall Feed His Flock" without words. What a magnificent picture this might have been had the producers carried through their idea that just as "The Messiah" embodied Christ's redemption of man, it also meant the redemption of its composer.

Lingers at Court

This idea, of course, is not strictly true. Handel had plenty of troubles after "The Messiah." His ups and downs at court (where he was warmly received through several reigns) occupy an undue amount of film footage and several dramatic aspects of his life are ignored. Donald Francis Moley, an Handelian authority and late professor of music at Edinburgh, wrote movingly of Handel's blindness and described him as "an opportunist," quite the reverse of the script writer's point.

The secondary character and Handel's greatest supporter is depicted as Susannah Maria Gibber, daughter-in-law of the actor, Colley Gibber. Elizabeth Allan plays this role with true charm, but here again, L. Du Gartie Peach, who wrote the script, should have done better. Mrs. Gibber, quoted mainly as an actress, did sing Handel's contralto roles, but also was the sister of Dr. Thomas Arne, composer of "Rule Britannia." In short, Handel's career and achievements touched far more interesting events than the obvious scenes the film reiterates.

Background details are beautifully done, with old prints brought faithfully to life. While the period is nearly a century later than that of "Forever Amber," many of the entertaining customs of the two periods are as finely depicted here as they were in "Amber": the street vendors, theatrical customs and the vogue of the Vauxhall Gardens. And beneath the elegance of manners is evident that contempt of lesser human beings by the ruling classes that makes even a superficial student of history recognize the swiftness of a new current.

Yes, musically "The Great Mr. Handel" has much to offer, visually it is charming and its timing as a Christmas offering is perfect. But since "The Messiah" is the climax of the story the producers have chosen to tell, why didn't they let the oratorio sing for itself? That would have made a fine, exultant movie.

"I" AND "MAMA:" Jean Ruth and Charlotte Greenwood in the title roles of "I Remember Mama," John Van Druten's play from Kathryn Forbes' book, "Mama's Bank Account," which was performed in Washington for the first time last night at the National

THE K-B Theaters, like the Warner and Lust chains, are cutting down their showings Christmas Day to afford their employes the luxury of Yule dinner at home. The Princess that day will open at 2, the Atlas at 2:30 and the Apex, Naylor and Senator Theaters at 3.

MONDAY'S opening of "Carousel's" seat sale at the National brought out Christmas shoppers with the theater-tickets-for-Christmas idea. Some had to be reminded that the first two weeks, beginning January 5, are mainly already sold to Theater Guild subscribers, but the third week is open all over the house. That's the week beginning January 19.

"ALICE IN WONDERLAND" will go on Saturday morning and afternoon at Lisner as the Children's Museum of Washington's monthly attraction, despite its trouble with the stage employes' union. John H. Dorsey, attorney for the museum, points out that the children's plays are not a commercial undertaking and that the museum, a nonprofit institution, uses all proceeds for educational projects in this area. So don't worry about your tickets for Saturday. There'll be a show.

Girl, 6, Saves Parents From Asphyxiation

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—Mr. and Mrs. James Ross of Baltimore were saved from asphyxiation last night by the presence of mind of their 6-year-old daughter, Joanne.

Joanne awoke during the night and detected the odor of gas. When she was unable to arouse her parents, she picked up the telephone and was connected by the operator with the police.

Her parents were revived a short time later by artificial respiration administered by police and a municipal ambulance crew.

REVIEW AS IT APPEARED IN WORLD-TELE., AUG. 19
Sutton Has 'Sneak Hit' In Scotch Romance
By ALTON COOK.

Broadway is passing up one of the pleasant charmers of this movie season and shunting "I Know Where I'm Going" over to the East Side's Sutton Theater for its opening in New York today. It is an English picture with no stars to cause a stir around American box offices.

But the venturesome movie-goer who ignores such matters will find a rewarding experience awaiting him at the Sutton these days. This is a dainty little picture, full of a graceful sly wit and a gentle philosophy.

Headlong Heroine.

The title is a summary of the way of life of the picture's heroine, a girl charged with headlong ambition, which landed one of the richest men in England as her fiance. The picture opens with her trip from London to the remote Scotch island on which her catch has his castle. As the train passes through cities, pompous underlings of the lord call upon her to inquire about her welfare. The camera plays ingenious jokes on these callers to heighten the absurdity of themselves and their errands.

The picture settles into more sober tone when it arrives in Scotland, where a storm strands the girl a few miles from the island day after day. The frugal, homely Scots cannot conceal their contempt for a girl who is selling her life for a tycoon's largesse. One handsome, young impoverished laird makes a particularly strong impression with his life full of happiness for himself and others—and money never one of the necessary ingredients.

A variety of closely woven episodes, stirring and winsome by turn, work toward the romantic ending proper to such a fanciful tale. They travel among such subjects as the devilry of the sea, rustic dance, a ruined castle bearing an ominous curse.

Roger Livesey who delighted audiences of English movies with his "Colonel Blimp" a couple of years ago, does a complete about face here as the simple Scotch laird, glowing with boundless zest for his rugged life. The girl is Wendy Hiller, a beauty with a ruthless spirit seething just beneath her veneer of grace and charm.

Taft to Invade Stassen Land for Feb. 12 Minneapolis Speech

By The Associated Press

Senator Taft of Ohio is going West again in his race for the Republican presidential nomination, this time on a tour which will take him into Harold E. Stassen's home State of Minnesota.

Taft's visit to Minneapolis for a Lincoln Day address February 12 is in the nature of returning a call Stassen made to Ohio in October. Because each was consulted in advance and approved the other's invasion of his home grounds, talk of a tacit understanding between the two has grown.

Both are announced candidates for the nomination. Both are interested in seeing that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York doesn't repeat at the June convention in Philadelphia his successful bid for the 1944 nomination.

Each would like to inherit the other's strength if one falls by the wayside in the early convention voting.

But the Ohio Senator has more succulent political fish to fry in two other speaking dates, and possibly two more, on the February trip.

Arrangements have been made for him to speak at a Lincoln Day dinner in Omaha February 13 and at a similar affair in Denver February 14.

Taft's visit to Omaha comes just four days before a scheduled preprimary convention of Nebraska Republicans. Operating under machinery provided by State law, the convention can indorse candidates for State and national office whose names will appear on the April 13 primary ballot.

Taft is being counted as a serious contender for Colorado's 15 convention votes since his trip to the Pacific Coast in September and October aroused more Western interest in his candidacy. With a definite speaking date in Denver, Taft also may be lined up for a talk in Colorado Springs.

He expects to round out the trip with a talk in Bloomington, Ill., either on the way West or on his return.

In the meantime, the Ohio Senator is going to take advantage of Congress' Christmas vacation for a two-day foray into Missouri. He has speaking dates before the Missouri Republican Club at Kansas City December 29 and before the John Marshall Club at St. Louis December 30.

Welsh Bound Over To Grand Jury

Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—Arthur C. Welsh, who, police said, also used the alias T. W. McMahon, was ordered held in $2500 bail for the grand jury today after waiving preliminary hearing before Magistrate Martin Bostetter on a charge of larceny.

Welsh and his wife were arrested December 12 in Cumberland where police found a "small arsenal" in a cabin they were occupying. Mrs. Welsh is being held in the Cumberland jail on a charge of stealing a fur coat from a cocktail lounge.

Welsh is accused of taking a radio from a Hagerstown hotel. The couple first said they were from Columbus, Ohio, but later changed their home address to Union, N. J.

With Shirley Povich

"WASHINGTON, D. C., CALLING Max Schmeling in Hamburg." That's a connection the transatlantic operators have been trying to make for the past 24 hours and it is the start of a movement to bring Schmeling back to these shores for another go at the heavyweight division.

POVICH

The telephone call is originating with Fred Kirsch, a Washingtonian since 1938, who landed in the United States with Schmeling in 1929 as co-manager of the young German heavyweight who was hailed as a second Dempsey.

Schmeling won the title a year later from Jack Sharkey, but hardly impressively. At the moment he was crowned champion, he was groveling on the floor, claiming a foul in concert with the shrill cries of his manager, Joe Jacobs. He didn't fairly earn the label of a second Dempsey until years later, after losing the title. That was the night he punched the ears off Joe Louis and then knocked him out in the twelfth round.

Schmeling's tough luck was that Jimmy Braddock, not Louis, held the title at that time. Braddock discreetly ducked Max and put his title on the line with Louis in 1937, a year later.

SCHMELING'S original managers, Berlin Sports Writer Arthur Buelow and Kirsch were a couple of innocents abroad when they came to America with Unser Max. When New York sharpies fastened their eyes on the dark-browed, 21-year-old German who did look amazingly like Dempsey, they were not long in muscling Buelow and Kirsch out of control. One night Jacobs thrust three $1000 bills into Schmeling's eager paws and took over the fighter.

Kirsch, who settled in Washington, was in correspondence with Schmeling during the war, before the United States entered hostilities. As a sergeant in the German paratroops, Schmeling was one of the first to land in Crete, and later from the Russian front he wrote Kirsch that "We will be in Moscow in 100 days." His guessing was no worse than the German High Command's, at that.

Despite Hitler's pride in Schmeling as a former heavyweight champion of the world, Kirsch evinced no amazement that the Germans did not give him a commission. Kirsch himself was a captain in the German army in World War I and knows the barriers the German officer class erects against the common man. "They don't show Schmeling any favors," Kirsch said in 1940, "he wears 80 hobnails in his shoes just like every German enlisted man."

SINCE THE WAR Schmeling has had his troubles, including a 60-day sentence from the British who caught him dealing in black market construction materials, but that was a comparative misdemeanor in the view of other important Germans. He can point to the fact that he was cleared of all other charges by a German court.

Clearance by a post-war German court is viewed as a more important acquittal than such as Hjalmar Schacht and Franz Von Papen, the big wheels of Nazidom, were given by the War Crimes Tribunal in Nuernberg. That pair was grabbed by a German court after the international tribunal refused to hold them, and was sentenced to long terms.

At the age of 40, Schmeling is fighting again in Germany, and winning with little trouble though the opposition hasn't been much. Kirsch suspects that he is bending an ear to the call of the Yankee dollar, and is eager to make another transatlantic crossing to recoup the family exchequer. Kirsch sees no barrier to Max's admission in the light of his acquittals. He points to Primo Carnera's action in taking out first citizenship papers last week.

BEFORE THE WAR, Schmeling risked the wrath of Hitler by retaining his Jewish manager, Joe Jacobs, and got away with it. Against pressure, Max refused to cut his ties with Jacobs and in a period when it was risky to associate with Jews in Berlin Schmeling had his manager in the ring with him on the nights he fought Steve Hamas and Walter Neusel in Germany.

Schmeling was the first man ever to put Joe Louis on the floor, the first to expose the vulnerability of Louis' chin. There was an interesting first-round sequence in that fight. Schmeling came back to his corner at the end of Round 1, visibly scared and told his trainer, Max Machon, "Dot Choe Louis can heet hard."

Whereupon Machon registered disgust and said "You can heet hard, too, Max, if you try." Schmeling walked back to the fight like a man going to his doom, but he did try and in the fourth round he had Louis down, and from then on it was all Schmeling. Kirsch thinks American fans would like at least one more look at the one man who was upright in the ring when Joe Louis was counted out.

Brown Admits Drafting 3 Ohio Players

Cleveland, Dec. 22 (AP).—Coach Paul Brown of the All-America Conference Champion Cleveland Browns today reported his club had drafted Ollie Cline, Dean Sensanbaugher and Joe Whisler, star backs of the Ohio State football eleven.

"We drafted Cline and Sensanbaugher at the (AAC) meeting in New York last week," Brown disclosed following published reports that the trio and Buck Halfback Bob Brugge hoped to play pro football with the Browns next season and skip their remaining single season of collegiate eligibility.

"We drew Whisler a year ago when he first came up on the All-American Conference 'eligible' list," the Cleveland coach-general manager continued. "Brugge was drafted by the Buffalo Bills, and is not on our list.

Wanted to Play

"It might interest you to know," he told a newsman, "that all these kids came to us and asked us to draft them. As you see, we couldn't get Brugge. I think we can use those boys but we haven't signed any one of them."

Brown said he was not informed whether the three Buckeyes would enter pro football next season, and explained they could continue in school outside the AAC season if they desired, following the plan of Dante Lavelli, Lou Groza and Tony Adamle, former Ohio State members of the Browns.

"I know Sensanbaugher is marride and Cline plans to marry in the spring," the former Buckeye grid pilot said, "and for this reason they are thinking of playing pro football.

"We've had Whisler on our list a year, but all the conversation we've had with him was about his plans. We never talked terms. As you know, he stayed at Ohio State and played football there this fall."

Normally, Cline and Brugge would be college seniors this year while Whisler and Sensanbaugher's classes already have completed four academic years.

Brown Coach Stays On

Providence, R. I., Dec. 22 (AP).—Charles A. "Rip" Engle has been reappointed as head football coach at Brown University for the next three years.

Two-Headed Terp Declines Gator Bowl Bid

Maryland will have to go along with 'Testudo," its 500-pound bronze terrapin, as a 'Gator Bowl mascot, or go without.

John Pearson, director of the Commerce Department's Aquarium, yesterday notified Old Liner Sports Publicist George Carroll that "Superdiamond," the twin-headed terrapin Maryland wanted to borrow for its New Year's Day game with Georgia, is unavailable.

"Superdiamond," Mr. Pearson explained, isn't long for this world and a plane ride to Jacksonville, Fla., would probably expedite its death, expected within three weeks at the most.

Instead of "Superdiamond," the midget twin-head, Pearson offered Maryland the pick of any other terrapin in the Commerce Aquarium. But Carroll said it had to be the double-headed terp or nothing.

CCNY Buries Utah State

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Utah State's outmanned basketball team provided little more than a brisk workout for City College's experienced squad tonight as New York's busy Beavers ploughed the Farmers under an 82-46 score in the opener of a doubleheader, before about 16,000 Madison Square Garden fans.

It did not take the fans long to realize that Utah State was due for a trouncing. After five minutes, the Beavers were in front 11-5, a lead they increased to 20-11 five minutes later and 41-23 at the end of the first half.

Utah's starting five of Norval Hansen, C. P. Jorgensen, Frank Gilmore, Norm Jones and Nat Done did not quit trying, however. Behind, 52-26, after five minutes of play in the second half, the Farmers scored eight consecutive points, their only concentrated scoring attack. Gilmore and Jones accounted for six of theseand Bob Murdock threw in the other two-pointer.

New Orleans, Dec. 22 (AP).—The 1948 Sugar Bowl game between Texas and Alabama will be televised for the first time in the history of the grid classic.

Bogley Wins 2 Matches In Nationals

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Seeded Pablo Eisenberg of Maplewood, N. J., moved into the semifinals of the boys' division today while the Eastern Indoor Tennis Tournament lost its No. 1 player, Alex Hetzack of Hamtramck, Mich.

Grabbing a jump on his mates, Eisenberg won an advanced quarter-final match from Timothy Coss of Washington, D. C., 6—1, 6—1.

Hetzeck, 18-year-old sophomore of the University of Michigan, was eliminated by Daniel B. Rivkind of Brooklyn, 6—4, 4—6, 6—1.

Sixth seeded Jack Yates of Chevy Chase, Md., was subdued by Richard Squires of Bronxville, N. Y., 6—2, 6—1, in another second-round match. Squires defeated Richard M. Palmer of Williams College, 6—4, 6—1, in a first-round match earlier in the day.

Second-seeded Gilbert Bogley of Chevy Chase, Md., and third-seeded Sidney Schwartz of Brooklyn and Miami (Fla.) University reached the quarter-finals, meanwhile, in easy fashion.

Bogley defeated Bill Stucki of Cliffside Park, N. J., 6—3, 6—3, in the second round and downed Richard Aldridge of New York, 6—1, 6—0, in the third to move into the quarterfinals against William Long of New York, who eliminated two other New Yorkers.

Schwartz scored a 6—1, 6—0 triumph over Rodger Lehman of Yale University in the second round and eliminated Robert Haft of New York, 6—0, 6—1, in the third.

Other second round events saw W. R. Straley of Washington D. C., defeat Richard Raskind of Forest Hills, 6—1, 4—1, 6—1; Timothy Coss of Washington, D. C., defeat Roy Jacobs of New York, 6—3, 6—4, and Peter Penick of Montclair, N. J., defeat Jerry Rubenstein of Rockville Ctentre, N. Y., 6—2, 6—2.

Petra Drops to Fourth In French Net Rankings

Paris, Dec. 22 (AP).—Marcel Bernard and Mme. Simone Laundry were selected by the French Lawn Tennis Federation today as France's top ranking tennis players for 1947. Yvon Petra, who shared first place with Bernard in 1946, was dropped to a fourth-place tie year with Pierre Pelizza.

G. W. Star Holds Tie for Scoring Lead

The Southern Conference individual scoring race was locked up in a two-way tie today between Robert Goldsmith, Washington and Lee's freshman center from Beckley, W. Va., and Bill Cantwell, George Washington forward from Brooklyn, N. Y.

Both 6-foot-2-inch stars, Goldsmith and Cantwell each had bucketed a total of 67 points in conference contests. Having played in only four games, Goldsmith, however, had the best average, a 16.7 points per game mark.

Cantwell had seen action in six games for the Colonials, who are leading the Southern Conference standings with six victories against no defeats.

Moffatt Is Third

Trailing Goldsmith and Cantwell were Jimmy Moffatt, 6-foot-1-inch George Washington forward from Washington, D. C., who had 64 points, and Chester Giermak, William and Mary center from Chicago, and George Pierson, Washington and Lee forward from Charleston, W. Va., each with 59.

Except for two games last night when Virginia Tech met the Quantico Marines at Quantico and South Carolina wen to Bowling Green, action in the conference is over until after Christmas.

State Faces Cincy

North Carolina State's Wolfpack, considered one of the two best clubs in the circuit with George Washington, won't waste much time, however, getting back into the swing of things after the holidays. Saturday night, the Wolfpack, boasting eight wins in nine starts, goes to Cincinnati to battle the University of Cincinnati.

State demonstrated its power Saturday night by romping over St. John's of Brooklyn in Madison Square Garden, 76-56. Other games Saturday night saw George Washington, undefeated after nine outings, thrash Clemson, 60-35; Georgetown trip the University of Richmond, 64-54; Maryland stop Johns Hopkins, 64-53; Wake Forest down William and Mary, 61-52, and the Hanes Hosiery topple South Carolina, 60-51.

Mack Marks 85th Birthday

Philadelphia, Dec. 22 (AP).—Connie Mack, 85 years old tomorrow, says his Philadelphia Athletics would be a 1948 American League pennant contender "If I had new second and third basemen who could hit and run."

That was the birthday wish of the A's owner-manager today and he said he'd be glad to find just such a speedy infield combination in his Christmas stocking.

Connie, as erect as always was sniffing from a winter cold but looking ahead to the coming baseball campaign with the enthusiasm of a rookie. He said "I want to win another world championship before I retire and I think I have the makings in this current team of mine."

Connie's been in organized ball since 1884; 53 years as a manager, the last 47 at the helm of the A's—shrugged off birthday wishes with a "let's talk about baseball instead."

"When you get as old as I am you want to forget about ages and dates," the octogenarian said. He admits to being born Cornelius McGillicuddy in East Brookfield, Mass. There's some doubt about the day—December 22 or 23—but the year was 1862.

Mack flatly opposed expansion to the West Coast.

"There will never be a third major league," he said. "I don't think either the American or National should become 10-team circuits as suggested by some West Coast people. Major league baseball can never be profitable if it extends from New York to Los Angeles."

Hawks Name Conacher Coach

Chicago, Dec. 22 (AP).—Charles W. Conacher, a veteran of 12 years as a National Hockey League player, today was named coach of the Chicago Blackhawks, succeeding Johnny Gottselig, who becomes general manager of the Hawks' farm system.

Conacher, who joins the Hawks after two successful seasons in coaching the Oshawa Generals, Canadian amateur team, to two successive championships, is 37 and a native of Toronto.

Navy 150-Pounders Name Stromberg

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—Navy's champion 150-pound football team will be led next year by Herman A. Stromberg, 22-year-old Salem, Mass., midshipman.

Stromberg, a guard, was named captain by his teammates following their second straight undefeated season, the Navy Athletic Association announced today. Barry D. Whittlesey of Indio, Calif., will be the 1948 manager.

Egyptian Wins Squash

London, Dec. 22. (AP).—Lamahmoud El Karim of Cairo, Egypt, won the British Open Squash Rackets title tonight, defeating defending champion James Dear, 5-9, 7-9, 9-8, 9-7, 9-3.

COAST STAR—John Crowley (above) will be a busy young man on Santa Clara's side when the Pacific Coast team plays unbeaten Georgetown at the Armory tonight in an intersectional game. Crowley is one of Santa Clara's finest defense players and probably will be assigned to stopping Andy Kostecka, Georgetown's high-scoring star

Kostecka Returns to G. U. Line-up

Sharp-shooting Andy Kostecka returns to the Georgetown University lineup tonight at 8:45 when the Hoyas, seeking their seventh straight victory, buck up against Santa Clara's Broncos at the National Guard Armory.

Kostecka, who tossed up 104 points in the first five games, before being sidelined by a twisted ankle in the VPI game last Friday, missed the last half of that game and all of the Richmond contest last Saturday.

The Broncos, with eight lettermen back from the 1946-47 team that was ranked seventh in the nation last year by the radio broadcasters, has won four out five in intercollegiate competition this season.

UCLA Has Beaten Broncos

UCLA is the only college team that has beaten Santa Clara. And in a return game, the Broncos avenged that defeat.

Also numbered among Santa Clara's victims are College of the Pacific, Nevada and Fresno State. The Broncos have also ventured against independent opposition, having beaten the San Francisco A. C. and lost to the Oakland Bittners.

Kostecka's counterpart in the Santa Clara offense is 6 foot, 4 inch, 225 pounder, Frank Laney, a pivot shot artist, who has registered 100 points in the seven games. Dave Mariani, a set-shot specialist, is the No. 2 scoring threat.

McKillop Is Playmaker

Santa Clara's playmaker is Bob McKillop. Coach Ray Pesc's other starters will be Joe Crowley and Harry Christienson, both defensive standouts.

Georgetown's Coach Elmer Ripley will start his usual five. Kostecka, Ray Corley, Kenny Brown, Danny Kraus and Eddie Brombs.

These five have been the chief collaborators as the Hoyas bowled over Denver, Loyola of Chicago, St. John's, Quantico Marines, VPI and Richmond, without suffering a defeat.

Tonight's game will afford Washington fans with their last chance to see the Hoyas in action at home until January 8. They leave later this week for New Orleans, where on Saturday they encounter Loyola of the South.

Then they head up the Mississippi where a week from tonight they take on the University of St. Louis at St. Louis. On New Year's Day, Louisvnlle University provides the opposition, and the next day, Western Kentucky. Chicago is the next stop, and the Georgetowners battle Loyola of the North, there, on January 4.

Caps Slipping!

No, Other Teams Are Improving

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

"IF JOE LOUIS doesn't knock a guy stiff in the first three rounds, he's a bum, all washed up. We blow a few ball games and we're bums, too."

Red Auerbach wasn't blowing his top, but his temper was almost at the boiling point last night as tried to answer a question quite a few people have been asking recently: "What's happened to the Washington Capitols?"

"Nothing has happened to us," the young coach of the local Basketball Association of America pay-for-play entry shouted. "We're just as good as ever and we'll ram that ball down their throats before this thing is over."

Last year Mr. Auerbach's Caps were the toasts of the town and the terrors of the league. On the basis of their won-lost record so far, there's a strong suspicion that the "phenomenal," "sensational" and "wondrous" unit of 1946-47 is either cracking up or isn't what it's cracked up to be.

* * * *

DURING THEIR triumphant campaign last season, the Caps won 49 of their 60 regular season skirmishes and then were knocked out of the playoffs by the Chicago Stags.

They've dropped eight of their 16 contests this year. To make their ignominy even worse, the cellar-dwelling Providence Steamrollers, winners of only one game this season, dumped the Caps for that triumph.

The Caps are just as good as

Stiteler Named A & M Coach

College Station, Tex., Dec. 22 (AP). Harry Stiteler, who has been backfield coach, was elected head football coach at Texas A. and M. College today by the school's board of directors. He succeeds Homer Norton, resigned.

Stiteler will become active head coach January 1, Bill Carmichael, athletic director at Texas A. and M., said in making the announcement.

Norton's contract has until August 31, 1950, to run. He will remain at the school until August 31, 1948, under an arrangement through which former students of Texas A. and M. are buying up the last two years of the contract.

Stiteler, an assistant coach at Rice Institute last year, came to Texas A. and M. this fall. Before going to Rice he had held high school coaching jobs since finishing at Texas A. and M. in 1931.

Champion Fan Despite It

17-Year-Old Invalid Has Never Seen a Sports Contest

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

GEORGE certainly would like a television set for Christmas. And a television set would mean more to George than any other present in the world.

George is George Bryant, a 17-year-old boy with a photographic memory and an unquenchable love of sports who has been lying on his back in a hospital room for eight years.

He can move his eyes and his mouth, but that's all. George is suffering from rheumatic arthritis.

But despite his condition, George does nothing but smile. Especially when he's talking about sports.

HE KNOWS how many passes Sammy Baugh of the Redskins completed in each of the past three seasons.

He can tell you the batting averages of any major league star and he can remember the scores of almost every Nat game played last year.

But he's never played any sport or even seen a sports

"How do you think this boy Al Kozar will do for the Nats?" he asked. "Maybe he'll supply that right-handed hitting strength Griff has been looking for," he answered himself.

George's agile mind went on at a fast clip.

"I felt kind of sorry when the Nats traded Stan Spence to the Boston Red Sox. I remember one night game last season with Bob Feller pitching against the Nats. Spence caught hold of one of Bob's fast ones and smacked it right over the wall. The Nats lost that one, 5-3, but old Stan sure gave me something to howl about."

George's best friend is his radio. He listens to it all day long but he's happiest when he's hearing sports.

College Athletics Need Policing, Says 'Phog' Allen

Kansas City, Dec. 22 (AP).—Alumni, college presidents and faculty representatives "are making a sham and chicanery of intercollegiate athletics," Dr. F. C. (Phog) Allen, University of Kansas basketball coach, said today.

Invited to a luncheon meeting of Kansas City's Notre Dame alumni honoring the Notre Dame basketball squad, the voluble Kansas coach sounded another call for an over-all collegiate czar to police athletics.

"Let's have it honest, none of these $12,500-a-year salaries for athletes that are being handed out in some instances today," Allen said.

The Kansas coach would put the burden on athletic directors to see that things go right.

"Tug Wilson (Big Nine commissioner) recently said they might have to kick a member school out to bring it into line with athletic regulations," Allen said, adding:

"That's silly. When a cashier absconds with some money, they don't close the bank, they simply fire the cashier."

WINX to Broadcast Hoya Game Tonight

The second half of the Georgetown-Santa Clara basketball game tonight will be broadcast by station WINX and WINX-FM. Bob Wolff, WINX sportscaster, will handle the play by play account. The broadcast begins at 10:05 p. m.

Gonzaga and St. John's Contract for Four Sunday Basketball Dates in Guard Armory

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

ST. JOHN'S and Gonzaga have joined the interhigh schools in taking advantage of the National Guard Armory's excellent basketball facilities.

They have contracted for four Sunday afternoon dates. On January 25 and February 22, the two traditional rivals will play their annual games against each other.

They will play in afternoon doubleheaders February 8 and February 15. On the first date, St. John's will play Benedictine of Richmond and Gonzaga will meet Calvert Hall of Baltimore. On the second date St. John's will meet LaSalle of Cumberland, Md., and Gonzaga opposes Mount St. Mary's of Baltimore.

THE PUBLIC HIGHS have effected a virtual disruption of athletic relations with Woodward and Bullis Preps by ordering all the interhigh schools that had scheduled games with the two preps to cancel them.

The reason given by Hardy Pearce, director of athletics, is that "Woodward and Bullis all use high school graduates on their teams and it isn't fair to pit our boys against them."

The highs and preps haven't played each other in football for two years. However, they have played basketball and baseball against each other.

The order issued by the department of athletics caused McKinley Tech, Central and Anacostia to cancel games with Bullis; Tech, Western, Aanacostia and Central to cancel with Woodward.

WALTER OLSEN, 6 foot 8 inch All-High center on the McKinley Tech basketball team two years ago, is a regular at San Francisco University. He was on the squad at Long Island U. last year . . . Dickie Lewis, Washington-Lee of Arlington's three-year All-Metro fullback, is headed for George Washington University . . . So is Tim Swett, who resigned Sidwell Friends School several months ago. According to rumors, Swett will become a line coach at G. W., where he played football in 1941 . . . Mount Vernon High of Alexandria will play all its 1948 home baseball games under its new arc lights . . . Ed Rowse, former star tackle at Bethesda-Chevy Chase, earned his letter on the freshman football team at Grinnell College in Iowa . . . Allen Jones, star quarterback of the undefeated Staunton Military Academy football team, will graduate in June with highest honors. He plans to go to the University of Virginia next season. Allen's mother, Mrs. Gladys M. Jones lives at 4817 36th st. nw. . . . Donald Fisher, junior, and reserve halfback at Staunton, is also a Washington boy. He is a ward of Dr. John D. Salad Bowl Has Grudge Game; Grambling Picks Itself in Vulcan

Texans Ired Because Nevada At First Turned Game Down

Reno, Nev., Dec. 22.—There is nothing small about the team that Nevada University will send against North Texas State in the Salad Bowl game at Phoenix, Ariz., New Year's Day.

Nevada's Wolf Pack will start a line that averages 218 pounds per man and a backfield that averages 181 pounds.

With the exception of two players, the Nevada squad will be in excellent condition to pick up where it left off at the end of the regular season in which Nevada lost only two games, to powerful Detroit and San Francisco teams.

Among the teams beaten by Nevada were Oregon, Tulsa, St. Louis and St. Mary's.

The Wolf Pack has been practicing since December 15, and among star players who returned to the squad after suffering regular season injuries was Ted Ennslin, 145-pound scatback.

Ennslin broke an ankle early in the season, and his return will give Nevada an added punch against the Texans.

Nevada's probable starting lineup will be:

Backs—Stan Heath, 190; Tommy Kalmanir, 165; Dick Trachok, 170, and Ernie Zeno, 200.

Denton, Tex., Dec. 22.—The North Texas State team that meets Navada in the Salad Bowl at Phoenix, Ariz., New Year's Day will carry somewhat of a grudge into the contest.

The Texans are no little miffed at the Nevadans who at first refused to play the "unknown Texans."

After losing a 12-0 decision to the University of Arkansas early in the season, the Eagles went ahead to chalk up a record that included 10 wins against the single loss.

They downed the University of Florida, University of Chattanooga, Trinity University, Hardin College, University of Houston, Brooke Army Medical Center, Sam Houston State, East Texas State, Stephen F. Austin and Southwest Texas State, scoring 250 points to opponents' 64.

Seven on All-Star Team

The Eagles held up under stiff competition as they perfected their T-formation and rolled up 2929 yards rushing and 598 in the air. Seven Eagles made All-Lone Star Conference and Tackle Felton Whitlow made the Little All-American team of the Associated Press.

The squad will be strengthened by the return of Bill Lalicker, left half. Lalicker received a knee injury early in the season after holding a 13-yard per try average for three games in rushing.

However, the Eagles will be without the services of Fullback Billy Dinkle who received a twisted knee in the Chattanooga tilt. All-LSC halfback, Bill Cromer, a 200-pounder, will move to the fullback slot to strengthen the big Eagle team.

North Texas uses the team substitution system by the quarter, having two teams equally powerful. The starters play the first and third quarters and the numbers two team plays the second and fourth. An indication of the equality of the team came when two No. 2 backs made All-Lone Star Conference.

All of Them Can Seat

Besides Lalicker, three Eagle backs have over a 6-yard per try average from scrimmage. They are all-LSC Richard Nutt, who scored 42 points, Harold Bartlett and Cromer. Both Nutt and Bartlett play right half.

Passing is done by Quarterback Fred McCain who has 22 completions in 42 tries this season for 359 yards. McCain is like a professor at the head of his class when he's working with the team.

It is the second bowl game for the Eagles in two years.

Last year they came from behind to down Alonzo Stagg's College of Pacific Tigers, 14-13, in the Houston Optimist Bowl.

In taking the LSC crown, the Eagles racked up their seventh title in the 12-year history of the loop. All but one starter is an All-Conference man at least one year.

Are the Caps Good as Ever?

they were last year. The catch is the rest of the teams have improved immeasurably.

Auerbach, a basketball nut, took the pro business seriously and loaded up with top talent his first year while the rest of the league took it easy.

Washington's big wheels of last year—Bob Feerick, Fred Scolari, Bones McKinney, John Norlander and John Mahnken are still the best unit in the league. Last year, even when they weren't at top form, they were still too good for the rest of the pack.

This year, however, it's different, so cast has been the improvement of the opposition.

RECENTLY, Washington got a tremendous lift in the acquisition of Sonny Hertzberg, late of the New York Knicks. But while the Caps were making one change, the rest of the teams did it in wholesale proportions. They were determined that the Caps would not make a farce of the league again.

Three of the Cap triumphs, strangely enough, have been from one of the best clubs in the circuit, the Baltimore Bullets.

But St. Louis, Chicago and Boston, which combined could win only 4 of 18 games against the Caps last year, have already exacter six games from Mr. Auerbach's charges in the eight played.

"That doesn't bother us at all," Mr. Auerbach said. "We're just as good as ever."

He may be right, but that's what they said about Joe Louis before he met a guy named Walcott.

Wilberforce No Push-Over With 10 Wins in 11 Games

Grambling, La., Dec. 22.—Want a good prospect for the New Year's Day victory column mystery? Then take the Grambling Teachers College Tigers.

Here on Adams Height, glum Eddie Robinson, the poker-faced mentor of the Vulcan Bowl-bound Tigers, is lamenting these days and all because material for the January 1 engagement with Wilberforce State of Birmingham is embarrassingly plentiful.

In former years, Eddie has had a wealth of backs who could run 'em ragged or pass 'em dizzy. The backs are still around, but the major problem lies with a dozen or so linemen who rate high on the list of all-hail candidates.

The Grambling coaching staff simply is like the proverbial old lady who lived in the shoe. It has so many good linemen, it doesn't know what to do.

Dennis "He-Man" of Line

Big Albert Dennis, 6-foot 1-inch, who tips the scales at 232 pounds and plays a double-tip portion at tackle, is the golden boy in the big Tiger line.

Mose "Texas" Smith, 237-pound center, is a slashing line-backer with a flair for guarding his zone against forward passes. Midget Ike Richardson, 145-pounds, spells him at center with equal ability if not fury.

When the Tigers take the field in Birmingham, three rampaging backs, Paul "Tank" Younger, Albany Jones and John Christopher will handle the bulk of the ball-carrying assignments along with Quarterback "Boots" Moore.

"Tank" Younger has gained 1207 yards rushing and has scored 18 touchdowns. Rapid Robert Ensley, his twin brothers, Luther and Frank, Valtaire Sterling, Emerson Stewart and Roy Givens are all remarkable runners.

Grambling has piled up 356 points this season to garner top honors in this department among colored colleges.

Lions Shoot For 1st Win Over St. Louis

The Washington Lions return to Uline Arena tonight to try for their initial victory over St. Louis Flyers in an American League hockey match at 8:30 p. m.

The Lions and the Flyers put on one of the most thrilling games of the season on the St. Louis team's last appearance here. In that game the locals held a 1-0 edge up to the 1st minute, when the Flyers scored to gain a deadlock.

The Lions have been playing good hockey in the last two weeks. Their new line combination of Johnny Carr-Harris and Porteous twins, Frank and Dan, has proved very effective.

The loss of Bud Foley and Babey has weaken the team's defense, but Foley will be back in action tonight. Babey will not be ready for a few more games, as his broken thumb has not completely recovered.

St. Louis will be led by Hec Pozzo, high scoring wing, Don Grosso, Ronnie Wilson, Eddie Olson and Paul Gladu. Goalie Hec Highton will again be in the visitors' net, with Jack Shewchuk and Bingo Kampman heading the defense.

Last week's victory over the crack Cleveland Barons proved that Washington can pla ytop flight hockey. Again against powerful Providence, the Lions held their own for two periods, but then the defense weakened and Washington lost, 7-3.

NTS Turns Back Bell for Second Win

Sparked by Eddie Ryan's 22 points, National Training School defeated Bell Vocational High, 48-38, yesterday at N.T.S. It was the second win in four games for N.T.S.

Lemon Will Match Feller, Says Veeck

Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 22 (AP).—Pitcher Bob Lemon will win as many games for the Cleveland Indians in 1948 as Bob Feller, Bill Veeck, president of the American League Club, predicted today.

Veeck is spending the Christmas holidays on his Lazy Vee ranch near here.

"Feller should win 20 to 25 games but we'll be glad to take anything over that figure," said Veeck. "Lemon should do as well."

Last season Feller won 20 and lost 11. Lemon, a converted outfielder, had an 11-5 record.

Bill Bennings Says

AT GULFSTREAM

Dear Folks:

I have come in for some ribbing (mostly good natured) about my selections at Charles Town. I seldom check on them, but I did this time. If they didn't make me look good I wouldn't be printing them. Here gies: In 18 days, 144 races, picked 46 winners. That's better than two and a half each day. A $2 flat bet on all races would have cost $288. My picks returned $366.40, or a profit of $78.40 for the meeting. For the 18 days, two of my best bets were scratched. Of the other 16, there were 10 winners. A $2 flat bet would have cost $32 with a return of $56.20 or a profit of $24.20. Didn't fail to pick at lease one winner each day. Best single day was five winners on December 17 with pay-offs of $5.40, $4.40, $26.40, $5 and $8. Best week was the last with 19 winners out of 48 races. In addition, best bet won four times and was scratched once. A $2 flat bet for final week shows $30 profit on all picks and $7.80 on best bets. Usually a column like this puts the jinx on me, but I've already broken the ice at Gulfstream. My best bet just won. Good luck in West Virginia, maybe better luck in Florida.—Bill.

3-Year-Old Pays $9.50 In Feature

Gulfstream Park; Fla., Dec. 22 (AP).—Yankee Hill, flying the Amsterdam, N. Y., silks of Polo-Player Laddie Sanford, improved considerably off one previous effort here to capture today's featured Ocala Purse before 8328 fans.

The bay son of Bahram, under Charlie Givens, outran the other 3-year-olds virtually from the start of the 6-furlong dash and held on stubbornly to prevail by a head over Seaton Pippin. Roman Candle, trying to give favorite players their fourth score of the afternoon, finished third, three lengths behind.

Warren Wright's Calumet Farm silks were borne by two horses—Balanced and Master—but neither proved equal to giving the fabulous stable its 100th victory of 1947. Balanced, away from competition since September, did make a game try, racing forwardly all the way and winding up fourth. Master was just behind his running mate.

A victory for Calumet would have sent that pacemaking establishment's earnings for the year past the $1,400,000 mark. The $200 gleaned by Balanced brought the record gleanings of the stable to $1,399,211.

Yankee Hill paid $9.50 for $2 over a fast but still rather "dead" strip, and was timed in 1:13 flat under 120 pounds.

Carnera Given Permission to Live in America

The State Department said yesterday Primo Carnera, former heavyweight boxing champion who is now a wrestler, has been permission to live in the United States permanenty.

The Italian athlete also has applied for permission to bring his wife and two children, Umberto and Giovanni Maria, to the United States from Genoa.

Press Officer Reginald Mitchell told reporters Carnera got permission to stay in the United States December when his visitor's visa was changed to an immigration visa.

Boost Urged In Va. Medical Scholarships

Richmond, Va., Dec. 22 (AP).—The Virginia Advisory Legislative Council recommended today a broader scholarship program to supply more doctors and nurses to rural areas. It opposed the State putting up matching money to build local general hospitals.

Other recommendations to the Governor and Assembly included more money for the University of Virginia Hospital and the Medical College of Virginia Hospital and a new effort to develop district homes for the chronically ill.

The council said it found adequate facilities for education of medical and nursing students but it described facilities at MCV for dental students as "inadequate." It said a shortage of doctors and nurses exists in rural areas. All medical institutions were said to be short on nurses.

Boosts to $1000 in rural medical scholarships—established by the 1942 Assembly at 10 awards of $550 each per year at each of the medical schools — were recommended. Recipients are obligated to practice in rural Virginia. The report said a new building for dentists at MCV is "badly needed."

It agreed the State's 30 professional nursing schools and 5 schools for practical nursing probably are sufficient but, to speed the program, it recommended $100 a year scholarship, for a three-year course, for 15 "worthy girls" each year at the University of Virginia Medical School and the Medical College of Virginia. Recipients would be required to practice nursing in Virginia for one year for each $100, or to repay the scholarship.

Concerning care for the chronically ill and aged the report proposed the State appropriate $300,000 as a matching fund which localities could call on for maintenance and operation of district homes on a basis of 62.5 per cent from the State and 37.5 per cent from the locality.

The council recommended 50 beds be made available at MCV and the University of Virginia for care and treatment of terminal cancer cases and chronic bed cases.

Va. Paroles Total 73 in December

Richmond, Va., Dec. 22 (AP).—Seventy-three men have been released this month on parole from the Virginia penal system, and three others have gone out on pardons, but the releases "have nothing to do with Christmas coming on," Col. Richard W. Copeland, chairman of the State Board of Parole and Pardons and Reprieves, said today.

The parole director said his office had received many requests again this year for "Christmas paroles," but had advised all petitioners that December is "just another month" as far as the parole system is concerned.

The board has heard 650 applications for parole since the current quarter opened October 1. Favorable action was taken on 270.

To Go to Caracas Parley

Richmond, Va., Dec. 22 (AP).—Arthur W. James, State commissioner of public welfare, will attend sessions of the ninth annual Pan-American Child Welfare Conference at Caracas, Venezuela, January 5-10, it was announced today. He is a member of the organization committee of the conference, a position to which he was appointed by the United States Children's Bureau.

Trial Urged For Officers in Check Taking

Camp Lee, Va., Dec. 22 (AP).—Lieut. Col. Alfred G. Texley, Camp Lee investigating officer, today recommended trial by a general court-martial for Capt. Edward P. Kelly, who disappeared from the camp December 1 with pay checks of 37 fellow Army officers.

Following a hearing Colonel Texley recommended the court-martial on these charges:

Two specifications of embezzlement and two of forgery under the Ninety-third Article of War; six specifications of publishing checks without a bank account under the Ninety-sixth Article of War and 15 specifications of being absent without leave under the Sixty-first Article.

The recommendations, along with all evidence in the case, were sent by special messenger immediately to Fort Meade, Md., for review by the commanding general of the Second Army.

The next action in the case will be up to the Second Army commandant. He will make the final decision concerning the trial and set the time and place.

Military authorities here hastened their investigation of the Kelly case in order to retain jurisdiction. The Denville, N. J., man is scheduled for separation from the Army December 30.

Kelly, whose promotion from lieutenant to captain came while he was a fugitive, would face an FBI charge of embezzlement if he were released from the Army without having been tried.

Kelly vanished from Camp Lee with the 37 checks totaling almost $15,000. Three were cashed and the others returned to the camp in a plain envelope postmarked Richmond.

Va. Education Group Backs Tax Program

Richmond, Va., Dec. 22 (AP).—The Virginia Education Association's legislative committee issued a statement today reaffirming its support of "any reasonable tax program recommended by the Governor and the General Assembly," and predicting that recommendations made last week by the Moses School Study Commission "will meet with a large degree of sat

Togo Says Hirohito Got Last U. S. Plea In Full Uniform

Tokyo (Monday), Dec. 22 (AP).—Emperor Hirohito was clad in full Japanese naval uniform when he received President Roosevelt's last-minute plea for peace—20 minutes before carrier planes bombed Pearl Harbor—former Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo testified today at the war crimes trial.

(The prosecution has suggested in open court that "there was a gathering of the boys at the palace, waiting for the news from the Pearl Harbor attack, when President Roosevelt's message arrived.")

Defendant Togo's testimony on the emperor, confirming a Japanese foreign office document produced by the prosecution, followed his admission that he and Premier Hideki Tojo prepared a reply rejecting Roosevelt's plea even before the message was carried to Hirohito. Actual delivery of President Roosevelt's message followed a delay of more than 12 hours in transmission.

Two Farm Shows Are Scheduled

College Park, Md., Dec. 23 (AP).—Two agriculture shows, including crop contests for both adult and junior farmers, are slated for the first week of January at Baltimore.

The eighteenth annual Maryland potato show will be held January 6-9, sponsored by the Maryland Vegetable Growers Association.

The forty-first annual corn and grain show, also at Baltimore, will be held January 7-8. Its exhibits will feature 21 classes of grain and seed.

All entries for both shows must arrive at show headquarters by the morning of January 6. Both events are under the supervision of the extension service of the University of Maryland.

200 Continue Search For Md. Cattle Raiser

Lisbon, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—About 200 men and women, some of them on horseback, continued a search of this area of Howard County today for some trace of D. Bierne Pue, 55-year-old farmer, who has not been seen since he left his dinner table Thursday.

State police at Randallstown said they are investigating the possibility the widely known raiser of Holstein cattle may have met with foul play.

Jews Flee Peshawar

Peshawar, Pakistan, Dec. 22 (AP).—Some 200 to 300 native Jewish families have either fled or are preparing to flee this all-Moslem city because of antisemitism following the United Nations decision to partition Palestine.

Police Group Hit for Pay Rise Request

By Richard Lyons
Post Reporter

The Arlington Police Association, which requested last Friday an "immediate emergency" pay raise, got a verbal spanking yesterday from County Manager A. T. Lundberg.

Lundberg told a five-man police association committee to wait its turn with other county employes. He termed the association's releasing its pay-raise resolution to the press as "lacking that kind of judgment which every police officer must have."

The county board is now working on a revised pay scale for all county employes, he said.

Handed Copies to Newsmen

The police association petitioned the county board through Lundberg for pay raises to bring police salaries in line with those of similar metropolitan communities. When the resolution failed to come up at Saturday's board meeting, the association handed copies of it to newsmen.

Yesterday Lundberg called in the committee, reporters and Police Chief Harry W. Woodward "to make my position perfectly clear."

"If you want to slug it out in the press," Lundberg told the committee, "I, too, can play ball that way." As the meeting ended, he added: "the Association is not running the police department."

Much Work to Be Done

He read a letter addressed to the secretary of the association in which he asserted that "your committee was told that this resolution would not be presented to the county board," and that the committee was informed of the job classification and pay study.

He said there is still considerable work to be done before the county can announce new pay scales. To bring salaries up to the minimum set in the speedy report, the county must appropriate $29,377.45 for the next six months. The police department's share is $1726, he said.

C. Burnes Pressley, president of the police association, declined comment on Lundberg's remarks. The letter, he said will be presented to the association at a meeting at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow in the county courthouse.

U. S. Drops Case Against Md. Packer

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—The Government dropped its case against a Baltimore meat packer and a group of Kansas City packers who were convicted two and one-half years ago of conspiring to charge above OPA ceiling prices for about two million pounds of beef.

The original case was heard before Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut, who had withheld sentence pending decision on an appeal by the defendants, Jacob Spevak of Baltimore, who traded as J. Spevak & Co., and Sam, Albert and Melvin Simon of Kansas City, operators of the United States Packing Co.

The defendants had sought in the emergency court of appeals to invalidate the price regulations which were the basis of their convictions.

The dismissal order was entered in court here today after United States Attorney Bernard J. Flynn disclosed he had been informed by the office of the Attorney General that the price regulations involved in the case might not be sustained and that, therefore, it was felt the proceedings should be dropped in the public interest.

The meat packers were convicted in July, 1945, on conspiracy charges growing out of 1943 transactions.

Henn Quads Have First Birthday

A good deal larger and livelier one year after their fourfold debut in St. Agnes Hospital here, the quads had their first birthday party, with cakes and candles.

Their mother, Mrs. Dorothy Henn—British wife of former Army Sergt. Charles Henn, jr.—invited the St. Agnes medical staff that supervised the babies' earliest development to her home for a little reunion with the three boys and a girl.

Navy Store Won't Sell to Civilians

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—Local merchants who have criticized the Navy for opening a ship's service store at North Severn were assured today by the Naval Academy superintendent that abuses of store privileges "will be summarily and vigorously dealt with."

Rear Admiral James L. Holloway, jr., made the statement after a group of Annapolis business men protested the store to Senators Tydings and O'Conor.

Some merchants say they are losing trade because civilians buy at the ship's store through Navy friends.

Bustard Now Resigns From Va. U. Board

Richmond, Va., Dec. 22 (AP).—Maitland H. Bustard, former member of the State Senate from Danville, resigned today from the board of visitors of the University of Virginia.

Boy Slayer Put Under Care Of Psychiatrist

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—A 17-year-old high school boy, convicted December 10 of manslaughter in the brickbat slaying of a New York divorcee, drew a five-year suspended prison term today and was ordered held under care of a noted psychiatrist for mental observation and treatment.

The youth, Charles Masek, was charged with slaying Mrs. Mina Taylor, a former Marylander who was visiting her sister here last August 17. Masek said he had been partly intoxicated and professed not to recall the crime until two days later, while under police questioning.

Judge Joseph Sherbow, who said the case was "the saddest" he had ever tried, declared that "sending this boy to a penal institution is not the answer. Yet he must be kept away from the general public until we know with certainty whether it is safe for him to come back into the community."

The sentence was suspended upon condition that Masek be transferred to Stony Lodge, Ossining, N. Y., "and remain under the care and custody of Dr. Bernard C. Glueck, and he is to be kept away from the general community except when properly safeguarded."

Sherbow said Dr. Glueck had agreed to accept Masek "for observation and treatment for an indefinite period until such time as he may be returned to society."

The judge said Dr. Glueck is director of the psychiatric clinic at Sing Sing Prison and is outstanding in the field of criminal psychiatry.

Ocean City Spending $328,000 on Projects

Ocean City, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—The wintry winds whipping around this Maryland seashore resort haven't slowed down preparations for next summer.

Mayor Daniel Trimper estimated at least $200,000 worth of new construction and repairs are under way by hotels and cottage builders.

Also scheduled for completion before next summer is a $128,000 project improving Ocean City's water system and streets.

1000 Denied Jobless Pay In Maryland

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—More than 1000 Marylanders have been disqualified from receiving jobless pay for periods ranging from one to two years since the amended Maryland Unemployment Compensation Act went into effect eight months ago, Chairman Russell S. Davis of the Employment Security Board, reported.

Davis said benefits have been denied them because they filed fraudulent claims while they were gainfully employed.

He reported also that:

1. Forty-two claimants received money on fraudulent claims when their employers failed to file accession notices required by the act; that 12 of the employers were fined and the claimants were prosecuted and paid back the money they had received.

2. Through recent enforcement efforts to weed out claimants "not actively seeking work," 3207 persons were disqualified at the Baltimore office for the week in which it was discovered they had not sought work and about 600 in the counties lost a week's benefits for the same reason.

3. That total payments for the first two quarters dropped 50 per cent as compared with the corresponding period of last year—from $12,683,512 to $6,064,441.

4. That the number of checks paid out in the first six months of the benefit year—347,662—totaled less than 60 per cent of the 682,539 sent out during the corresponding 1946 period.

Brooklyn Man Gets 40 Years In Md. Holdups

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—Joseph (Chicken Joe) Cacciolla of Brooklyn, N. Y., who pleaded guilty September 26 to a part in two Baltimore holdups in 1946, was sentenced to 40 years in the Maryland Penitentiary today.

Cacciolla, who was arrested at San Jose, Calif., last June, was accused of taking part in holdups at the Century Athletic Club July 4, 1946, and the Independent Democratic Association January 13, 1936.

Judge Joseph Sherbow, who noted that four or more men armed with machine guns entered the clubs in "gang style," sentenced Cacciolla to maximum terms of 20 years in each case and made them consecutive.

Sentencing of Cacciolla on charges of armed robbery was deferred pending a search for another suspect, and investigation of unsolved slayings by New York police.

Julius Taibi and Alfred Rollo, also of Brooklyn, already are serving prison terms here in connection with the cases. Taibi is serving 40, and Rollo 20 years.

Parking Space Owner Pays $25 For Interference

Salisbury, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—Mrs. James Johnson was "doing the best I could," she testified in People's Court, but the parking lot owner thought otherwise, said "damn," and grabbed her steering wheel.

Elmer C. Williams, 74, denied he was swearing but admitted snatching the wheel "to keep Mrs. Johnson from tearing the fender off another car."

He added, "a lot of women drivers give me trouble."

But he admitted that he himself could not drive.

Williams appealed today from a disorderly conviction netting a $25 fine.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Defense Rests as Mrs. Harris Firmly Denies Slaying Husban

With Mrs. Minnie Harris, 37, categorically denying that she slew her husband, James, with an ax last April 28, the defense rested in District Court yesterday. The case will be placed in the hands of the jury today.

Mrs. Harris, charged with the murder of her husband, late business agent for the Cafeteria and Restaurant Workers Union (CIO), also denied authorship of a "confession" letter received by Oliver Palmer, another union official, several months ago.

On the witness stand yesterday, the defendant said under direct examination by Defense Counsel Joseph A. McMenamin said that she left her husband asleep in another room at their home, 3120 13th st. nw., when she went to the cleaners. On returning, Harris' body was discovered.

She said on her return, the house appeared to have been entered. She said she noticed a window raised in a rear room. She said she then called a mail carrier and notified him that she thought someone had attempted to rob the house.

The letter carrier, looking over the premises discovered Harris sprawled across the bed, his throat slashed.

Deputy Coroner Richard M. Rosenberg testified that a chemical applied to Mrs. Harris' hands would show any existing bloodstains even though they might have been washed with soap a score of times. No blood was found, detectives testified.

Under questioning by Prosecutor Arthur McLaughlin, Mrs. Harris denied having any serious marital difficulties with her husband although she admitted they had lived apart for a while after their marriage 13 years ago in South Carolina.

Baltimore Cabbie Drives Sailor Home For Yule for $255

Baltimore, Dec. 22 (AP).—Taxi Driver Herbert L. Haber has an extra $115 for Christmas and the young seaman he picked up here and drove 960 miles, got to his home in Jackson, Tenn., in time to trim the Yule tree with his family.

The bespectacled cab driver, wearing a 3-day growth of face stubble, pulled into the garage today after completing a round trip in which he got about four hours' sleep.

The fare was $255.60, which the seaman, known to Haber only as L. Brentner, paid before he left Baltimore. Haber gets 40 per cent of the fare, plus a $15 tip, or $100.04. Brentner explained he couldn't get plane reservations.

Hundreds of Dice Found in Slain Gambler's Flat

Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—Sheriff Joseph D. Baker disclosed today that several hundred pairs of dice, many "loaded," were found in the apartment of a slain Hagerstown gambler, Charles Taylor.

State's Attorney Martin L. Ingram said also that a set of drills, metal for loading dice and calipers were removed from the place.

Taylor was shot in the head and his body found on a highway near Hagerstown on July 28, shortly after he left a gambling game with Roy Ridenour of Martinsburg, W. Va. Ridenour was sentenced last week to 10 years on a conviction of manslaughter.

Steel Men Called to Draft Voluntary Pacts

By The Associated Press

Secretary of Commerce Harriman today summoned 15 top steel executives to Washington January 8 to draft voluntary agreements for increasing production and channeling scarce steel to the most essential users.

Walter S. Tower, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, announced immediately the industry is ready to discuss voluntary allocations for steel products, and is "glad to help inthe fight against inflation."

The conference is expected to set the pattern for voluntary agreements among business, agriculture and labor leaders as called for in the Republican anti-inflation bill now awaiting President Truman's signature.

Mr. Truman is expected to sign the bill, but reluctantly, since it fails to provide the chief anti-inflation weapons he asked of the special session of Congress—standby rationing and price control powers.

In another phase of the program, Harriman has sent a letter to the iron and steel scrap industry asking its cooperation in speeding the flow of scrap to steel mills. He said the lack of iron and steel scrap "threatens the maintenance of maximum steel production this winter."

Woman, 53, Gets Life In Husband Slaying

Madison, Va., Dec. 22 (AP).—Fifty-three-year-old Mrs. Minnie Butler, who waived jury trial and pleaded innocent, was convicted of murder in the first degree late today in the shotgun slaying of her husband and sentenced to spend the remainder of her life in the State penitentiary.

White House Menu

Yule Meal To Follow Tradition

By Elizabeth Maguire

CHRISTMAS dinner at the White House this year will follow tradition, with one exception. In keeping with the food conservation program, no bread will be served.

Celery, will be curled, olives assorted and a turkey stuffed for the holiday meal. Tomato consomme will be served first, and with the turkey, giblet gravy and cranberry jelly. Mashed potatoes and asparagus will be served for vegetables, and for a salad course, a molded ring filled with fruit. The meal will wind up with plum pudding and hard sauce, candies and nuts, coffee.

Around the table will gather the President and Mrs. Truman, Miss Margaret Truman, Miss Mary Truman, sister of the President, and Mrs. D. W. Wallace, Mrs. Truman's mother. Also, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. George Porterfield Wallace and Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Wallace, brothers and sisters-in-law of Mrs. Truman. Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Wallace's two children, David and Marian, will make an important addition to the party.

Trimming the tree is a tradition in the Truman family. In the West Hall upstairs on Christmas Eve, they will toss tinsel and fasten fragile bits on the fragrant boughs. In the morning immediately after breakfast, gifts will be opened.

There will be another tree in the ballroom for Margaret's dance on New Year's Eve. About 100 of her young friends have been invited. There will be no dinner party beforehand, but a midnight supper will be served in the State Dining Room.

The white marble halls and red carpets and draperies in the White House make an admirable setting for masses of red poinsettia plants. No Christmas card ever looked more "Christmasy" than the White House.

Miss Field Is Bride of Mr. Kennedy

Barbara Montgomery Field and John Hines Kennedy were married yesterday in Trinity Church, Princeton, N. J.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Montgomery Field of Princeton and South Duxbury, Mass. Mr. Kennedy is son of John A. Kennedy, Charleston, W. Va., and the late Vera Hines Kennedy of Washington. He is the grandson of the United Ambassador to Panama and Mrs. Frank T. Hines.

Officiating at the ceremony was Canon Albert H. Lucas of St. Alban's School, assisted by the Rev. Victor B. Stanley. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore ivory satin, trimmed with heirloom lace at the collar and wrists. Her double veil of ivory tulle was held by a headpiece of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of orchids, lilies-of-the-valley and stephanotis.

Miss Maryan Field, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore emerald green faille and carried a bouquet of red poinsettias matching her headpiece. Bridesmaids were Miss Joan Field, Miss Nancy Dignan, Miss Mary Brummer, Miss Sylvia Taylor, Miss Katherine Cottingham, Mrs. Robert Hunter and Miss Lee Johnston, stepsister of the bridegroom. They were attired in gold faille and their headpieces and bouquets were of English holly.

Mr. Kennedy was best man for his son. Ushering were John Bruner, John Pitts, Hayward Siddons, Elliott Middleton, Guillermo C. Sauchey, Benjamin Houston, George H. Goodrich, John F. Sane, Ferris Hamilton, and Stoddard P. Johnson.

Following a reception the newlyweds left for Coronado, Calif.

They will make their home in Boston where the bridegroom is a member of the junior class at Harvard Medical School. He is a graduate of St. Alban's School and Princeton University. The bride, now a student at Katherine Gibb's School in Boston, is a graduate of Miss Fine's School and Wellesley College.

Embassy Has Costume Dance

THE Argentine Embassy looked very "Mardi Gras" last evening for the masqued ball given by Senorita Elena Ivanissevich, daughter of the Ambassador and Senora de Ivanissevich. Over 300 young guests from the different embassies danced till the small hours.

There were two dance orchestras, one Latin and one American, and a floor show at midnight, while supper was served at small tables. The ballroom was decorated with balloons of every color and a variety of beautiful flowers.

The attractive young hostess did not receive with her parents, but mingled incognito with guests until time to unmask. Her costume was a copy of the white Grecian dress worn Rita Hayworth in "Down to Earth." After the unmasking, prizes were given to the best and funniest costumes.

Gleagan

A WHITE velvet gown, with hooped skirt, set off the brunette loveliness of Miss Betty Jeanne Harrell when she made her debut yesterday afternoon at a tea dance in the ballroom at the Shoreham Hotel. Her bouquet was a shower of white orchids, pinned to a velvet muff and her only jewelry was a diamond and amethyst lavalier, given her by her godmother, Mrs. Edward L. Morrison. Miss Harrell received with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph T. Harrell. This was the second presentation of the season for the deb, as she also bowed at the Junior Assembly ball at the Sulgrave Club on December 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Mowrer Entertain At Holiday Cocktail Party

DIPLOMATIC and official Washington was represented at the holiday cocktail party given yesterday at their residence by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Mowrer.

The British Ambassador and Lady Inverchapel were there, along with French Ambassador and Mme. Bonnet, the Brazilian Ambassador and Mme. Martins, accompanied by their daughter, Nora; the Chinese Ambassador and Mme. Koo, the Australian Ambassador and Mrs. Makin, the Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Belt, the Canadian Ambassador and Mrs. Wrong, the Netherlands Ambassador and Mme. Van Kleffens, the Iranian Ambassador and Mme. Ala, the Swiss Minister and Mme. Bruggman and the New Zealand Minister and Lady Berendsen.

Justice and Mrs. Harold Burton were in attendance, and the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Anderson. Among those from Capitol Hill were Senator and Mrs. Carl Hatch, Senator and Mrs. William Fulbright and Senator and Mrs. Brien McMahon.

Among others were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, Mrs. Eleanor de Bekessy, Sir John and Lady Balfour, M. and Mme. Constantine Fotich, Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Frederick Gould, Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins, Miss Carolyn Nash, Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Henderson and Mrs. Martin Vogel.

In addition were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Harkness, William Christian Bullitt, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Elliston, Mr. and Mrs. Barnet Nover, Mr. and Mrs. William Player, Mr. and Mrs. Andre Visson, Mr. and Mrs. Drew Pearson, Mrs. Tom Sturges, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cafritz, Mr. and Mrs. George Maurice Morris, Dr. Wilson Honeywell, Joseph Alsop, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, Mr. and Mrs. James Houghteling, John Thatcher, Mr. and Mrs. George Kennen and many more.

Lady Lewis Entertains For Miss Jan King

ANOTHER subdeb party yesterday evening was the dinner dance for Miss Jan King, given by her grandmother, Lady Lewis, at her home on Prospect ave. This is an annual holiday celebration for Miss King, daughter of Mrs. Eugene Harrison and the late Col. Charles B. King.

Holly and mistletoe branches, palm feathers flown from California especially for the affair and an elaborately bedecked Christmas tree gave the house an exciting Yuletide atmosphere More than 40 of Miss King's young friends attended.

Entertain the Young Folk

Debut Parties Fill Holiday Week

A DIZZY whirl of debuts, dinners and dances started off Christmas week for the young folk yesterday.

Vivacious Kathleen Rowe, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Dugan, was presented to society at a tea at the 1925 F Street Club; Miss Betty Jean Harrell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph T. Harrell, gave a tea dance at the Shoreham to introduce their daughter, and three girls who came out together at a dance at the Chevy Chase Club were Miss Frances Sternhagen, Miss Alison Bean and Miss Martha Crane.

Then there was the luncheon given jointly by Senator and Mrs. Bourke Hickenlooper for their daughter, Jane, and Mr. and Mrs. William G. Carter for their daughter, Ann. The two girls were graduated together from National Cathedral School.

White poinsettias and greens decorated the F Street Club for Miss Rowe's debut, and in this setting mother and daughter made a charming picture as they stood in the drawing room to welcome the guests. Miss Rowe wore a gown of white moire made with full skirt, a long-sleeved bodice which had a turned up collar and was fastened with tiny buttons down the front. She carried a bouquet of white roses and white carnations. Mrs. Dugan's gown was of real lace over pale pink, the skirt caught into a back fullness and fashioned with long close sleeves. She wore a cluster of violets.

The debutante dispensed with the services of assistants. Young friends from out-of-town who were there were Allen Wharton, Miss Betty Ann Levis and Miss Patricia Stewart, all of Philadelphia; Miss Dorsey Hovey and her brother, Richard Hovey, of Boston. Later Captain and Mrs. Dugan entertained at dinner at the Army and Navy Club for the young people.

Mrs. Dugan had asked to assist her at the tea table Mrs. Thomas Robbins, Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, Countess de Castellane, Mrs. George Maurice Morris and the Misses Mary and Elizabeth Howry.

MR. AND MRS. John M. Sternhagen, Mrs. Rodney Bean and Col. and Mrs. William C. Crane were in line with their daughters at the Chevy Chase Club as guests came on from dinner parties for the dance.

The three debs had been entertained at dinner by Judge and Mrs. J. Edgar Murdock.

All in white and each carrying a colonial bouquet, the debutantes were pretty as the proverbial pinks. Miss Sternhagen was in marquisette, her frock made with panniers spotted in gold and a detachable fichu about the square neck. Mrs. Sternhagen wore green brightened with rhinestones at the neckline; Mrs. Bean was in red silk jersey and Mrs. Crane's gown was of royal blue crepe with a hip bow of green. Martha Crane's frock was of layer upon layer of net with a silver lace bodice and white tulle fichu and Alison Bean wore bouffant tulle also.

Here for the party were Miss Audrey Rockefeller of Greenwich Conn., the guest of Miss Sternhagen; Miss Marianne Nash of Massachusetts, daughter of Bishop Norman D. Nash, and Miss Joan Pulling of Millbrook, N. Y., subdeb cousin of Miss Bean, and Miss Kathi Floete of Des Moines, who is visiting Miss Crane.

Miss Sternhagen, Miss Crane and Miss Bean all attended Madeira School and now are all at Vassar.

A PRETTY brunette dressed in hooped skirt white velvet, Miss Betty Jeanne Harrell made her debut yesterday afternoon in the ballroom of the Shoreham. She carried a white velvet muff pinned with a shower of white orchids, and around her neck she wore a diamond and amethyst lavalier given her by her godmother, Mrs. Edward L. Morrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph T. Harrell received with their daughter, who chose for her assistants, Miss Agnes Dun, Miss Edmonia Kearney, Miss Margaret Merriam and Miss Ethel Van Devanter, her Mount Vernon Seminary classmates.

Mrs. Harrell's assistants were Mrs. Morrison and Miss Anne Tuohy and those who presided at tea, Mrs. William E. Davis, Mrs. William A. Disque, Mrs. Eugene C. Gott, Mrs. Edward L. Hillyer, Mrs. Robert E. Kline, Mrs. John W. Townsend, Mrs. Thomas Wadden and Mrs. Emory A. Wheeler.

After the reception, the debutante's godmother gave a dinner in the Blue Room of the Shoreham for Miss Harrell and her assistants and their escorts. Mr. and Mrs. Harrell and several of their friends joined the group.

It was the second presentation for the bud, as she also bowed at the Junior Assembly ball at the Sulgrave on December 19. She is a direct descendant of Catherine Van Rensselaer Schuyler, youngest daughter of Gen. Phillip Schuyler and a godchild of George and Martha Washington. Miss Harrell is a senior at Mount Vernon Junior College.

Party Canceled

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Eden Norris have canceled the party they were to have given for the Princeton Triangle Club today, owing to illness in the family.

WHITE poinsettias and evergreens decorated the beautiful Georgian rooms of the 1925 F Street Club for the tea which Mrs. Thomas Dugan gave to introduce her daughter, Miss Kathleen Rowe. Parents Entertain for Subdebs At Dance at Sulgrave Club

JUNIOR subdebs took over the Sulgrave Club last evening at a dance given for them by their respective parents. Following a number of dinner parties, the younger set started dancing at 10 to the strains of Sidney's orchestra.

Invitations to the dance were issued by the Danish Ambassador and Mme. de Kauffmann in honor of their daughter, Lisa; Representative and Mrs. Robert Winthrop Kean for their daughter, Rose; Mrs. F. Hamilton McCormick-Goodhart for her daughter, Anstiss; Dr. and Mrs. Montgomery Blair for their daughter, Judith; Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Kent Legare for their daughter, Anne; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clement Watson for their daughter, Alice; Lady Welsh for her daughter, Miss Sharron Barbour, and the Rev. and Mrs. C. Leslie Glenn for their daughter, Margaret.

Among those who entertained at dinner beforehand were Dr. and Mrs. Leo Brison Norris in honor of their son, Charles Walter Norris, and Representative and Mrs. Kean for their daughter, Rose.

Miss Stokes Is Bride of Mr. Ketcham

Christ Church in Georgetown was the setting for the marriage yesterday of Miss Anne Phelps Stokes and Orman Weston Ketcham. The ceremony was performed by the bride's uncle, the Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes of Lenox, Mass., formerly canon of the Washington Cathedral. Assisting was the Rev. John R. Anschutz.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Phelps Stokes of Washington, and Mr. Ketcham is son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Seymour Ketcham of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown trimmed with old lace and an heirloom veil of rosepoint. Her bouquet was of orchids and lilies. Matrons of honor were the bride's sister, Mrs. Robert Bradshaw Hawkins of Kingsville, Tenn., and Mrs. Nicholas deB. Katzenbach of Oxford, England; Miss Margaret H. Edwards of Skylands, N. C., and Miss Joan Platt of New Canaan, Conn., were bridesmaids. All wore gold satin gowns and carried dark red roses matching their headpieces. Serving as best man was Giovanni W. Luzzatto, and ushering were William Putnam Bundy, Robert Bradshaw Hawkins, Robert P. Hazlehurst, jr., and David W. Swanson.

The bride is granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes and the late Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Wolcott King. She was graduated from St. Timothy's School and from Wellesley College. Mr. Ketcham was graduated from Brooklyn Polytechnic Preparatory School, Princeton University and Yale Law School, where he was book review editor of the Law Journal. During the war he served in the Navy, and at present is with the firm of Covington, Burling, Rublee, Acheson & Shorb in Washington.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda the newlyweds will reside in Washington.

Miss Sterling's Friends Entertained at Dinner

SEVERAL subdeb friends of Miss Frederica Sterling were entertained yesterday at a dinner party given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Sterling, at their home before the dance for the young people at Sulgrave Club.

Red candles and holly decorated the Sterling's Georgetown home on Prospect ave.

Envoy's Wife Expected

The wife of the Russian Ambassador, Mme. Ekaterina Panyushkin, is expected in Washington sometime in the middle of January. She will bring with her her youngest son, Igor, aged 10. A daughter, 19, and another son, 16, are remaining in Moscow.

Don't Treat Your Pet Like Stuffed Animal

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

I am happy to print this interesting letter about pets from the wife of a kennel keeper.

"I should like to have mothers consider some points in buying pets for children under 5 years," writes Mrs. C. S. "A child who has not had experience with pets does not realize that they can be hurt. He is inclined to treat them like a stuffed animal not knowing that a tug on an ear or tail is painful to a puppy. Mothers should supervise the play until the child has learned the puppy must be treated as a playmate not a plaything. We have also found that the small breeds of dogs are inclined to be cross and snappish with children, while larger breeds are good-natured. Tiny puppies, like tiny babies are upset by too much handling.

"In all the years we have been raising dogs we have never known a child contracting any kind of illness from them. About the only thing a child can catch is ringworm but this is not as common as is supposed among clean, healthy animals.

"When ringworm is detected a veterinarian can cure the animal quickly. Our children have seen puppies born, gained information about the mystery of birth and their thinking is clear and well informed about it. They have experienced the tragedy of seeing a well-loved pet die. They are daily acquiring attitudes of tolerance and kindness.

"And please tell mothers not to be alarmed if a puppy gets excited and attempts a bite. They use their teeth as babies use their hands, to explore. Occasionally, a puppy may snap and if the teeth puncture the skin it is not a whit more dangerous than any other scratch. Wash it with soap and water and use a mild antiseptic."

Your Questions On Homemaking

How can I keep the hollow stem of wine glasses clean? M. H.

Wrap cotton around the end of a wire or stick long enough to reach to the bottom of the glass. Put soap on the cotton and use it to wash out the hollow stem. It is most important that these glasses be rinsed as soon as they are used to prevent the wine evaporating and hardening on the stem surface. If you do not plan to wash them immediately after using, fill them with water and let stand until you're ready to wash them.

I have two glass bottles (old) but only one stopper and would like to match it. It is a cork covered with a sterling silver cap which is an inch long and approximately an inch in diameter across the top. The cork simply fits into the silver cap and extends out long enough to fit the bottle top. Do any of your readers have such a "stopper" or do you know where one can be obtained? M. R. T.

Your best chance of securing a stopper for the old glass bottle is to call or visit antique shops which carry glass. One such shop in Georgetown tells me that there is a shortage of such stoppers just now, but it is hoped a shipment will arrive soon. You might secure one by calling a shop of this kind from time to time.

Could you suggest a book on good grooming, care of teeth, hair, fingernails, etc., and if possible, hints on how to dress neatly and properly, for an 11-year-old child? E. C. L.

"Lessons in Loveliness" by Judith Unger Scott, published by Macrae Smith Co., Philadelphia, is a book on grooming written on the 'teen-age level and I'm sure would be understandable for an 11-year-old.

Can you give me one or more addresses where hand-knit clothing for children and infants can be marketed? The articles are beautifully made and the lady who knits them can supply in fair sized quantity. M. R. T.

I would suggest you contact the buyers in gift shops which sell hand made articles. One such shop is on Prince Street in your area, Alexandria. It can be reached at Alexandria 8585. This shop sells hand made garments for children and suggests that you bring samples of the work and visit the buyer of the shop. This shop does not sell on commission, but buys outright.

Will you publish a recipe for French apple pie—the kind with sweet pastry crusts and icing. My husband claims it is his favorite pie, but I and my cookbooks have never heard of it before. M. P.

The following recipe for French apple pie has a sweet crust but no icing. Perhaps you can use it to make one similar to the kind your husband liked:

First, prepare Galette dough by the following recipe:

1 cup bread flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
6 tablespoons butter
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon water
1½ tablespoons lemon juice

Sift flour before measuring, then resift with other dry ingredients. Work the butter in with a pastry blender. Beat the egg yolk, water, and lemon juice, then work it into the other ingredients with the fingers.

Chill the dough thoroughly. Then roll or pat until the dough is ⅛ inch thick. Place it in the bottom of a 9x12-inch pan. Chill well, then cover closely with peeled, cored, and quartered apples. Sprinkle them with ¼ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, and ¼ cup melted butter. Bake the pie in a hot oven (450 degrees) for about 10 minutes. Reduce the heat and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) until the apples are tender and the crust is crisp.

A vegetable was burned in my aluminum pan and all efforts to remove the stain have proved useless. What do you suggest? Also, is there any other way to brighten the inside of my pressure cooker besides with steel wool? G. W. W.

You should be able to remove the stains from the aluminum pan by boiling a cream of tartar solution (two teaspoons cream of tartar to each quart of water) or vinegar in the utensil. If the pressure cooker is made of aluminum, this same method can be used to brighten it.

A SOUP WITH FLAVOR—plus proteins—is this one made with peanut butter and tomato juice. Here's how to make it:

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 onion, chopped
2 cups tomato juice
2 tablespoons flour
1 quart milk
4 tablespoons peanut butter
Salt and pepper to taste

Melt butter and add chopped onion. Cook onion until tender, then add flour and blend thoroughly. Stir in milk and cook until slightly thick. Combine peanut butter and tomato juice and stir into milk mixture. Bring just to a boil, then serve

Peach Delicacy Makes Delicious Holiday Dessert

Peach Date Almond Torte is a delicacy that is best served slightly warm with a creamy peach sauce. For enough to serve 8 or 9 persons, use the following recipe:

2/3 cup sliced canned peaches
2/3 cup pitted dates
1/3 cup sifted all-purpose flour
¾ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
½ cup granulated sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
½ cup chopped roasted unblanched almonds.

Chop peaches and dates. Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt, and add to fruit. Separate eggs. Beat yolks and gradually beat in sugar. Add flavoring. Stir in fruit-flour mixture. Fold in egg whites, beaten until stiff. Pour into greased pan (about 8x8 inches), sprinkle top with almonds. Bake in moderately slow oven (325°F) about 35 minutes. Serve with sauce made as follows:

1 cup canned peach syrup
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup granulated sugar
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup sliced canned peaches
½ cup whipping cream

Heat peach syrup, add cornstarch, salt, sugar, and spice, and cook and stir until clear and thickened. Remove from heat, add well-drained peaches, and cool. Just before serving, fold in cream whipped until stiff.

Leave Root With Onion

When cutting a large onion with the intention of using just part of it, cut it so the remaining piece contains the root. Then the onion will not dry out so soon and may be saved a day or so for further use.

Romance in the Air

Genial Sir William Welsh And Elysabeth C. Barbour Are Married in Connecticut

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

ONE OF THE Capital's loveliest, unattached ladies returned yesterday with a brand new husband. She was Mrs. Elysabeth Carrere Barbour, and quietly, on December 19 in Norfolk, Conn., she married Sir William Welsh. Lady Welsh, who is tall, dark, wonderfully soignee, is a daughter of the late William Carrere, a member of Carrere and Hastings, one of this country's most distinguished architectural firms. Her first husband, whom she divorced shortly before his death, was jumbo-size Senator Warren Barbour of New Jersey.

Air Marshal Sir William Welsh was stationed in Washington during 1944 and 1945 as head of the Royal Air Force Delegation and RAF representative on the Combined Chiefs of Staff. One of the most genial, popular of the military bigwigs who swarmed in wartime Washington, his less respectful American admirers (feminine) nicknamed him "Chubby-cheeks."

Sir William started out in the navy, switched to air during the first World War. Later he became member of the Air Council and also held down the air member for supply and organization in the RAF. He retired from the armed forces after leaving Washington, went into the Ministry of Civil Aviation. Now Sir William is planning to become an American citizen and remain here.

WHILE SUCH a cheerful subject as romance is quivering in the air, it is nice to note that. the British Military Attache, Col. G. E Prior-Palmer, D. S. O., left today for London and his wedding. He is to be married January 9 to Lady Doreen Hope, a daughter of Lord Linlithgow, Viceroy of India for eight years and now head of the Midland Bank. Though the colonel, who is a noted polo player, was stationed in India and has known Lord Linlithgow many years, he actually met his bride-to-be in Germany. He was commander in Hanover (Sir Gordon Macready, so well liked in Washington, succeeded him) when Lady Doreen came out with a group of YWCA girls to run a canteen. Colonel Prior-Palmer and his lady will return some time in February.

THE INDUSTRIOUS theatergoer has been treated to some startling contrasts at the Lisner Auditorium this past week. On Saturday the Moral Rearmament Group presented a musical show called "The Good Road." Moral Rearmament forbids the use of makeup.

So the capable amateur cast cavorted under the spotlights, their faces drained of any trace of color, like a bunch of live spooks. It left the more materialistic members of the audience (among the crowd many Washington familiars clutching at Moral Rearmament as a possible anti-Communist force) far at sea. For "The Good Road" depicted family bickerings, farmers' quarrels, labor and industry troubles realistically, then, for some inexplicable reason, all concerned turned palsy-walsy in a rather frightening more of sweetness and light.

Sunday night Harvard's Hasty Pudding boys took over in "Here's the Pitch," a nicely ribald show, the chorus "girls" rouged to the nines, padded in the "right" places. Again Washington familiars filled the seats relaxed, with not a care in the world. It was a heartening holiday contrast!

Harris and Ewing

A SIMPLE, late afternoon tea at the home of their parents, Capt. and Mrs. Delmar S. Fahrney, served to introduce these two young debutantes to Washington society. Silvia Brull Is Betrothed

The Cuban Minister to Canada and Senora De Brull announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Silvia, to Robert Walter Zimmermann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clemence R. Zimmerman of Minneapolis.

The bride-elect attended Mac-Jannet American School and Cours Villiers in Paris and Lycee Chateaubriand in Rome, and the Universities of Brussels and Havana. She was presented to society in Brussels shortly before the war. For several years she was a popular member of the young diplomatic set here when her father served as Counselor at the Cuban Embassy.

Mr. Zimmermann was graduated from the University of Minnesota and Harvard School of Business Administration. During the war he served for four years in the Navy. He is now with the State Department and has been assigned to the American Embassy in Lima, Peru, where he will shortly take up his duties as Third Secretary.

The wedding will take place Saturday, December 27.

Democratic Woman's Club Hears Report on German War Trials

By Genevieve Reynolds

Miss Belle Mayer, assistant prosecutor of the Nuernberg Trials, yesterday cited the I. G. Farben Co. as symbolic of the war role played by all large industrial and business firms in Germany.

Guest speaker at the Woman's National Democratic Club's luncheon, she said, "German industrialists are an example of aggressive management which disregarded all human values and committed itself to a program for world domination."

Describing her impression of the German industrialists whom she saw on trial in Nuernberg, Miss Mayer explained, "They look like and act like businessmen but they were in fact the principal advocates and planners of German military conquest. They were the boys who put mass murder on a sound industrial basis and brought all effective techniques of scientific management to the business of killing human beings."

Pointing out that while the Nuernberg trials are less spectacular than the atomic bomb, she insisted that they are no less important and revolutionary because for the first time in history men are being tried for starting wars. "Not just political figure heads like Hitler and Goerring and carwho put Hitler in power and carried out his onslaught against civilization," she asserted.

Mrs. Norman Littell, program chairman, introduced the speaker and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, president, presided.

Club Federation Gets Favorable Replies

Several congressional leaders have voiced approval of the D. C. Federation of Women's Club's criticism on the report of the President's Civil Rights Committee, according to Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, legislative chairman of the local federation.

Reporting at the organization's business session yesterday morning, she pointed out that copies of the federation's resolution, passed last month opposing the President's Civil Rights Committee's report on conditions in the District, has been sent to all members of Congress. "Many favorable replies registering favorable comment have been received," said Mrs. Wiley.

Mrs. Wiley also stated that the federation's request to the District Commissioners to prevent the service of liquor to minors was acted on favorably December 16 when the commissioners amended the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act barring drinking of liquor or beer in public taverns by minors under 18 years of age under any circumstances.

At the afternoon meeting members heard the Rev. Dr. J. Warren Hastings, pastor of the National City Christian Church, speak on "The American Home," in a program arranged by Mrs. Otto Hummerlund, chairman of the Department of the American Home.

Homemade cakes, cookies and candy, made from recipes of colonial days, will be a feature of the card party to be given by the District of Columbia Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, for the benefit of the State Current Fund, on January 17, at 2 p. m: and 8 p. m. in the Chapter House, 1732 Massachusetts ave. Refreshments will be served by Junior members.

Mrs. Wilfred J. Clearman, State regent, has appointed Mrs. R. Winston Holt, State librarian, as chairman of the event. Vice chairmen include Mrs. David L. Wells, State vice regent; Miss Mildred Carter Sherman, State recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph Alfred Richards, State treasurer; Mrs. Allen Robert Wrenn, president, Chapter Regents' Club; nad Mrs. Carl H. Giroux, regent of Potomac Chapter. Mrs. Leonard Mayfield is in charge of reservations. Tickets are available through the committee, and chapter regents.

The students of the Americanization School, 10th and H sts. nw., were guests of the Americanism Committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution at a Christmas party at the school on Monday, at 1:30 p. m. Christmas carols from many lands were sung. Decorations and refreshments were in keeping with the holiday spirit.

Special guests were Mrs. Rex Rhoades, treasurer-general; Mrs. Wilfred J. Clearman, regent, District of Columbia, DAR, and other State officers. Mrs. Thomas B. Dimmick, Americanism chairman, was in charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. A. J. Kress, Mrs. Lovina E. Opdycke, and Mrs. James W. Butler.

Paper Will Help in Cleaning Job

When baking fish, fit a heavy brown paper over the bottom and sides of the baking pan and grease it well. Lay the fish on the paper and when done remove the paper and slide the fish onto a platter with a cake turner. The pan will be as clean as can be and free from odor.

Woman Would Spend Her Last Cent, Do Anything At All for Her Sister's Four Lovely Children; But Her Hospitable Offers Are Always Rebuffed

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Here is my problem. I have a married sister, I'll call her Dora, who has four lovely children. There isn't anything I wouldn't do for any of them. I would spend my last cent to give them anything they want.

Yet if I ask Dora's permission to take them on vacation, she always refuses with one excuse or another, saying they're tired, need to stay on schedule, etc.

On the other hand, I have a second, sister at home who has been given the privilege of taking the children on vacation several times, and this discrimination has hurt me deeply, as my second sister knows.

Consequently we are asking you to discuss the matter in such a way as to acquaint Dora with her mistake in never giving me permission to take the children on vacation. Please answer soon.

E. G.

Children Should Be Spared Doting

DEAR E. G.: Real love of children, constructively expressed, doesn't take the form of spendthrift surrender to their relish for novelty, nor does it consist in knocking one's self out in any particular, trying by servile tactics to please them.

Rather the good parent or parent-substitute, instinctively aware of children's need to feel secure in a safe small world, gives them first of all the quieting experience of wise firm handling which confines their activities to a familiar routine insofar as possible.

This procedure conserves their energy, eliminates the nervous tension of uncertainty about "what comes next," fosters contentment with simple things and thus clears ground for leisurely integrated growth of body, mind and soul in early years—when growth on various fronts of personality tends to be uneven and sporadic at best.

Moreover, children thrive in relation to solid restraining authority, provided it is kindly, self-confident, explicit and predictable.

Mother's Policy Seems Justified

INSTINCTIVELY they respect, trust and feel most comfortable with adults who rule from above, so to speak; who can divine their motives and speak their language as necessary, but who stay in character—i. e., don't behave as one child to another, nor, conversely, encourage the child in precocity—in mutual dealings.

All of which is preliminary to saying that your excessively doting attitude towards Dora's children is probably the very reason why she shields them from large doses of it.

The fact that you'd spend your last cent to give them anything they want, and that there isn't a thing you wouldn't do for them, certainly signifies that they might run wild and be precariously spoiled—creating a plague of subsequent difficulties for themselves and their parents—if you had the privilege of taking them off on holiday junkets.

Doubtless the second sister's temperament and psychological approach to child-care are quite different from yours and healthier for youngsters, from Dora's seasoned viewpoint. At any rate, that's how I interpret her policy which hurts your feelings, and I see no reason to lecture her for it, if her conscientious central purpose is to safeguard the children's welfare—and I think it is. M. H.

The Cadet Chapel at United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., was the scene of the wedding at 4 yesterday afternoon of Miss Ann Stonemetz, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Philip Thayer Stonemetz of Dover, N. H., and Lieut. Selby Francis Little, jr., USA, son of Col. and Mrs. Little, sr., of Alexandria, Va.

Chaplain Frank E. Pulley officiated and the bride's father gave her in marriage. A reception was held at the West Point Army Mess.

The bride wore candlelight satin fashioned with high, round neckline and a bodice of heirloom lace over satin. Her veil of illusion extended from a tiara of old lace and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

Miss Theresa Little of Alexandria was maid of honor, in royal blue crepe with matching headdress. She carried American beauty roses. The bridesmaids, Mrs. John Carpenter Raaen, jr., of West Point and Miss Margaret Parker of Alexandria, were similarly dressed in royal blue crepe and carried American beauty roses.

The bridegroom's father was best man and the ushers were Lieut. Donald Krause, Capt. John Carpenter Raaen, jr., Lieut. Stanley Warfield Crosby, jr., Lieut. Robert McCord, Lieut. George Maloney and Lieut. William West, all of Fort Riley, Kans.

After a Southern wedding trip, Lieutenant Little will take his bride to live at Fort Benning, Ga.

Mrs. Little was graduated from St. Agnes School in Alexandria, Va., and Lieutenant Little was a member of the West Point graduating class of 1947.

Casteen—Brownsberger

The marriage of Miss Barbara Mae Brownsberger, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John F. Brownsberger of Silver Spring, Md., to Charles B. Casteen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Casteen of Wilmington, N. C., took place last evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Takoma Park Seventh-Day Adventist Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory satin, with a tulle veil and a tiara of seed pearls. Her bouquet was of white roses, with an orchid center.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Ralph Muckley of Jackson, Miss., was attired in gold taffeta and carried talisman roses. The bridesmaids, wearing aqua taffeta and carrying red roses, were Mrs. Arnalde Schwantes of Indianapolis, Ind., sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Evan Richards of Chattanooga, Tenn., cousin of the bride. Best man was Arnaldo Schwantes, and ushers included Carl Brownsberger, Bernard Reid and Doyle Mullinax.

After a wedding trip to New York, the couple will reside in Takoma Park. Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Washington Missionary College, Takoma Park. Mr. Casteen also attended Southern Missionary College, Tenn. The bride attended the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital School of Nursing, where a reception was held following the ceremony.

Suter—Phillips

Miss Angela Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Phillips of New York, and Richard Sturgis Suter, son of the Rev. John W. Suter, dean of the Episcopal Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul in Washington, and of Mrs. Suter, were married at 4 Saturday afternoon in the Church of the Epiphany in New York.

The ceremony was performed by Dean Suter, assisted by the Rev. Hugh McCandless, rector of the Church of the Epiphany in the presence of the families and intimate friends. A reception followed at Hotel Westbury.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Marion Phillips, as maid of honor and John W. Suter, jr., of Detroit, was best man. The ushers included James P. Gallatin, Edward Cholmeley Jones and James Blackman, all of New York, and Armistead B. Rood, of Washington.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. A. Lawrence Phillips of New York and the late Mr. Phillips and of Mrs. Ernest Fahnestock of Rumson, N. J., and the late Edward Perry. She attended Miss Chapin's School in New York; the Wykeham-Rise School in Washington, Conn., and Skidmore College.

Mr. Suter is a grandson of Mrs William C. Sturgis of Boston and Annasquan, Mass., and the late Mr. Sturgis. An alumnus of Harvard, he has resumed post-graduate study at Columbia University. During the war he served with the Army Air Forces and later with G-2 of the Twelfth Army Group in the Normandy invasion and German campaign.

Mr. and Mrs. Suter will reside in New York.

Weinstein—Fox

The marriage of Miss Bernice Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fox of 2212 W. Rogers ave., Baltimore, Md., to Dr. Jacob Joseph Weinstein of Washington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Easrile A. Weinstein of Baltimore, Md., took place Sunday at the Eutaw Place Temple in Baltimore. Rabbi Abraham Shaw and Cantor Benjamin Grebani officiated. A reception and dinner at Hotel Emerson followed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a long-sleeved candlelight satin gown, with an appliqued lace neckline. The full length lace veil fell into the satin train of the dress. She carried a cascade of gardenias.

Mrs. Jerome J. Schweizer, sister of the groom, was matron of honor. She wore an emerald green satin off-the-shoulder gown with a small train, and carried a bouquet of brandywine roses.

Dr. Samuel L. Fox, brother of the bride, was best man. The ushers were Jack C. Sahm, Louis Sahm of Baltimore, Jerome J. Schweizer, Dr. Harold Sterling, Dr. Lester Blumenthal, Dr. Lester L. Burtnick, Dr. Joseph Beinstein and Dr. I. Philip Frohman of Washington. James Michael Feldstein was ring bearer.

Mrs. Weinstein is a graduate of Goucher College, Baltimore, and former student of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery. Dr. Weinstein is a graduate of the University of Maryland Medical School. He is now associated with the teaching staff of the George Washington University Medical School and is attending surgeon at Gallinger Municipal Hospital and George Washington Hospital. He is also cosuthor of a book, "Blood Derivatives and Substitutes," which was recently published by the Williams & Wilkins Co. of Baltimore, Md.

Dr. and Mrs. Weinstein are going to New York City, then on a Carribbean cruise. Upon their return, they will motor through the South to Florida, New Orleans and Cuba. They will be at home at 1611 Park rd. nw. after February 1, 1948.

Friedman—Platzer

Miss Maxine Phyllis Platzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Platzer of 737 Park ave., New York, was married Sunday to Richard Stanley Friedman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin D. Friedman of Washington, in New York. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Milton Stienberg and Dr. David Putterman of the Park Avenue Synagogue in the ballroom of Hotel Pierre. A reception and dinner dance followed.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin period gown trimmed with a bertha of Venetian lace and seed pearls. Her veil of illusion was attached to a matching coronet of lace and she carried a spray of calla lilies.

Miss Ann Friedman of Washington, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, and Mrs. N. Gilbert Matlow of Syracuse, N. Y., an aunt of the bride, was matron of honor. Both wore ice-blue satin brocaded gowns and carried semi-crescents of pink camelias.

David J. Platzer, brother of the bride, was best man and the ushers were Earl Lipnick of Norfolk, Va., and Stephen I. Kaplan of Washington.

Mrs. Friedman attended Woodmere Academy and was graduated from Highland Manor, West Long Branch, N. J. She attended Syracuse University. She is a member of Sigma Sigma sorority. Mr. Friedman attended Staunton Military Academy and is now a student of University of Virginia where he is a member of the Jefferson Society and Pi Delta Epsilon fraternity. He served during the war overseas with the infantry and with the Office of Strategic Services.

After a wedding trip to Phoenix, Ariz., Mr. and Mrs. Friedman will reside in Charlottesville, Va., where both will resume their studies.

Operation Changes Wedding Plans

Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 22 (AP).—Appendicitis put a crimp in their plans for a West Virginia wedding, so Edward B. Roberts and Patricia Ann Lynch will try again—but in Maryland.

As Patricia, a Charles Town, W. Va., school teacher, and the preacher waited for Roberts a few days ago, he was being rushed to a hospital for an operation.

Roberts, a resident of Shepherdstown, W. Va., says the wedding has been rescheduled for January and will take place here.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Maybe They Were Playing With a Pinochle Deck

This guy Leonard Lyons, who lives in the apartment below, writes a pretty fair column.

But I suspect that he's a lousy poker player. I'd like to get him on the proverbial slow boat to China.

The other day Leonard used a story about a guy who found himself in a poker game with a team of sharpies.

After the proper build-up they set the stage for the big pot. The sucker was dealt four aces, and was supposed to bet his head off. Then one of the fleecers would draw one card to fill a royal flush, which would take the pot.

But the suspicious "sucker" turned the tables by throwing away two of his aces and drawing three cards.

His slick maneuver changed the order of the draw in the stacked deck and the crooked gambler failed to fill the royal flush. So the pair of aces won.

A very neat story, except for one thing: How can one player hold four aces while another holds a royal flush—which also requires the presence of an ace?

ADD SIGNS

Mrs. Eli Luria of 4457 N. 20th rd., Arlington, Va., reports that a sign on Wisconsin ave. reads:

"Free Parking for Christmas Trees."

HARK!

What a wonderful group of carolers could be formed of the 18 Angels listed in the phone book.

The leader of such a group would obviously have to be a Washington Post employe—Charles Paradise.

ADD NAMES

The parade of strange place-names continues unabated.

William F. Wiseman of 3820 S. 9th st., Arlington, Va., starts us off with:

Loco, Okla.; Soldier, Iowa; Bright Star, Ark., and three Alabama towns named Pine Apple, Turn Round, and Sunny South.

Mrs. M. Miller wonders whether we've ever heard of Plain Dealing, La.; Sleepy Eye, Minn., or Novelty and Opportunity, which are both to be found in the State of Washington.

Mary Anne Pyne is partial to a town in Boone County, Ky. Its name is Rabbit Hash.

Lillian Kalil of the Dorchester House confides that St. Nicholas is in Florida. So is Christmas.

Some other names from that State are equally interesting. They're: Two Egg, Rattlesnake, Double Sink, and Sweet Gum Head.

Not to be outdone, L. C. Prell of 400 N. Frederick st., Arlington, Va., tosses a Texas name into the hopper. It's Muleshoe.

Mrs. Marie T. Harris of 724 Gist st., Silver Spring, Md., says that in the Ozark foothills of Arkansas there are three small hamlets within 7 miles of each other. They are:

Rosebud, Romance and Joy.

And Paulina Friedland of 5529 Hawthorne pl. nw. extends our little game south of the border, into El Salvador.

PIED TYPE DEPT.

Joan McIntyre of 4 W. Underwood st., Chevy Chase, Md., calls attention to the fact that last Thursday's Washington Post printed the Wednesday radio log.

"Gosh," exclaims Joan. "What happened?"

Stripped of its technical language, Joan, the explanation is quite simple. We pulled a boner.

But so long as human beings must make mistakes, I prefer the kind that give us a smile—like the one submitted by Dot W. Davis of 215 S. Lee st., Alexandria, Va.

From the classified columns of an Alexandria paper (thank goodness it wasn't us this time) she forwards:

FOR SALE—1940 Ford 3-door. Radio and heater, original black paint; good condition. $8500.

Or perhaps you prefer this one, sent in by E. J. Schmid of 939 I st. nw.

"On Tuesday, Judge Marbury fined six gambling defendants and sent one to pall for six months."

District Liner Schmid wisecracks? "Isn't that rather close confinement?"

All of which reminds me of a classic example of the embarrassment which can be caused by typographical errors.

It concerns the newspaper which attempted to describe an old Confederate soldier as a "battle-scarred veteran."

Unfortunately the printed story read "bottle-scarred veteran," and the gentleman in question was understandably annoyed. Hastily, the paper ran this correction:

"... We regret that a typographical error caused us to refer to him as 'bottle-scarred.' What we meant to say was 'battle-scared.'"

OPPORTUNITY FOR BRIGHT YOUNG LADY

If you don't read The Washington Post classified ads, you don't know what you're missing.

Mrs. Sophie Goldman of 3048 Blaine st. ne. forwards the following clipping, which is reprinted in its entirety:

TWO OR THREE Bachelors. Attractive, moderately priced. Oil, steam, hot air heat 6 rms.

Had it been listed in the "Miscellaneous for Sale" category, it would have created a sensation. Prosaically enough, however, the ad ran under the heading "Apartments, Furnished."

NEW WORDS DEPT.

Mrs. Gay Faulkner of 3623 Minnesota ave. se., the District Liner who inaugurated our New Words Dept., forwards some new contributions:

Schedyule — A Christmas schedule.

Enginuity—Skill with engines.

Trainsportation — Rail transportation.

Dimanished — Lessening of manpower.

Conviviyule—Too much eggnog.

Leonard Lyons . . .

PAUL LUKAS was in Germany a few weeks ago, making "Berlin Express." At Bad Nauheim he swapped some cartons of cigarets for a reconverted Luftwaffe radio, a unique short-wave set whose dials were marked Moscow, Tokyo, London, Paris, New York, Buenos Aires, etc. He induced Robert Ryan to bring the large radio back to New Jersey on the Queen Mary. Lukas paid the customs duty, then flew it to Hollywood—paying the overweight charges—and set it up in his home . . . He then had a premiere party for the radio, assembled the guests, set the dial at Moscow, turned the radio on—and heard the Madman Muntz radio show from Los Angeles.

After January 1 there will be an announcement of the formation of the Committee to Arm the Jews of Palestine, headed by Dean Alfange, with Senator Wagner as honorary chairman. The committee will request the lifting of the embargo on arms to the Middle East, as a means of implementing the U. N. partition of Palestine . . . John Gunther spent the last few weeks in Washington collecting material for his "Inside Washington" and data for the next editions of his "Inside U. S. A.". The revised edition will be in four volumes—"Inside U. S. A., North, South, East and West" . . . Henry Wallace and Michael Straight are disagreeing on a third party.

The Petrillo ban on recordings, which becomes effective January 1, was responsible last week for the fastest composing-recording job in the history of songwriting. Tuesday night, Howard Dietz and Arthur Schwartz were discussing the songs they're writing for "Inside U. S. A." At 5 p. m. an idea for a new song came to them. At 7 p. m. they started to write it. Two hours later "Protect Me" was finished . . . Wednesday morning they showed the song to Manny Sacks of Columbia Records. By lunch-time he had Pearl Bailey ready to sing it. And at 5 p. m., 24 hours after the song was born, Miss Bailey completed the recording.

Bing Crosby's New Year Eve program—the transcribed show which will have to become a live show because of Petrillo's decision—will open with Crosby sighing: "Ah, but this is a grim moment."

H. L. Mencken dined with George Jean Nathan at Luchow's. The proprietor recognized them as old and valued clients and assigned his best crew to cater to their needs. The special dishes they ordered were served exactly as they wished them. The drinks were exactly what they wanted, and always arrived promptly . . . "There must be something else," Mencken mused, and he and Nathan pondered. Mencken hit upon it; he told the headwaiter: "That painting of a battleship. It's awful. I don't like it" . . . The headwaiter reported to the proprietor, who issued a command, and within five minutes the painting—Luchow's No. 1 exhibit, which had been hanging there since 1882—was taken down and stored away.

Bricker Bucks Builders

By Drew Pearson

Notes from the Ninety-seventh Senator—My colleagues on the Senate Banking and Currency Committee still can't believe their ears, but good old Senator John Bricker of Ohio took a stand against the real estate lobby the other day. John, of course, was elected partly through his financial friend, John Galbreath of Columbus, the high mogul of the Ohio Real Estate Association. Galbreath even got Senator Bricker a job as director of the Buckeye State Building and Loan Co.

John W. Bricker

However, at a closed-door meeting of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, Bricker surprised everyone by saying that some builders were overestimating the sales price of homes built under Section VI of the National Housing Act. In this way they were able to get more than the 90 per cent mortgage insurance provided under the law.

"What this means is that the Government, in some instances, is insuring the profits of builders in addition to actual construction costs," Bricker declared. "Something ought to be done about it."

Chairman Charles Tobey of New Hampshire, a pioneer battler for veterans' housing, readily agreed. So did our friend, Ralph Flanders of Vermont. He is chairman of a Senate subcommittee that recently surveyed living costs in Eastern States, and informed us that in some cases builders were being guaranteed almost 100 per cent mortgage insurance on new homes.

For instance, a builder estimates that a house he plans to build will sell for $9000. If this estimate is approved by the Federal Housing Administration, the Government will insure a bank mortgage on the home up to $8100, or 90 per cent. Later, when the home is completed, the builder and FHA appraisers determine that the original estimate was too high and that the builder can sell the home for only $8100, and still make a fair profit.

The home is sold at this price, but the original mortgage value is kept so that the American taxpayers—through FHA—guarantee the full sales price of $8100, instead of 90 per cent, or $7290. In other words, not only the actual construction costs are insured by the Government, but the builder's profits, normally about 10 per cent.

Senator Tobey finally offered an amendment to the million-dollar insurance bill to correct this abuse.

Lunching With Egyptian

Dropping in at a private luncheon of Congressmen the other day I was interested in the troubles of Mohammed Heykel Pasha, president of the Egyptian Senate. Some of us entertained him at lunch.

One trouble is that Egypt wants to sell long-staple cotton to the United States. Another is that Egypt wants Britain out of the Sudan. The cotton problem, which is the cornerstone of Egyptian economy, was the most pressing. Soberly Senator Mohammed Heykel Pasha described Egypt's need for dollar credit, assured that long-staple cotton, being a different product, would not compete with American-grown cotton.

"Long-staple cotton is the lifeblood of Egypt," he declared. Then he added, with a twinkle in his dark eyes, "We could buy American automobiles if we could find a market here."

Congressman Dewey Short of Missouri brought up the question of the Sudan. He asked Heykel Pasha how long it would take to prepare the Sudan for self-government.

"The British have estimated 25 years for the north and 50 years for the south," replied the Egyptian. "I would say it depends upon their progress in production, education and public health."

No matter how long it takes, he suggested that the British move out and turn the Sudan over to the United Nations.

Sam Rayburn's Varied Friends

Only the Texans talk about it, but good old Sam Rayburn is in for reelection trouble. Already the power lobby in Texas is sharpening up its knives for Sam's defeat.

One unique thing about the former Speaker is that during his long years as amiable czar of the House of Representatives, he always picked members of the Rules Committee who would vote for tax loopholes for the oil companies.

Sam was determined the oil companies should get 27 per cent depreciation allowance and also be able to write off all their losses on drilling and exploration.

That is why the oil companies today get more generous tax treatment than any other business group in the country. Nobody knew it outside a few of Sam's cronies.

The former Speaker was not so charitable with the power companies. In fact, he was the author of some of the toughest Roosevelt bills regulating the power companies.

156 in our Washington Store and 116 in Silver
Spring . . . are alerted to serve you.
Time's short but no matter how long your list,
we're ready with Christmas glamour presents galore.
So . . . be an angel . . .
even at this last minute . . . don't forget anyone!
To give your present the final fillip of excitement, we'll gift-box it beautifully without charge . . . or for something unusually colorful and charming,
our famous Martha Jean Gift-Wrapping
Service is yours for a nominal fee.
